FACING DEATH

Marin Reflects The Trend

By MARLENE FREEDMAN
(First of four articles)

Marin County is starting to talk openly about something that has long been avoided as a topic. Death.

Reflecting a nationwide trend, Marin doctors, psychiatrists, clergy and scholars are acknowledging and studying the phenomenon of death.

"It's like sex", observes a sociologist. "Until recently, it wasn't socially acceptable to talk about. Now we talk quite openly about sex. It's the same with death."

A concerned minister devoted an entire sermon to death and dying. He told his congregation, "We can never fully come to terms with our living if we do not also come to terms with the reality of our own death."

A doctor who has dealt with life and death in his office for 15 years muses, "My patients and I have a sort of unspoken agreement. 'I know I'm going to die' they almost say,' but don't tell me. I don't want to hear it."

A scholar scans his growing library of literature on death, dying and grief and concludes: "We know so little about death because we've never been there. We can't talk about it knowledgably because we don't know what it's like to be dead."

Marin has 1300 to 1500 deaths a year, according to the county coroner's office.

Each one has psychological, economic and emotional repercussions that extend from the family unit outward into society.

Some are so-called natural deaths, some the results of accidents and some are suspected or confirmed suicides.

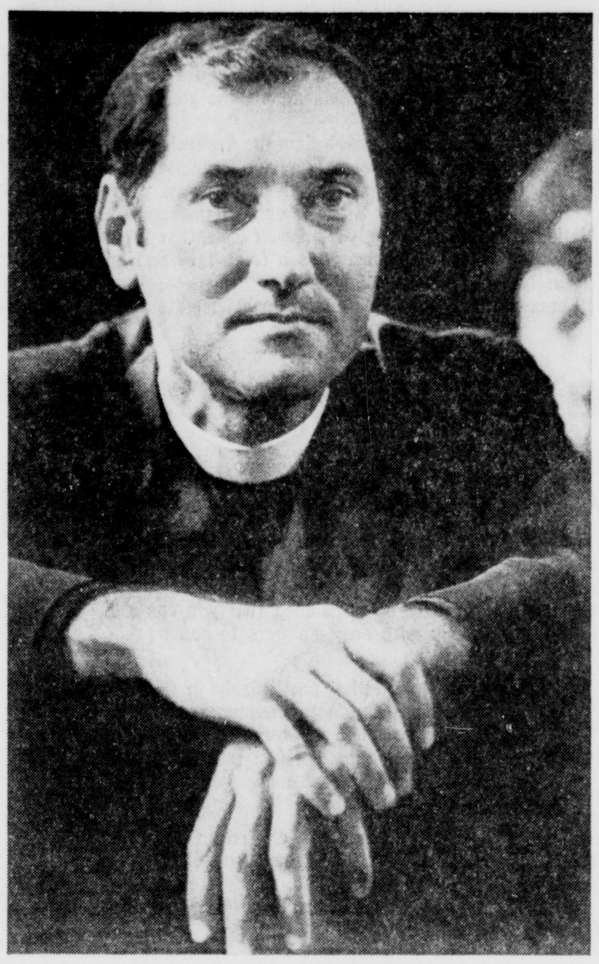

Marin changes with each and every death. And yet, until recently, it wasn't talked about, wasn't thought about, wasn't studied.

It just happened behind a curtain of silence.

Terminal patients dreaded it . . . elderly citizens feared it . . . those in pain welcomed it . . . and others ignored it.

Then, gradually, it began to infiltrate literature. Abortion, euthanasia, organ transplants, new surgery techniques, immortality were more and more in the news.

Medical science was rushing towards perfection and many fooled themselves into believing death was being conquered.

REV. JOHN S. THORNTON
"We sooner or later have to contemplate our own death. I thought there must be some preparation."

Why concern oneself when soon it will be a thing of the past?

Then, President Kennedy was assassinated, ushering in an age of political assassination and young children began to ask about death. "Will I die, too", they asked themselves for the first time. And they asked their parents, forcing them into confronting their own deaths for the first time.

"Children can't accept death nowadays because they don't see it", says a doctor who has thought about it at length. "Fifty years ago, children were brought up in the same house with their parents and their grandparents. When their grandparents died, it was at home before their eyes, so they saw death as they grew up and they accepted it. Now, the trend is towards hospitals and convalescent homes, so they don't see people get old and die. They just aren't exposed to it anymore."

But whether it is the threat of nuclear warfare as some contend or, as others suggest, the nation's involvement in war that is sparking interest in death, people are increasingly curious about it.

Marin General Hospital has made it standard procedure to show all staff members the film, "Until I Die". The film, by psychiatrist Elisabeth Kubler Ross, pioneer in the study of death and dying, deals with the relationship of doctors and nurses to terminal patients.

(Indicative of growing public interest in the nature of death is the fact that College of Marin has included the hospital's film in its concert-lecture series and will show it at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 31 in Olney Hall on the Kentfield campus.)

A group of parents whose children are being treated for cancer at the hospital formed "The Candlelighters", an organization to foster emotional support in the face of imminent death.

Dr. William M. Lamers, chief of the psychiatric department at Ross General Hospital, is deluged with requests from the National Funeral Directors Association to lecture at universities, theological seminaries and hospitals across the country on death and grief.

The San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo has received what is believed to be its first master's thesis on death, entitled, "Plain Talk About Death."

The Marin Suicide Prevention Center, only a year old, is receiving a record number of distress calls each month as it attempts to contend with the county's shocking suicide rate — second highest in California among counties of its size.

Keith C. Craig, chief organizer of the center and investigator for the county coroner, is collecting data for a book by a student of suicide on suicides without apparent motive, called subintentional suicides.

The Marin Community Mental Health Center is sponsoring a "Childhood Mourning" program, counseling children who are having problems readjusting to the death of a parent. The program is currently branching out into counseling children whose parent has a terminal illness.

And Rev. John S. Thornton, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Belvedere, has initiated a profound program "to teach us how to contemplate our own death."

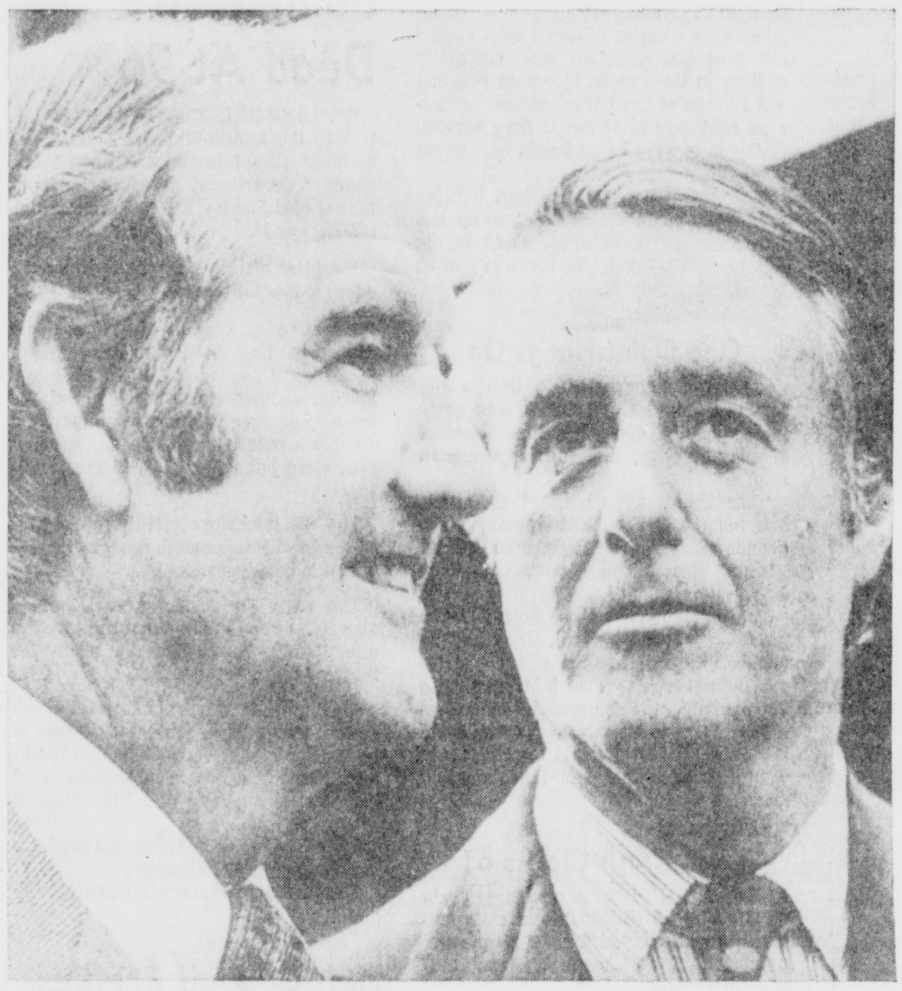

The young, articulate minister poignantly traces its development. "As part of my duties, I arrange for funerals . . . I go to the hospital and watch people die.

"I try to help families prepare for the event . . . It's a period of intensé suffering for which I thought there must be some preparation."

He reflected on the meaning or lack of meaning of death and decided, "We sooner or later

Demos Gather To Approve Shriver

McGovern Choice Is A Shoo-In

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Democratic National Committee convened an extraordinary session today to set the stage for nominating Sargent Shriver as George S. McGovern's new vice presidential running mate.

The first order of business on the agenda was disposition of credential challenges raised from at least four states. A nine-member subcommittee heard the challenges, with rulings on them —subject to approval of the full committee Tuesday —set for later in the day.

The actual nomination of a vice presidential candidate to replace Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton comes Tuesday. National chairman Jean Westwood said she saw no hitches developing to the committee's approving McGovern's choice of Shriver for the No. 2 spot.

McGovern, during a visit to his campaign headquarters this morning, predicted Shriver would strengthen the ticket in Chicago —where Mayor Richard J. Daley has been less than enthusiastic about McGovern's candidacy —and "all across the country as well".

"I feel we have added a very powerful man to the ticket," McGovern said.

The South Dakota senator said that he did not know yet who would place Shriver's name in nomination.

UPI learned however that Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield would nominate Shriver.

McGovern announced his choice of Shriver Saturday night following a number of turndowns by others to whom he offered the post. After lengthy meetings with the brother-in-law of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy Saturday and Sunday, McGovern said "I don't think the campaign has been hurt a bit" by dropping Eagleton and picking someone else. "We're ready to go."

Mrs. Westwood, selected by McGovern as new national chairman the day after the Miami Beach convention ended, said in an interview just before today's special session opened that Shriver was one of her

Sargent Shriver Claims 'Incredibly' Good Health

ROCKVILLE, Md. (UPI)—R. Sargent Shriver, the new choice for Democratic vice presidential candidate, describes his health as "incredibly" good and says he knows of nothing in his background which would hurt his party's ticket.

Shriver met reporters on the back lawn of his estate in this Washington suburb Sunday less than 24 hours after he agreed to be Sen. Gorge S. McGovern's running mate, replacing Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri.

Eagleton was dropped from the ticket after it was revealed he three times underwent psychiatric treatment in the 1960s.

The choice of Shriver is expected to be ratified Tuesday when the Democratic National Committee completes a two-day extraordinary session in Washington.

Shriver, 56, the brother-in-law of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said McGovern asked him if there was anything in his life which in any way could reflect adversely on the ticket, the campaign or the party.

"My answer was that I couldn't think of anything, truthfully," Shriver said. He said he had not been sick for 30 years and was in "incredibly good health."

Shriver said that one reason he wanted to run was because he had been so fortunate in both his health and in what his life has brought him.

"I want to the best of my ability to put America back on the pinnacle which it used to occupy in the mind and hearts of people all over the world," Shriver said. "We've lost our direction, our sense of purpose. That's evident wherever you go."

On Sunday, Shriver met with McGovern, held a strategy session with McGovern aides, and invited a few friends over for a hamburger cookout in his backyard.

Shriver has never held elective office, but he was the firet director of the Peace Corps, served as head of the War on Poverty, and as ambassador to France. He also is a Roman Catholic, providing a religious balance to the Democratic ticket.

He was born at Westminster, Md., the son of a banker. He went to Yale and after a short time with a New York law firm, entered the Navy in World War II, emerging as a lieutenant commander.

Shriver was hired by Joseph P. Kennedy at the end of the war to edit for publication the letters of the oldest Kennedy son, Joseph Jr., who was killed on an air mission over the English Channel. Shriver was taken into the Kennedy organization in 1946 and made his business mark as manager of Chicago's Merchandise Mart.

He married Eunice Kennedy in 1953. They have five children.

Shriver came to Washington in 1961 as part of President John F. Kennedy's New Frontier, taking over the directorship of the newly formed Peace Corps. Shriver stayed on when Lyndon B. Johnson became President, and in 1964 Johnson put him in charge of the Office of Economic Opportunity. After a stint as envoy to France, Shriver resumed his law practice.

North Viet Troops, Tanks Threaten Road To Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Three thousand Communist troops backed by a huge force of 30 Russian-built tanks were reported moving Monday toward the market town of Kompong Trabek in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak—the gateway to South Vietnam's strategic Mekong Delta.

Air Force and Marine fighter bombers knocked out 14 Communist tanks in the area Sunday and Monday. It was the largest number of North Vietnamese tanks ever reported in the area.

Kompong Trabek sits aside Highway 1—the vital road between Saigon and the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh—and also controls a major Communist supply route running north and south through Cambodia.

In other action:

North Vietnamese troops captured two additional hamlets just south of Hue Monday, bringing to seven the total number of hamlets taken in the last two days. Four of them were later abandoned.

West of Hue, government soldiers and North Vietnamese troops battled in a number of scatttered clashes around artillery base Checkmate. Many sources said they felt Hue was the next major target for the Communists.

Three 122mm artillery rounds were fired at Hue but no casualties were reported.

Air Force fighter-bombers used laser-guided "smart" bombs to destroy three spans of a railway bridge northeast of Hanoi and only 35 miles from the Chinese border.

Gory Quang Tri Poses Peril To City Of Hue

HUE, Vietnam (UPI)—The push to recapture Quang Tri city has ground to a halt and opened a rift between the South Vietnamese and their American advisers.

North and South Vietnamese forces have settled into an almost perfectly matched battle that in the first five weeks cost the 20,000 government troops 4,000 men dead and seriously wounded.

South Vietnamese commanders up to and including President Thieu have studiously ignored the recommendations of U.S. advisers throughout. As a result, some American support has been removed.

U.S. officers now admit privately that the operation to retake Quang Tri is not going well and that the former imperial capital of Hue is in great danger of falling to the Communists.

The officers say that the government is inviting the destruction of its elite volunteer forces and what could be at best a severe psychological setback

Steep Ravine Cabin Lease Ban Signed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Thirteen so-called "five-star bluebloods" from the Bay Area will lose their exclusive leases on cabins in Mount Tamalpais State Park under a bill signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill, SB 682 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, aroused an intense behind-the-scene campaign by the lease holders and their politically powerful friends to kill the measure in the Legislature.

Behr introduced the bill after disclosure that the leases were held for $41.66 a month. The 13 lease holders have enjoyed the use of the cabins since the park was created 11 years ago.

State park officials said it was the only such arrangement in the state. A spokesman for the state Parks and Recreation Department estimated the cabins would be worth $50,000 if they were on private land.

The public will continue to be barred from the cabins, which are in Steep Ravine along Shoreline Highway, until the leases expire at the end of 1973.

Terra Linda Youth Sets A Swim Record

I-J Special Report

CHICAGO — Terra Linda's Rick DeMont, 16, yesterday shattered the world's 1,500 meter freestyle swimming record here with a 15:52.91 clocking.

The Terra Linda High School student topped the former mark of 15:57.1 held by John Kinsella of Oak Brook, Ill., set Aug. 23, 1970. See details in sports.

Senate Opens Debate On Handgun Checks

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate debated today a bill to outlaw production of cheap handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials". An effort was made to broaden the bill to ban possession of handguns by any civilian, but it was given little chance of approval.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., an advocate of strong gun control laws, proposed an amendment to outlaw possession on grounds that "privately owned handguns of any kind simply have no place in today's society."

The Seate had rejected similar legislation numerous times in the past because of opposition from gun owners.

Strong opposition came not only to Hart's proposal but a plan by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to call for licensing of all gun owners and registration of all guns.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, where gun-control legislation is unpopular, warned that any effort to broaden the bill could recoil into the enactment of no legislation whatsoever.

The measure before the Senate, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., closes what Bayh called "a gaping loophole" in the 1968 Gun Control Act.

That law banned the importation of cheap handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials" but permitted their domestic production. Since its enactment, domestic production has swelled to 1 million guns a year, Bayh said.

"Because of their ready concealibility and availability, they are used in the majority of handgun murders perpetrated each year," Bayh said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Bremer In Isolation

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Arthur H. Bremer, who is beginning a 63 year prison term for attempting to kill Gov. George C. Wallace, was isolated in a maximum security cell for protection against other inmates and himself, Marsland Penitentiary officials report.

Bremer, convicted Friday of the assassination attempt, was placed in a 12-foot by 12-foot cell on the third floor of the penitentiary's prison hospital until he undergoes psychiatric examination.

Lt. Arthur Newsome of the guard force said yesterday the isolation was ordered because "other inmates might try to hurt the man." He added that officials were also concerned about a suicide attempt because Bremer had mentioned the possibility several times in his diary read at the trial in Upper Marlboro, Md.

Bremer will be allowed no visitors for a week except for his court-appointed attorney Benjamin Lipsitz and the prison chaplain.

No Wallace Support

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The presidential candidate of the American Party does not expect to get the endorsement of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who ran on the party ticket four years ago.

"I don't anticipate him endorsing anyone, but he has told me I'm one of his favorite people," says John G. Schmitz, a lameduck congressman from California who won the presidential nomination at the party convention here.

Schmitz, who said the Republicans "purged" him when he lost renomination to Congress in June, heads a ticket that also includes Thomas J. Anderson, of Pigeon Forge, Tenn.

Schmitz, 41, and Anderson, 61, both belong to the John Birch Society, but Schmitz said the ticket is still "balanced."

"He's a Protestant from the South, while I'm a Catholic from the West Coast," Schmitz said.

End To Floods Seen

MANILA (UPI) — Disaster control officials said today the month-long floods in Luzon are expected to recede completely within a week to end the worst calamity in the Philippines since World War II. A bright sun shone over the flooded regions.

Col. Federico Pasion of the National Disaster Control Center (NDCC) warned, however, that despite improving weather conditions, threats of violence remain among desperate, hungry refugees. The big job of rehabilitation still lies ahead, he said.

With the generally sunny weather that began yesterday along the 300-mile long disaster zone, floodwaters will recede at an average of 12 inches a day to enable refugees to return to their homes and farms in three or four days, according to Pasion.

The official death toll from the floods which covered 11 provinces including vast sections of the Manila area stood today at 430 and was expected to rise with the discovery of more victims.

Hiroshima Services

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — About 200 persons, including some of the survivors, attended a memorial service yesterday for the 70,000 persons who died in the world's first atomic holocaust at Hiroshima 27 years ago.

The ceremonies were held at the Hompa Hongwanji Buddhist Temple in the Little Tokyo section of the city.

The survivors are members of the Committee of Atomic Bomb Survivors in the United States which arranged the service.

The keynote speaker was Dr. Hiroshi Maki, director of the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission Medical Laboratory in Hiroshima. Dr. Make said he would hold a "comfort" clinic today to examine problems of survivors who live in the Los Angeles area.

215,000 Acres Ruined

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI) — More than 215,000 acres of timber were destroyed by a series of forest fires raging out of control today 200 miles northwest of here in the Brooks Mountain range.

A Bureau of Land Management spokesman said only 24 of the 43 fires burning in the state were being fought because of a lack of manpower.

More than 500 firefighters were battling the largest of the blazes which so far has burned over 195,000 acres south of the village of Allakaket. The fire was ignited by lightning July 13.

One Quint Hangs On

LIEGE, Belgium (UPI) — Only a girl survived today of quintuplets born early yesterday and doctors had no hopes of keeping it alive, a hospital spokesman said.

"The babies were born at six and a half months and weighed only about two pounds each," the spokesman at St. Vincent Hospital in suburban Rocourt said.

The quintuplets — three boys and two girls — "were too small. They had no chance," he said.

The mother, 27-year-old Marie Louise Jacquemain, was doing well, the spokesman said. She already has a 6-year-old boy. The spokesman was unable to say whether the mother had taken fertility drugs.

Train Crash Claims 61

KARACHI (UPI) — A passenger train rammed into a stalled freight train outside Karachi today, killing 61 people and injuring 63, the Pakistan Western Railway Office said.

Pakistan Radio said the accident occurred in Liaqatpur, midway between Rawalpindi and Karachi. The radio said the passenger train was en route to Karachi when it slammed into the freight train.

The official railway office casualty toll conflicted with early Pakistan Radio reports that said 57 people died and 100 were injured.

Punjab provincial officials were investigating the cause of the crash.

W. T. GRANT
Millionaire dropout

Chain Store Founder Is Dead At 96

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI)— W.T. Grant, the multimillionaire high school dropout who founded the nationwide chain of department stores that bear his name, died Sunday at Greenwich Hospital. He was 96.

Hospital officials attributed Grant's death to heart disease.

A native of Stevensville, Pa., Grant opened the first W.T. Grant store in 1906 in Lynn, Mass., with $1,000 of his own money, another $1,000 he borrowed and the help of three partners who invested a similar amount. Gross sales for the first year were just under $100,000 and profits $5,000.

The Grant chain currently totals 1,100 stores in 45 states and does more than $1 billion in business annually.

The early Grant stores sold nothing above 25 cents, a policy that remained in effect until World War I, when the maximum price rose to $1.

Although he never completed high school, Grant held an honorary doctor of laws degree from Bates College in Lewiston, Maine, and an honorary doctor of humane letters from the University of Miami.

Grant, who was twice married, is survived by three daughters.

Hub Council Readies Hearing On Budget

The San Anselmo City Council will consider adopting its proposed $1.5 million budget for 1972-73 at its meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The council will also set a new tax rate which is expected to be an increase of 23 cents over the current rate of $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation.

The council will also consider adopting an ordinance setting also redemption fees for impounded animals.

Shriver Given Support By California Delegation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —R. Sargent Shriver's vice presidential candidacy has the enthusiastic support of California Democratic leaders, particularly the national committee members who will officially nominate him Tuesday. (See other stories, page 1.)

"There will be no problems in Washington when we put the official stamp of approval on this one," said committeewoman Mary Ledesma of Huntington Park.

By contrast, some were talking publicly of open revolt had Sen. Edmund S. Muskie accepted George McGovern's offer to be his running mate.

National committeewoman Mrs. Wallace Albertson of Los Angeles reported Shriver ran a close second to former attorney general Ramsey Clark in an incompleted poll of California's 271 convention delegates to determine their vice presidential preference.

Florida Gov. Reubin Askew was third and Muskie a poor fourth.

Twelve of the 278 Democratic National Committee members are Californians. A UPI survey showed they overwhelmingly support Shriver as a man with a "Kennedy mystique" who will appeal to young voters, organized labor and campaign contributors.

"It's a great choice for California and assures us now of a real viable ticket," said state Democratic chairman Charles T. Nanatt of Van Nuys.

Mrs. Albertson called it "the best of all possible compromises. He will appeal to young people. He has a Kennedy mystique. And he has an avenue to money."

Earlier, Mrs. Albertson had said she "could not in good conscience vote for the nomination of a man like Muskie for vice president."

Assemblyman John L. Burton of San Francisco, co-chairman of California's convention delegation, said Shriver was "a damn good choice" because he has "good credentials among the young and the idealists."

Another co-chairman, Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr. of San Francisco said "the hallmark of the McGovern campaign has been doing the unexpected. And certainly Shriver's selection is in that category. He's a fresh face and an excellent choice."

From the Republican side, state GOP chairman Putnam Livermore of San Francisco said, "it looks like Shriver was way down on McGovern's list. This is not a very auspicious beginning for a running mate.

Other reaction from Democratic National Committee members:

Dormon Commons of Los Angeles, a wealthy business executive and Democratic contributor—"He was my choice before the convention. So I'm doubly pleased."

Jo Seidita of Northridge— "He's just what ze need at this lime, a breath of fresh air. He will help us raise money. Organized labor will be happy. He can bring people together."

Madelleine Haas Russell of San Francisco—"This is absolutely the best choice he could have made," adding that she wired McGovern last week urging Shriver's selection.

Wyanne Bunyan of Mill Valley—"I'm relieved. He has the widest range of appeal we could have picked. Kennedy backing always helps."

California Republicans Warned Not To Underrate McGovern

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — George McGovern is an isolationist and a radical but Republicans should not underrate his appeal to voters, warns the California GOP chairman and a high Nixon administration official.

Delegates to a Republican state convention were cautioned against overconfidence Saturday as they gathered to write an official platform for the party in California.

They adopted a broad-based platform which skirted such politically sensitive issues as abortions, capital punishment, school busing and marijuana. It was a generalized policy statement designed to appeal to all party factions and be useable by any Republican candidate in the November election.

The 140 delegates — primarily nominees for Congress and the legislature — also adopted a resolution critical of the 1972 legislature for failing to pass a property tax relief and school finance measure and asking Gov. Ronald Reagan to call a special session on these issues.

Reagan already has said he will not call the Democratic-controlled legislature back from its three-month vacation which began Saturday.

Although the platform was the main agenda item, the Nov. 7 election was the chief topic of conversation. California, with its biggest-in-the-nation bloc of 45 electoral votes, is regarded as crucial by both native son President Nixon and McGovern.

"It is very easy to underrate the President's opponent," warned Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council.

"But we have to face up to the fact that there is an appeal. And I'm afraid a great many people may very well temporarily be persuaded that you can get away with easy answers to some problems."

He added that particularly in California, where Democrats outnumber Republicans 3 ro 2 in voter registration. "We should recognize the fact that the President needs a great many democrats to win reelection."

Republican state chairman Putnam Livermore of San Francisco characterized the Democratic candidate as "an admitted theorist, an isolationist and in a real sense a radical."

But he said that while Nixon held a relatively large lead of up to 15 per cent in other states, he was ahead in the polls by only 7 or 8 percentage points in California.

The platform:

—Called for "a school finance system which guarantees each child an equal, basic educational opportunity."

—Supported "the concept that the people of California should decide whether or not they need the death penalty for the protection of society." It did not take a specific position on the November ballot measure which seeks to restore the death pnealty.

—Pledged to "resist any public employe collective actions which strike against the public interest."

—Promised both to "strive for a balance between the economy and the environment" and "to provide strong legislation to enhance and protect the coast line and create additional coastal recreational areas."

—Denounced "all forms of demeaning social or economic discrimination, whether on racial, cultural or other grounds."

—Pledged both "protection for growers against unfair and illegal labor practices and an arbitration process for settling disputes" and to support field hands' "efforts to secure fair and equitable wages, decent working conditions and equal employment opportunities."

Judging Trio Picked For Art Show At Marin County Fair

Three judges have been selected for the art competition at the upcoming Marin County Fair.

They are Ralph Ducasse of the Mills College art faculty; William Elsner of the Palace of the Legion of Honor, San Francisco, and Hayward King, curator of Bolles Gallery in San Francisco.

Entries must be received by Aug. 14, according to fair manager Marcelle McCoy. Categories include paintings, sculpture and graphics. Best-in-show entry will receive $150 and five merit awards of $100 each will be awarded.

The Terra Linda Art Association will supervise the art competition. Entries will be on display in the Civic Center auditorium from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., daily from Aug. 31 through Sept. 4, dates of the fair.

Authorities Believe Giant International LSD Ring Broken

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI)— Authorities believe they have "broken the back" of one of the prime international producers of LSD with the arrest of more than 40 members of a secret drug cult founded by Dr. Timothy Leary.

The 51-year-old former Harvard instructor, who fled to Switzerland after escaping from a California prison in 1970, was among 29 persons named in grand jury indictments returned last week by the Orange County grand jury. His bail was set at $5 million. The jury also named 90 other persons as being conspirators.

Raids Uaturday by county, state and federal narcotics officers resulted in more than 40 arrests in California, Oregon and Hawaii.

Orange County District Attorney Cecil Hicks said that illicit drugs with a street value of $7.9 million had been seized, including 1.5 million LSD tablets and 2.5 tons of hashish.

All those arrested are members of the Brotherhood of Eternal Love, an offshoot of the League of Spiritual Discovery (LSD), which was formed by Leary a few years ago while he was telling young people to "Tune in, turn on and drop out."

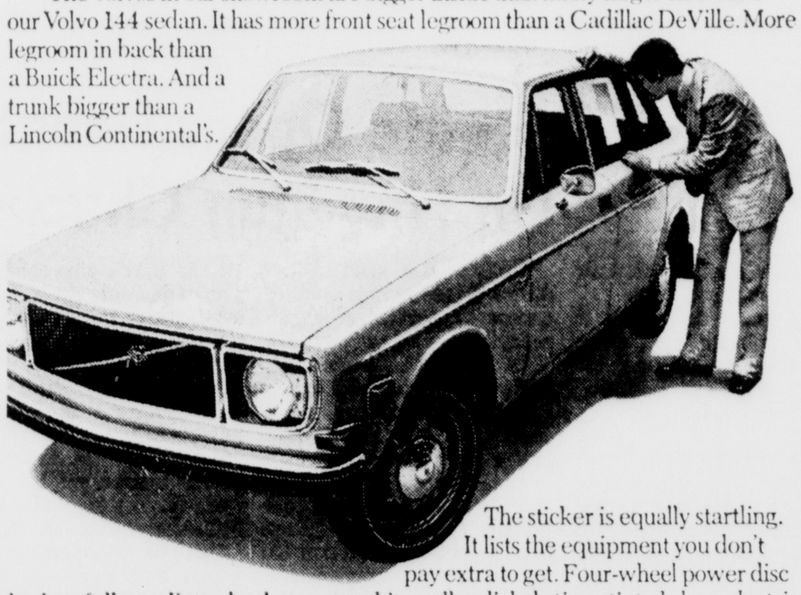

Leary escaped from the California Men's Colony near San Luis Obispo, Calif., in September, 1970, while he was serving a 10-year sentence for marijuana smuggling and fled to Switzerland.

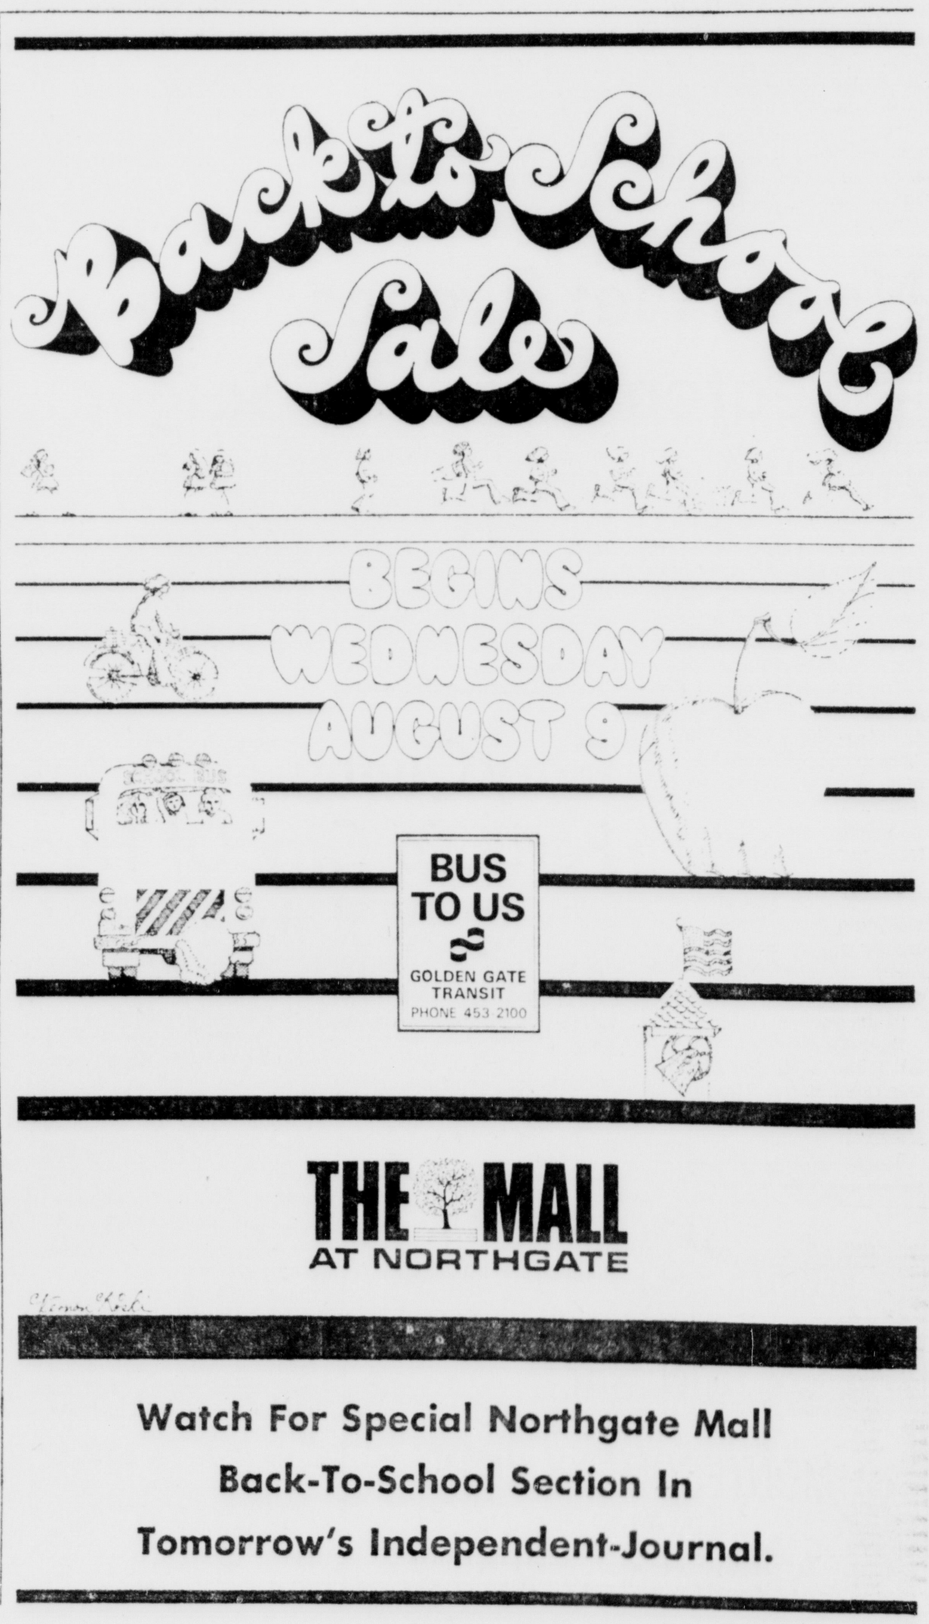

Swiss authorities Friday ordered Leary to leave the country by Oct. 31 because of his views on drugs.

Hicks said the Brotherhood operated the smuggling network by using forged passports which allowed members to travel around the world making illegal drug purchases.

VOLVO: IT'S BIGGER THAN YOU THINK.
The Volvos in our showroom are bigger inside than many larger cars. Take our Volvo 144 sedan. It has more front seat legroom than a Cadillac DeVille. More legroom in back than a Buick Electra. And a trunk bigger than a Lincoln Continental's.

The sticker is equally startling. It lists the equipment you don't pay extra to get. Four-wheel power disc brakes, fully-reclining bucket seats, whitewall radial ply tires, tinted glass, electric rear window defroster. How much for a Volvo that roomy and that well equipped? Less than you might think. $3620.*

WORKING FOR 'WALKING JOE'

Campaign workers create new posters for their candidate, "Walking Joe Teasdale," who is running for the Democratic nomination for governor of Missouri. The poster party yesterday in a St. Louis suburb was required, workers said, because many of Teasdale's old posters had deteriorated or were torn down. Teasdale is prosecuting attorney of Jackson County, and lives in Kansas City. (UPI Telephoto)

29 Hurt In Black-White Prison Clash

LA GRANGE, Ky. (UPI)—Twenty-nine prisoners were injured at the Kentucky State Reformatory near here Sunday when disturbences erupted between black and white prisoners.

Warden Harold Black said between 150 and 200 white prisoners "squared off" against an equal number of blacks in the prison yard for 15 minutes before guards could get them back into their dormitories.

Twenty-four prisoners were reported injured immediately after the outbreak, but five more reported later to the infirmary. Three were hit by No. 9 birdshot when guards fired shotguns to force the men back into their dormitories.

Black said that the minimum security prison was quiet today, but housing units remained locked.

The disturbance was the second in two months at Kentucky's minimum security penal institution this summer.

SAN QUENTIN SIX

Grand Jury A Rubber Stamp?

By PAT ANGLE

A member of the Marin County Grand Jury which last October indicted six San Quentin inmates for murder and other crimes during the Aug. 21, 1971 attempted breakout at the prison said Saturday the jury brought the charges against the men "without one moment's deliberation."

Gerald A. Hawes of San Rafael, who quit the jury last October in protest of its action in the case, also charged Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales of hampering efforts by several jurors to obtain more evidence before indicting.

The inmates — Louis N. Talamantes, Hugo A. Pinell, John Larry Spain, Fleeta Drumgo, David Johnson and Willie Tate — were indicted along with attorney Stephen M. Bingham on five counts of murder in connection with the deaths of three San Quentin guards and two other convicts Aug. 21. Bingham disappeared right after the bloody break.

The seven men were also charged with conspiracy to commit escape, possession of a firearm by an inmate and kidnapping.

Hawes said that during the jury hearing on the case, Bales asked jurors not to question his witnesses who testified against Bingham and the six. And when a few jurors, including Hawes, insisted on asking questions of those testifying, Bales "charged that we were delaying the case," he said.

Hawes and William Kunstler, defense attorney for the Chicago Eight conspiracy trial, spoke at the Unitarian Fellowship in San Rafael in a fund raising effort for the San Quentin inmates. Approximately 40 persons attended the gathering.

Hawes also recalled that he had asked that three witnesses be recalled during the jury proceedings because some of the testimony given later had conflicted with their statements, but said the district attorney had refused to recall them.

Hawes said he left the jury convinced that insufficient evidence was presented to indictthe six inmates.

"We couldn't even get the registration of the gun involved (allegedly smuggled to Soledad Brother George Jackson by Bingham)," the juror complained. "Bales kept telling us that there was a great deal of evidence that would be brought out at the trial, but he wouldn't give it to us."

Hawed said the jury only deliberated on the murder and conspiracy counts involving Bingham and on the charge that there had been a conspiracy by the attorney and inmates to commit escape.

"Once the jury decided to indict Bingham, they also indicted the six, as an afterthought, without deliberation," he added.

The former juror said he believes the district attorney may also have instructed the jury improperly. "He assured us that all we needed to indict was 'reasonable suspicion,' he said. "I think what is actually needed to bring charges is 'probable cause.'"

Both Hawes and Kunstler agreed the grand jury system as it presently exists should be abolished. "Grand juries were designed to act as brakes on the excesses of prosecutors, but they certainly don't do that now," Hawes said. "They are only rubber stamps for the prosecutor's wishes."

"If we had no grand jury, it would put the onus on the prosecutor to make a political decision on whether to indict," Kunstler said. "All the jury does now is give the prosecutor an out if the indictment turns out to be a mistake; he can blame the grand jury."

Kunstler said he didn't defendthe San Quentin inmates because of a heavy schedule of cases. But the New York attorney thinks the case has "drama and media appeal because it grows out of the murder of George Jackson" (Jackson was killed during the violence that day) and should be used "to do something for all the anonymous people who have no support and go down in the dust every day."

He said the trial will also provide "an opportunity to prove how Jackson's murder took place."

Brezhnev Contacts Cairo Boss, Strain Eased Says Newspaper

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today President Anwar Sadat has received an "important message" from Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev about "latest developments in Soviet-Arab relations."

The message gives high respect to Soviet-Arab relations and will facilitate political contacts at a summit level between the two nations, Al Ahram said.

Political sources said the message is the first from Soviet leaders since Sadat decided to oust Soviet military advisers from Egypt July 18.

Al Ahram said a delegation rrepresenting representing leadership of the Soviet Communist party will visit Cairo before the end of the month for political talks with Egypt's Arab Socialist Union, the nation's only political party.

Egypt marked the second anniversary of the Middle East cease-fire today with an announcement that Soviet military advisers had completed their withdrawal.

The announcement was made by Sayed Marei, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Arab Socialist Union. He told a political rally that the Russian withdrawal has ended and "only a limited number of instructors are remaining behind for a short and limited period."

The Middle East cease-fire took effect Aug. 7, 1970, following Egypt's acceptance of proposals made by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, for a peaceful settlement.

It was originally scheduled for a three-month period, but was extended twice, until Sadat terminated it formally in March last year.

The guns, however, remained silent along the Suez Canal. There were a few outbreaks of hostilities — the last of which was last July 24, when Egypt said it shot down an Israeli Phantom jet—but generally the two sides abided by the truce.

Arab diplomatic sources said about 2,000 Russian instructors remained behind, and even this number was expected to dwindle gradually. Recently, there have been calls in the Arab press to to end the ceasefire.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of Al Ahram newspaper, recently described the continued state of no-war, no-peace in the region as a "historical crime" and said Egypt was the sole loser from its continuation.

The Russian advisers were ordered out by Sadat last month because the Soviet Union refused to give him all the weapons he asked for.

Diplomatic sources in Beirut were divided whether the ouster would drive Egypt in the direction of war or peace. While noting that the withdrawal left Egypt more vulnerable to Israeli attacks, they said it also freed Sadat's hand if he chose to resume hostilities.

Electric Chair May Go To Ohio Museum

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The Ohio Historical Society is interested in obtaining the state's electric chair for display in an exhibit "on torture and punishment."

Although state officials have not yet decided whether to discard the chair that has been used to kill 315 persons since 1897 at the Ohio Penitentiary, historical society director Daniel R. Porter said his organization would accept the device.

Marin Reflects The U.S. Trend

have to contemplate our own death."

He read Kubler Ross and agreed that we are a death-denying society. He recalled the feelings of rage the bereaved express against God and he began to recognize the poor relationship between a dying person and others —family, doctors, clergy — because they feel uncomfortable and their feelings are transmitted. So he decided to do something about all this.

He selected parishioners he thought might be interested in the subject of death — surgeons, internists, nurses, psychiatrists, psychologists, lawyers —and invited them to seminars on death and dying.

The seminars are generally unstructured, but deal with the psychological, spiritual, religious and medical process of dying.

So far, the approximately 50 members are still talking about their own deathu which Thornton feels is fundamental before going on to the death of others.

He plans to invite guest lecturers and show films at future meetings.

"We meet at 6:45 in the morning, so you know that those who attend are serious", he quipped.

His program is new, but interest in death by clergy is not.

Rev. Karel F. Botermans pastor of the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, gave a sermon entitled "Death Control" in November 1970.

It was a moving argument for a person's right to die with dignity in the case of incurable illness. But it was also a commentary on our society.

"We live in a society which really has very great difficulty in dealing with the reality of death," he observed. This is reflected in heroic medical measures when hopes for recovery are gone and "it is reflected in the many euphemisms we use when we are talking about death."

He ended his sermon with his belief that one must come to terms with death before one can come to terms with life. And he extended a plea to his parishoners to fill out a form from the Euthanasia Educational Fund. The form is a statement that, in the case of incurable illness, the person wishes to be allowed to die.

The last time he mailed out those forms he pointed out, only 17 out of 650 responded.

(Tomorrow: Physicians look at death.)

Last Novato Mail Will Go Earlier

The last daily mail dispatch from Novato now leaves 45 minutes earlier than the previous 7:40 p.m., according to Postmaster J. W. (Bill) Almeida.

Because of a change in the schedule of the truck which takes mail from Santa Rosa to Oakland, Almeida said the final dispatch has been moved up to 6:55 p.m.

The change was made Friday on orders from Oakland, he said.

From now on, letters mailed from Novato later than 6:55 p.m. will not go out until the first pickup at 8:15 the next morning.

Almeida said the new schedule will create hardships for some businessmen accustomed to the later dispatch time.

Woman Denies Kiling Husband In Mill Valley

Pleas of innocent and innocent because of insanity were entered today in Marin Superior Court by Harriett Josephine Putney, 55-year-old Mill Valley housewife accused of murdering her husband.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson appointed two psychiatrists to interview Mrs. Putney and set Aug. 28 for receiving their reports on her mental condition.

Mrs. Putney is accused of shooting her husband, Stanley, on June 27 during a running argument at their home about whether they should move to the mountains or the seashore.

The husband, a retired Navy chief petty officer, died on the way to a hospital. The wife, who shot herself in the abdomen, was hospitalized two weeks.

Waterways On Planner Agenda

The Larkspur Planning Commission will consider an ordinance requiring access to public waterways at its meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m.

The ordinance, patterned after state law, would require subdividers to provide public access to Corte Madera Creek and other bodies of water.

The commission also will consider an ordinance regulating docks, piers and floats on the creek, along with an ordinance allowing subdividers to dedicate land for bicycle paths.

Art Center Program Set

An evening of music, dance and film will be presented at 6 p.m. Saturday at Sausalito Art Center.

The meatgrinder operation to retake Quang Tri city and the inner fortress Citadel destroyed three of the nine airborne battalions in South Vietnam. They are now retraining and being given replacements whose fighting ability is far below that of the veterans killed or maimed.

When the paraoroopers were removed from the books of effective fighting forces, the marines took over. Within a week, a marine battalion was all but wiped out, sent to the rear for retraining and replaced by another.

The marine division, however, is led by only a one-star general.

What was believed to be a small Communist force in the provincial capital was expected to evaporate in the face of a large drive by 2,500 vaunted paratroopers.

"We thought that the enemy either could not or would not reinforce," said one allied officer. "But he did."

The paratroopers left an escape route for the North Vietnamese inside. But instead of leaving, the Communists moved in more men and supplies, including heavy antiaircraft guns.

At that point, about mid-July, U.S. advisers recommended a change of tactics. Instead of a drive on Quang Tri, they argued for end runs around the city that would eventually starve the Communists out.

President Thieu demurred and reordered his generals to retake Quang Tri.

Council May Ask Freeway Change

The San Rafael City Council will consider askng the state to redesign and alter the Terra Linda interchange when the council meets at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The planning commission has recommended the action to improve northbound traffic flow on Highway 101, according to William J. Bielser, assistant city manager.

The council will consider a burglar alarm ordinance aimed at police department regulation of the devices to cut down on false alarms and hear a report on salary negotiations with the city's police and fire personnel, Bielser said.

Peninsula Firm Has Low Bid

A low bid of $198,021 by Freeman-Sondgroth Construction Co. of Mountain View has been received by the California Division of Highways for a road improvement project in Marin County.

The project consists of leveling, repairing and resurfacing the westbound lanes of Route 37 beginning west of Route 101 at the Ignacio Wye in Novato and continuing 2.5 miles northeast to Atherton Avenue.

Saying "I don't really expect" any major opposition to Shriver's selection Tuesday in the committee meeting at the Sheraton Park Hotel, the Utah businesswoman said the one-time Peace Corps director and ambassador to Paris was "one of the names I suggested clear back in Miami."

Asked if the McGovern campaign would be further damaged by the fact the South Dakota senator got several rejections before Shriver accepted the offer of being his running mate, Mrs. Westwood replied, "No. This comes right back to the fact that this is the most open campaign ever conducted. We just came out in the open instead of behind closed doors."

Mrs. Westwood said she believed that it was "personal and other considerations" that caused Kennedy and a handful of others to turn down the No. 2 spot, rather than pessimism about the chances of the Democratic chances against Nixon.

Newsweek Magazine said one of those who urged McGovern to take Shriver was former President Lyndon B. Johnson. Johnson was said to have considered Shriver as a vice presidential partner before choosing Hubert H. Humphrey in 1964.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert Dole, Republican national chairman, said Monday elementary fairness diclates that the GOP be given free network broadcast time to answer Sen. George McGovern's Saturday night speech in which he announced his selection of Sargent Shriver to be his new running mate.

In a Senate speech, Dole denounced McGovern for devoting "only one minute of his 16-minute speech to Shriver (and) taking the balance of the time for a blistering attack on President Nixon and his record."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. said in response to Dole.

"I'm really surprised. He's got to be kidding. For four years now the President has gone on TV in defense of his positions and the Democrats have always been denied time to respond."

Reed Will Head 5-State Drive

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Thomas C. Reed of Ross, Republican National committeeman for California, has been named regional director of the President's reelection campaign in Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Hawaii and Texas.

Clark MacGregor, national director of the campaign, said Reed, 38, will link the national headquarters and the campaign organizations in the five states.

Reed worked in 1964 on the presidential campaign staff of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and in 1966 was Northern California chairman of the Reagan for Governor Committee. He served as Reagan's first appointments secretary.

Tax Plan Before Petaluma Board

Plans for a tax rate increase election will be considered at the Petaluma Board of Education meeting at 8 p.m. today at the school administration building.

At a special meeting last week, the board received conflicting advice on the prospects of success for an election. In the past year two attempts to increase the tax rate have failed.

The board will also consider adoption of 1972-73 budgets for both the elementary and high school districts. Prior to the meeting, the board will tour the recently completed addition to Rancho Cotate High School.

Culvert Project Contractor Set

The San Rafael Meadows Flood Control Zone 6 board has awarded a $7,000 contract to Flipovich Construction Co. to replace an underground culvert.

The culvert is located near 222 El Prado Avenue in San Rafael, according to John A. Allen, board member.

He said that the board has invited interested citizens to view the culvert work.

Inflation Watchdogs May Trim Pay Guide

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board and the Price Commission plan a joint meeting next Monday amid indications that lowering of the 5.5 per cent wage increase standard will be discussed.

Changing the 5.5-per cent standard has been openly discussed several times by Nixon administration officials, but the Pay Board has never set down an intensive discussion on the wage limit.

Two Fatal Crashes On Highway 101

Two men died in accidents yesterday on Highway 101, the first at about 2:30 a.m. near Hamilton Air Force Base, the second at about 5:20 p.m. just north of Novato.

They were the 20th and 21st traffic fatalities thus far this year in Marin County.

Killed were Arthur Harrison Mooneyhan, 39, of 1800 Gilrix Street, Petaluma, and Warren C. Hathaway, 72, of Port Jervis, N.Y.

They were the 20th and 21st traffic fatalities in Marin thus far this year compared to 23 by this date last year.

According to the CaliforniaHighway Patrol, it appeared that Mooneyhan, an inspector for Brinks Armored Cars, may have fallen asleep at the wheel while northbound on the freeway. His car, in which he was traveling alone, left the roadbed near the crest of St. Vincent's Hill and crashed into a guard rail. He was ejected from his car and hurtled about 90 feet through the air, according to the patrol.

Hathaway, a retired machinist, was a passenger in a car driven by Maude Eleanor Fredman, 71, of Healdsburg.

According to the patrol, Mrs. Fredman reported she became nauseated and lost control of her car, crossed the dividing strip and crashed into another car, the patrol reported.

The second car was driven by Chris J. Shaini, 32, of San Francisco.

Two more cars were involved when Arthur H. Robinson, 39, of Richmond slammed his brakes to avoid the collision and was hit from the rear by a car driven by George Kelly Ray Sr., 55, also of Richmond.

Novato General Hospital reported Mrs. Fredman in satisfactory condition today. She suffered multiple cuts and scrapes. No report was available on any other persons injured.

Bond Campaign To Be Mounted

A meeting aimed at organizing a campaign to pass San Rafael's $2.25 million bond issue for open space has been called for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the teacher's lunchroom of San Rafael High School.

Precinct chairmen will be appointed at the meeting, according to Jerry Russom, a campaign coordinator.

Russom said campaign organizers were particularly interested in getting young people involved in the open space drive.

The bond election, scheduled for Sept. 19, would cost city taxpayers an additional 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Park-Lighting Try Abandoned

The Gallinas Village Community Services District board has decided to abandon attempts to provide lighting for the interior of Adrian Rosal Park in the wake of vandalism.

Instead, the board will ask Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to light the periphery of the park, according to Marguerite F. Clark, board secretary.

She said that PG&E has refused to maintain interior park lights in the face of a losing battle with vandals who shake the lights off utility poles.

Convict Missing On Work Outing

Lawmen in the Bay Area today were on the lookout for a San Quentin inmate who failed to return to the prison Friday evening from his work furlough assignment in Oakland.

George Porter, 42, of Solano County, entered the prison in February 1966 and was serving a sentence for second degree robbery, according to San Quentin officials.

He was due to be paroled December 11.

New Ordinance To Be Read Tonight

Mill Valley City Council will give a second reading to its new ordinance regulating marshland filling at its meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at city hall. A second ordinance up for adoption is on animal control, and a first public hearing is set for an ordinance on the sale of beverages in returnable bottles.

Councilmen will discuss a proposed agreement between the city and the employees' union, the ALCIO-affiliated ASME.

riers reported leaving the Loi Dong storage area four miles northwest of Haiphong burning in a Sunday strike.

Other Navy planes also hit the Van Dong storage area 24 miles northeast of the city and made a direcct hit on the Mong Duong highway bridge 40 miles to the northeast.

Communist gunners bombarded South Vietnamese marines with 1,300 rounds of artillery and mortar fire on the northern edge of Quang Tri city Sunday, killing three government troops. Marines also turned back several Communist ground attacks but neither side reported making much progress.

American military strength in South Vietnam was reduced to 44,600 men with the withdrawal of 1,400 troops last week, the largest one-week pullout in five weeks, the U.S. command said Monday.

The latest withdrawals left 5,600 troops still to be pulled out in order to meet President Nixon's goal of reducing American strength here to 39,000 by Sept. 1.

The 1,400-man troop withdrawal last week was the largest decrease since 6,000 men were pulled out during the week just before Nixon's July 1 deadline of 48,000. All of Nixon's troop goals have been exceeded since the withdrawals began in August, 1969.

Park Stands Theft Plot Trial Stated

A jury trial has been set for the week of Sept. 5 in Marin Superior Court for a Cotati man arrested in what police said appeared to be the first step in a plan to burglarize concession stands in a national park.

He was arrested July 27 after police received a call about two men working on a car at 4:15 a.m. in San Rafael.

The car had been stolen earlier from a man who lives in the Dominican area of San Rafael, police said.

In the auto were maps of Sequoia National Park, detailed floor plans of concession booths and two knives, police said.

Fewer Working With Secrets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The number of federal employes authorized to stamp government information as top secret, secret or confidential has dropped from 43,586 to 16,238 in the past two months, President Nixon was told Thursday.

New rules regarding government secrecy were imposed last March following the Pentagon Papers case. The regulations took effect June 1.

John S. Eisenhower, chairman of the Interagency Classification Review Committee, said in a rèport to Nixon the number of officials authorized to use the highest classification —top secret—had been reduced by 53 per cent from 2,275 to 1,076.

Chorale Audition Times Slated

Auditions for Winifred Baker Chorale will be held Aug. 16 and 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Angelico Hall, Dominican College, San Rafael. Director Winifred Baker announced openings in all voices, particularly for tenor and bass.

Concert plans for the coming year include the Bach mass in B minor in mid-November, Haydn's "Creation" in late January, and a concert of contemporary music late in spring.

The chorale's latest appearance was in the Arthur Fiedler-San Francisco Symphony pops concerts in San Francisco in July.

Tablet Possession Charge Dismissed

A charge of illegally possessing 500 tablets of benzedrine against Russell Morris Vibbard, 20, of San Anselmo, was dismissed today in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson granted a defense motion to drop the charge after he learned that another judge had earlier granted a motion to suppress evidence in the case. It had been ruled that a search of Vibbard on March 16 after he had been arrested by San Anselmo police because of a traffic warrant was illegal.

OBITUARIES

Alfred E. Fowler Jr. Rite Set

Funeral for Alfred E. Fowler Jr., a veteran of World War II who lost both legs in a land mine explosion but triumphed over that adversity, will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Fowler, who was 53, died Aug. 5 at San Francisco Veterans Hospital in San Francisco after a long illness.

He was wounded in Germany while serving with the 90th Division, 358th Infantry. After the war he learned to walk again with the aid of two artifical legs and a cane.

Fowler, until his retirement in July, 1971, was an assistant Veterans Service Officer in Marin County. He held the job for 21 years and was known as a tireless worker who brought encouragement and cheer to other wounded veterans while he himself was in pain.

He was born in San Francisco but had lived in Woodacre until his retirement when he moved to Santa Rosa.

At the time of his retirement the Independent-Journal editorialized: "If you think you have troubles and aches and pains, and that society owes you food, clothing, medical care and recreation, we submit to you the case of Al Fowler, who was cut down by a land mine but bounced back taller than ever."

He was a member of Tamalpais Post 72, Veterans of Foreign Wars of San Rafael, Pacheco Chapter 79, Disabled American Veterans and San Anslemo Post 179 of the American Legion.

He is survived by his wife, Rosaline G. Fowler; two daughters, Carol Ann Fowler and Mrs. Dolores Robinson, both of Santa Rosa; two sons, Robert J. Oliver of Penngrove and George A. Oliviera of Rohnert Park; a brother Vernon Fowler of Tracy, and 10 grandchildren.

Graft In New York Reported

NEW YORK (AP) — A special commission reports finding "widespread corruption" in a two-year probe of the New York City police department and recommends appointment of a special deputy state attorney general to root out corruption among policemen, prosecutors and judges.

The Knapp Commission said in a report Sunday that it found graft ranging from well-organized, monthly gambling payoffs to narcotics "scores" of as much as $80,000 to small but numerous payments to uniformed patrolmen from construction sites, bars and businesses.

INVESTIGATION

The commission urged Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to appoint a special prosecutor to head a new, independent watchdog agency "staffed by persons wholly unconnected with the police department" to investigate and prosecute "all crimes involving corruption in the criminal process."

Neither the public nor honest policemen feel they can trust the city district attorney's offices or investigating commission to handle the job, it said. All those agencies rely on policemen to do the legwork and New Yorkers "just don't trust policemen to investigate each other."

The five-man special commission headed by Whitman Knapp, a Wall Street lawyer since recommended for the federal bench, also advocated these reforms:

Repeal of antigambling laws and laws barring certain business activities on Sunday to reduce the exposure of policemen to potentially corrupting situations.

RELIEF

Relieving policemen from enforcing the laws covering construction activities, tow truck operations, bars, nightclubs and businesses. "It is ridiculous to have an armed police officer wasting his time checking restaurant washrooms to find out whether they are properly supplied with soap," the report said.

Creation of an independent anticorruption group within the police department in which an officer might spend his entire career.

There were also recommendations for more than 30 administrative steps within the department including revision of the Civil Service laws to permit the police commissioner to punish captains, lieutenants and sergeants by reducing them a rank if found guilty of a serious charge.

Auto Is Stolen

A 1965 maroon Chevrolet, license number TKD702, was stolen yesterday from the Emporium department store parking lot in San Rafael, owner William Dale Dobbs, 20 Oak Mountain Court, San Rafael, told police.

Post-Mao China Plans Reported

LONDON (UPI)—A collective leadership headed by Premier Chou En-lai is to take over in China after the eventual death of Mao Tse-tung, a Western diplomatic dispatch reported from Peking today.

A Soviet-type collective directorate is being prepared and groomed for the task and will replace the system of one-man rule practiced under Mao Tse-tung, the report said.

There are strong indications that no single leader will be appointed as "successor designate" to Mao, as was Lin Piao, the defense minister who was eliminated after his alleged plot to seize power.

Lin was the officially designated successor to Mao.

No new figure has so far been discerned that could qualify for the job, the report said.

Chou now in effect runs the country, or at least plays the key role in China's day-to-day affairs. But he is not seen as a likely single successor to Mao, the report said.

Already a sort of part-collective-rule was said to be in force in China, though Mao remains the undisputed ruler who sets the course of the nation's policy.

The collective leadership is intended to safeguard a smooth transition and eventual takeover, at least until a new set-up or a possible new strongman emerges, the report suggested.

There is no clear indication, it said, as to who the other members of the collective directorate are or will be.

It seems that it is to include Lin's successor as defense minister, 73-year-old Yeh Chienying, an old and trusted friend of Chou's who would have the task of securing the cooperation of the army, the diplomatic dispatch said.

The plan, according to present indications, envisages the continuation of the policy initiated recently under Mao's supervision that brought about President Nixon's visit to Peking early this year and has since led to a mounting effort to get China back onto the international scene.

Economic build-up appears to be a key factor in this strategy, along with speeded nuclear rearmament to strengthen the country's defense posture against the Soviet Union, the report said.

At the same time a major job is evidently still to be done on the consolidation of the domestic front, it said.

The Lin affair has shaken the regime considerably and has apparently caused uneasiness in the Mao regime over the reliability of army and party cadres.

Although all of these happenings remain well guarded secrets in Peking and although little is said publicly, a purge appears to have been in progress for the past year, the report said.

Only about half of the Communist party politbureau was said to be still in their jobs. They were elected at the party congress in April, 1969.

But the People's Congress which had been promised for last year has not been held—yet another sign, it was believed, of unsettled conditions.

Tax Relief, School Funding Still Remain

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The legislature began the first week of its three-month recess today after working almost continuously for 19 months without finding a solution to property tax relief and school finance.

A monumental stack of unfinished business will greet lawmakers when they return to the Capitol after the Nov. 7 election.

Included in the mountain of measures still undecided are reapportionment, women's rights, protection of the "wild rivers," no-fault car insurance and the possible reduction of penalties for marijuana use.

Many incumbents facing reelection say they will have a difficult time explaining to voters why they are still empty-handed on the question of property tax relief and educational financing.

The Senate, where only half the lawmakers are up for reelection, killed a $1.2 billion plan ironed out between Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti and Gov. Ronald Reagan. All of the Assembly seats are up for grabs this fall.

However, the legislature did decide some questions.

Lawmakers passed measures to finance bicycle trails and set up a statewide "hot" list of stolen bikes to help curb thefts. They also approved a bill extending unemployment insurance to farm workers although Reagan is expected to veto it.

The legislature passed a measure to require license plates to be reflectorized as well as a 1974 ballot issue for $250 million worth of park bonds.

Reagan has signed into law measures to raise the pay of prison guards and to ease restrictions on teaching the dangers of venereal disease.

Lawmakers also took decisive action by killing bills to reduce the drinking age to 18, establish tighter controls over election campaigns and create a life insurance plan for state workers.

In addition, the legislature approved a dozen proposals for the Nov. 7 ballot, including one by Moretti to lengthen the current annual legislative sessions to two years.

Vets Eligible For Cash Bonus

Vietnam veterans from the State of Washington who were residents of that state for one year immediately prior to entering the armed forces are eligible for a $250 cash bonus or the equivalant toward education.

James V. Burdick, director of the Marin County Service Office, said eligible veterans must have had honorable service after Aug. 5, 1964 and have received the Vietnam Service Medal.

Tiny Space Body Swings Close To Us

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A scientist says earth's "little brother," the asteroid Toro, will be its closest in decades tomorrow and may hang around for two months.

The tiny asteroid, which is only two or three miles in size, is expected to come within 12.6 million miles of earth.

"A lot of people are excited," said Dr. Gustaf Arrhenius, associate director of the Institute for Pure and Applied Physical Sciences at the University of California at San Diego.

Last October U.C. scientists determined Toro was a third party to the earth-moon gravitational system. They described it as a "quasimoon."

The tiny space body makes five revolutions around the sun while the earth makes eight, Arrhenius said in an interview. Dr. Hannes Alfven, a Nobel Prize winner and associate of Arrhenius, said new studies have been completed which indicate control of Toro's orbit will pass to the planet Venus by the year 2,200 but return by the year 2,350 to earth.

"Toro has probably been in this quasimoon relationship with the earth for some thousands of years, at least, and possibly even from the time the solar system originated, 4.6 billion years ago," Arrhenius said. "It probably will remain in that relationship for thousands of years to come."

A possible collision between Toro and earth "could not occur for at least a thousand years," he said.

Steam Transit In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco entered the steam transit age Friday with a non-polluting bus.

William D. Lear was on hand when the bus, powered by a vapor turbine engine which his firm developed, was turned over to the city's Municipal Railway.

The bus will be given a 60-day test along a flat route near the waterfront.

Stubborn Big Sur Blaze Is Finally Placed Under Control

BIG SUR, Calif. (UPI)— Firefighters using picks and shovels surrounded and controlled a stubborn coastal blaze lastnight near Big Sur, where 4,300 acres of brush and timber were destroyed

"The fire lines are holding, the weather is favorable and some of the fire crews are being released," a spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service said.

He said 300 men would remain at the scene for mop-up operations which may last two weeks.

Crews were ferried across steep canyons by helicopters Sunday to battle flames that jumped the thin clearing encircling the fire, which was backed against a steep hillside.

"We shouldn't have any more trouble with it the way things look," the spokesman said.

The blaze started Tuesday from an illegal campfire near the community of Big Sur. A U2 reconnaisance plane was used to pinpoint potential trouble spots and World War II bombers dropped retardant chemicals on the fire.

There were no structures damaged in the scenic area where homes perch on cliffs overlooking the Pacific.

Forestry officials Saturday began allowing hippies and residents who dwell in the mountains to return to their homes. Vacationers were also readmitted to the Pfeiffer-Big Sur State Park, where the fire was turned away after burning only 200 acres.

Some Fingerprints Found In Mansion

BARRINGTON HILLS, Ill. (UPI) — Police said yesterday fingerprints found at the home of retired insurance executive Paul M. Corbett were among the few clues they had in the slaying of Corbett and three members of his family.

All four victims were shot in the head Friday night at close range with a .30-caliber carbine and a .25-caliber pistol. Killed along with Corbett, 67, was his wife, Marion, 57, her daughter by a former marriage, Barbara S. Boand, 22, and Mrs. Corbett'e sister, Mrs. Dorothy Deery, 60.

"Even if the killer knew them, they would still have to be the most bloodthirsty persons around," a police investigator said.

Police revealed yesterday that fingerprints were found in Corbett's $100,000 home, but it was not clear to whom they belonged. There were few other clues.

The Corbett's 14-room, gray castle-like home had been ransacked. But relatives reported nothing appeared to be missing.

Valuable jewelry and a collection of paintings were not touched.

Several friends and relatives took lie detector tests during the weekend, police said, but all passed the tests.

Authorities Sunday issued a plea for anyone traveling in the exclusive Chicago suburb near the Corbett's home on Friday night to please come forward.

Police found no forced entry, thus speculating that the Corbett's may have known their killers. The burglar alarm was turned off, and one telephone line — the one in the kitchen — had been pulled out. Three other telephones in other areas of the home worked, police said.

The use of a rifle in the murder led authorities to speculate that the invaders may have been planning a sniper attack on the home. That kind of weapon is rarely used in an armed robbery, police said.

Pedalwork In Parade Hazardous To Maddox

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox got to moving a little too fast downhill on his bicycle as he was leading a parade Saturday, and flew off the two-wheeler, suffering minor injuries.

A doctor at Hall County Hospital, where Maddox was taken, said the lieutenant governor was treated for minor abrasions and released.

Guerilla Bombing Claim Discounted

TRIESTE, Italy (UPI)—Officials expressed doubt today about Palestinian guerrilla claims that the group bombed a Middle East oil depot in this Adriatic seaport, destroying four oil tanks and damaging two others.

"It is easy," said Deputy Prosecutor Alessandro Brenci, "to claim credit for something like this."

However, he said the claim Saturday by a Palestinian guerrilla organization called the Black September Organization that it set off bombs at the depot was under investigation—"along with other hypotheses."

San Rafael Youth Said Satisfactory

A 19-year-old San Rafael youth was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital with a cut face and scalp following a one-car accident in San Rafael yesterday.

According to police, a car driven by Douglas Lloyd Austin of 362 Irwin Street smashed into a tree after skidding southbound on Mountain View Avenue near Williams Avenue.

Best Wine In State Announced

SONOMA (UPI) —Robert Mondavi Winery's cabernet sauvignon has been named the best in the state by the heads of major California wineries.

Twelve judges met at the Buena Vista Winery Sunday and tasted 33 wines, judging on 12 points ranging from appearance and clarity to aroma and acidity.

In second place for the best cabernet sauvignon was the Louis M. Martini Winery. Beaulieu Vineyards took third place.

The tasting was the first of its kind, since all wines tasted were purchased at retail from various stores to make sure they are identical to the wines available to the general public.

In previous tastings, the wineries have usually been invited to select and present their best.

The judges were Andre Tchelistscheff, Beaulieu Vineyards; Louis F. Martini, Louis P. Martinti Winery; Otto Meyer, Paul Masson Vineyards; Daniel Mirassou, Mirassou Vineyards; Joseph Concannon, Concannon Vineyards; Myron Nightingale, Beringer Bros., Inc., Robert Mondavi, Robert Mondavi Winery; Rodney E. Strong, Windsor Vineyards; Brother Timothy, The Christian Brothers; Joseph E. Heitz, Heitz Wine Cellars; Frank Bartholomew, Buena Vista Winery; and Robert L. Balder, wine writer and university lecturer.

All 33 wines were rated but only the winners' rating have been released.

Health Department Staff Change Pleas Due Study

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow, at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center, will consider several requested staffing changes in the department of health services.

The first proposal calls for expanding the position of comprehensive health planning director from half-time to full-time.

Similar expansion is requested for the half-time position of planning coordinator of the health department.

Both positions were filled until recently by Michael Ingerman, who resigned last month to take a position on the regional staff of comprehensive health planning.

Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, director of the county health department, has recommended the positions become full-time in order to be able to handle increasing workloads.

In return, he has offered to give up an unfilled position of half-time health educator for a net increase in county cost of about $7,000. During June budget hearings, when the board of supervisors authorized the half-time health educator, department officials maintained the position was badly needed.

Elsewhere in his department, Cooke has recommended that a new position of deputy program chief be created in the mental health division. He has suggested it be filled by Jay Shinohara, currently chief of the planning and administration division. The new position would add $50 to Shinohara's $1,805 monthly check.

This new position would be offset by eliminating the vacant position of chief of psychiatric services, Cooke said. The net savings would be about $550 per month.

Cooke said the new deputy director position is needed because of changes in the county's mental health program.

Those changes, he said, also make the position of clinical director of the mental health center unnecessary and that position should be reduced to one of staff psychiatrist.

The Supervisors' agenda also includes:

HOTEL — A request that the county's abatement order against the historic Olema Hotel be extended for another 90 days pending the outcome of sale negotiations by the owner to a private investor who plans to restore the building. It has been condemned by county officials as a fire hazard.

EOC — A report from county auditor-controller Michael Mitchell on a federal audit of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council's defunct food stamp sales program, which has been cited for a $29,700 deficit.

APPEAL — An appeal, submitted by William F. O'Keefe of Tiburon, of planning commission denial of his request to build a storage platform for his seaplane in the bay. Neighbors have protested the platform and plane are ecologically damaging to bay mudflats.

Girls' Screams Lead To Rescue From Closet

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Two girls, aged 6 and 8, trapped inside the locked closet of a vacant house for three days saved their lives by screaming so loud a girl walking her dog heard them and summoned help Sunday.

The girls, Fara Fazi, 8, and Cherry Lambert, 6, rested in an Air Force hospital today where they were in good condition, being treated for dehydration.

They got locked inside the bedroom closet accidentally while playing in the new, but unoccupied house.

Hundreds of police, Air Force reservists and volunteers had searched the area since the two little girls disappeared from the Fazi front yard Thursday, but it was a 13-year-old girl walking her dog who finally heard them screaming.

"I opened up the house and went in, but I had heard that the girls had been kidnaped, so I left and went and got a neighbor," said Stephanie Roy.

13. Police had feared earlier the little girls might have been abducted.

Miss Roy came back with neighbor Frank Holtz and they found Fara and Cherry huddled behind a sliding door closet in the front bedroom of the house. The door had a lock which could only be opened from the outside.

"She told me they locked themselves in the closet while playing," said Mrs. Fazi, the elder girl's mother. She said the girls were thirsty and very hungry.

A deputy sheriff said when authorities opened the closet door, one of the girls asked "When can we eat?"

Fara, asked what the girls had done the 60 hours they were trapped, told her mother, "We just tried to get out. We lay on the floor to get some air coming under the door."

The house was only a block from the yard where they disappeared. Mrs. Fazi said authorities said they had already searched the newly built but vacant houses in the immediate area of their home.

8 Perish In Blaze In Boston

BOSTON (UPI)—Eight persons, including five youngsters and their mother and grandmother, died early today when fire swept a two-family home. Two other children were seriously burned and four firemen overcome by smoke.

The dead were identified by police as Mrs. Maria Gomes, 24, and her children—Michael, 1; Gina, 3; James, 4; Anthony, 5; and Zire, 8; her mother, Mrs. Alberta Carvalago, 60, and Catherine Ahern, 70.

The children's father, Armando, escaped the flames but the victims were trapped on the second floor or in the attic of the 21-2-story frame building, authorities said.

DEAD ON ARRIVAL

All eight were dead on arrival at Boston City Hospital.

The cause of the fire was not immediately known but fire officials estimated damages at $20,000.

A neighbor, Anatasio Rosa, who lives across the street, rescued two youngsters and said the flames spread so quickly rescue of anyone else was impossible.

The injured children were identified as Bardena Andrade, 3, and her sister Dandeda, 6. Bardena was in poor condition at the hospital while the older girl was "out of danger," a spokesman said. Their parents and another relative escaped uninjured.

Gomes survived the blaze but was able to tell firemen only that he was sleeping on the second floor when the fire erupted at about 12:30 a.m. and when he stepped into a hallway, he ran into a "sheet of flame." He was admitted to the hospital in shock.

SHAFED FLOORS

Gomes and his family shared the top floors of the converted dwelling with two other women and a man. The man was tentatively listed as missing but officials said he may not have been home at the time of the fire.

When firefighters arrived, flames were visible throughout the upper parts of the building. The building had been recently converted for use by two families, officials said.

Four firemen were overcome by smoke battling the blaze, which took about two hours to control.

Tam Board To Study Tax Hike

Tamalpais High School District trustees will be asked today to levy an additional 7 cents on the operating tax rate for the 1972-73 school year in order to provide a special reserve building fund.

The board will meet at 8 o'clock in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, who will recommend the levy, said the money would maintain and rehabilitate the district's three high schools over the next three years.

Among projects termed "current major priority needs" are:

Tamalpais High School: renovate middle floor entry of Keyser Hall, $11,000; remodel upper level of Keyser Hall for more art space, $12,000; remodel men's restroom at Wood Hall, $3,300; install portable building next to kiln for modern ceramics facility, $56,000.

Redwood High School: locker rooms for boys physical education, $60,000; tennis courts, $65,000; reuild football field, $120,000.

Sir Francis Drake High School: new art room, $38,500.

A public hearing on the district's final budget of $10,702,863 is set midway through the board's meeting. If adopted, the 1972-73 budget would require a $1.88 tax rate per $100 assessed valuation.

Library Rates To Rise; August A Grace Period

New library penalty rates for overdue books will take effect Sept. 1, County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema said yesterday.

The new rates were approved Tuesday by the board of supervisors and the month of August was subsequently established by Bajema as a grace period to encourage the return of county books.

Library patrons have been asked to search their shelves for overdue books, which may be returned to any branch of the county library, Bajema said.

Regardless of how long books have been overdue, no money will be collected for them in August but patrons will continue to be billed for lost books.

On Sept. 1, new fines on adult books will be 10 cents a day with a maximum fine of $3.50 per book while children's books will be three cents with a $1.50 maximum.

Nonviolence Vow For Convention

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Republican National Convention will be the scene of "the most massive sit-in in American history," according to anti-war organizer Rennie Davis.

"This will not be another Chicago," said Davis. "In every way it will be nonviolent."

Davis told a news conference Friday that protest organizers for the GOP convention have met several times with Miami Beach police officials. Davis praised Chief Rocky Pomerance as "a man of integrity. We respect him. Our relations have been terrific."

Slogan Girl Gets Nixon Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— Vicki Lynn Cole, 17, the girl who gave President Nixon the slogan "Bring Us Together Again" will actively campaign for his re-election and will serve as state chairman of the Future Voters for the President.

During a whistle stop campaign trip to Deshler, Ohio in 1968, Nixon spotted Vicki, then 13, holding a sign reading "Bring Us Together Again."

The President used the slogan as the theme of his campaign and it also is the theme of his inaugural address and opening of his administration.

Coleman Drug Charges Dismissed

Felony charges of possessing marijuana and dangerous drugs against Steven Pope Coleman, 19, of Mill Valley, have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Peter Allen Smith discharged Coleman after he was told there was no reason to believe drugs found in a pair of pants in a vehicle on May 28 belonged to Coleman.

Bilked Consumers Do Have Recourse

If you feel you have received defective merchandise or inferior services or have been the victim of gross misrepresentation, you do have certain remedies, but the iniative must come from you.

The tendency for many of us is to shrug our shoulder and suffer in silence, discouraged and even intimidated by the apparent hopelessness of an individual's chances against a corporation or a large business establishment.

The consumer need not sit helplessly by and resign himself to taking it on the chin, says Donald G. Livingston, director of the California Department of Consumer Affairs. Booklets and other literature are available upon request from any office of the Department of Consumer Affairs. Its San Francisco office is located at 30 Van Ness Avenue.

Among the informative booklets are those on Small Claims Court, which tells the grievant how to go about suing if he has been cheated by a person or a store; Consumer Education Information Resources, listing sources of information on credit, food, and good buying habits; and Consumer Groups, listing California organizations interested in consumer affairs.

A consumer with a complaint should first go to the store where the alleged infraction occurred. All too often, customers, in their eagerness to bring in an ally in the form of a consumer organization or a state agency, will go running for outside aid when a direct complaint to the store could solve the problem.

At the store, if the clerk is unable to give satisfaction, the supervisor or manager should be contacted, and the store should be allowed a few days or a week to take care of the complaint.

If, after a reasonable wait, no redress is forthcoming, that's the time to gather your facts and seek outside help from the California Department of Consumer Affairs, the Better Business Bureau in San Francisco, or other governmental agencies set up to enforce laws on consumer protection.

The consumer reference guide published by the Department of Consumer Affairs lists more than 60 areas in which complaints may arise, and the appropriate agencies to contact.

The main office of the California Department of Consumer Affairs is at 1020 N Street, Sacramento, Calif. 95814.

Herons And Egrets

In Marin County one of the best places to observe herons and egrets is at the Audubon Canyon Ranch on the Bolinas Lagoon. They belong to the same family of long-billed, long-necked, long-legged, three-ed wading birds. The Great Blue Heron may stand five feet tall, with the rest of the family about half that trial In the breeding season, they build their nests high in the redwoods overlooking the Lagoon. In recent years, however, they have suffered from soft-shelled eggs, which reduces the percentage of successful hatchings. This defect is presumably caused by DDT, though other substances, such as PCB, are also suspect. It is thought these birds acquire the DDT from the fish in the San Joaquin and Sacramento River deltas, where they feed part of the year.

Bird lovers will be watching Bolinas Lagoon carefully for the next several years, hoping the recent ban on DDT will result in harder shells and a better rate of hatching. Let us hope the majestic birds of the Bolinas Lagoon rookery will survive the many onslaughts of modern society.

Nixon Gets Action From His Privy Councillor

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A recent press release from the governor's office sounded innocuous: An announcement that the governor "would seek immediate legislation to improve facilities at the San Onofre Bluffs State Beach in northern San Diego County a year ahead of schedule."

Unsaid was that the $340,000 "facilities" are to be toilets next to the President's private beach at San Clemente.

The tale we heard began when Richard M. Nixon — sniffing an election year — went down to the beach to press the flesh. But when he stuck out his hand, he struck out.

Where were the people? he demanded.

AFTER ALL, as noted in the governor's release, "President Nixon was instrumental in having the Marine Corps turn over the beach over to the state for public use on a $1-a-year lease." And after going to all that trouble, the President clearly expected to see the voters at play. With photographers trailing him as he mingled among the voters.

Informed the public was discouraged from using the beach for lack of "facilities," the President reportedly turned to John Erlichman, his special advisor on domestic affairs (i.e., Privy Councillor), and demanded immediate action.

THIS HISTORIC conversation took place while Gov. Ronald Reagan was in Europe on his goodwill mission for the President. Erlichman, we were told, carried out his orders with such zest that he had the governor called out of a palace meeting with heads of state just so the ukase could be delivered and work begun.

Erlichman apparently knew an important order when he heard one. It's this kind of quick thinking that makes a privy councillor.

THE DEAL stipulated that the state pay half of the cost "for construction of the water and sewage facilities." That's a far cry from the modest foxholes that met the needs of the Marines, who held the beach from 1942 until a year ago April.

This modest initial investment will service 3.5 miles of beach.

The state's share was promptly grafted onto a bill, SB 467 by Sen. Clair W. Burgener, R-Las Mesa. The bill, an "urgency" supplement to the state budget, was pushed through the Legislature in great haste in two weeks and will take effect immediately upon signature by the governor.

THE BILL DECLARES that the toilets are "greatly needed" and that the $170,000 in state funds 'will avert any unnecessary delay."

The bill, however, does not suggest answers to: Why this beach? Why this year?

If only the President would give up San Clemente in favor of a travelling beach caravan, then other beaches could share his munificence.

Hub Police Lauded For Efficient Job

Approximately one month ago, my mother left on a trip to the East Coast. As always, when either of us travel, we notified our San Anselmo Police Department of the dates of departure and return.

Due to the bad weather in the East, my mother's departure was postponed one day. Consequently, she was still in the house on the day the police department had been advised she would be gone. On this day, an officer came to her door, checking to see why there was someone in the house. She explained that her flight had been changed to the next day.

The effectual action of this officer really was appreciated by us both, and I feel that it is efficiency such as this in the department that San Anselmo is rarely listed in the publication of thefts which appear in the Independent-Journal.

Newsboy Delivers Despite Broken Leg

I'm a visitor from Portland, Ore. Today I took this snapshot of one of your paper boys on Woodland Avenue.

I stopped him and found out he had broken his leg five months ago, and the cast has been off his leg for 10 days. But the boy still has to use crutches to walk. His name is Johnny Pettibone, and today is his second day on the job.

I must say I admire this kind of determination to work in a young boy. With boys like this, maybe our world won't be so bad after all!

I'm enjoying San Rafael to its fullest.

Make Better Use Of Fine Arts Theater

I have now experienced all three of the College of Marin's theaters and cannot understand how the college can justify the use of the Seminary's old, unsafe Theater No. 3. To subject the audience to the hard uncomfortable seats, the poor seating arrangements, the lack of ventilation, marginal lighting, substandard stage, antiquated and unclean restrooms, poor audio amplification and generally all the shortcomings of an old theater is irreconcilable with the million dollar Fine Arts Theater going unused.

It is inconceivable that the College's administration and the board of trustees permit a continuation of this mockery to the tax payer. When the drama department asked for the Fine Arts Theater to be built, only the best and most expensive would suffice. Now we are told that the Seminary's theater is needed because it is more rustic?

Can the board of trustees honestly permit college funds to be used on this old theater while two on-compus theaters are used only on an irregular basis??

Drama Reviewer Draws Criticism

I am an actress, currently performing with the Marin Shakespeare Festival. Normally, I am unaffected by reviews of productions I appear in; but I feel personally compelled to respond to what seemed to me to be a presumptuous and tasteless move on the part of the person who reviewed our production of Romeo and Juliet.

An artist in the theatre is truly a strange creature. He works for many years without recompense, in college or community productions, then small groups, walking the slow road to some form of recognition for the work he his put into his craft. One would hope that a review of a play would be something by which the artist can profit in the knowledge of what he has failed or achieved to accomplish. I can find no excuse for even a smaller paper such as the Journal, to allow a review of such shallow content to be exhibited to the community. It is not fair to the community, to the festival, or to the people who have worked an endless number of hours to bring this production to its opening.

I do not wish to argue interpretively with this reviewer about his opinion of the actor who played Romeo. My point in this letter, is that despite a pretty damaging headline to the review, the writer was so general in his critique of Romeo, as well as in his praise of the other actors in the play, that I wondered if the reviewer was at the play beyond the first few scenes.

With the tremendous amount of creative and intellectual resources in Marin County, I hope that the Journal will, in the future, find a theatrical critic who takes his or her work a little more seriously, and not hit actors below the creative belt for the sake of a strong headline for a review with no substance.

Better luck next time,

BARBARA BISHOP

Farm Initiative Is 'Anti-Farmworker'

This letter is in response to the column by Rus Walton printed in your paper Wednesday, July 26, in regard to the initiative called "The Agricultural Labor Relations Act of 1972". This initiative which every citizen will be voting on in November is anti-farmworker and strangles the efforts of farmworkers to achieve better working and living conditions.

Do the people reading your newspaper know that the average yearly income of a farmworker's family of four, working full time, is only $2700? Do they know that 800 workers are killed per year as a result of misuse of lethal pesticides? Do they know, also, that 95 per cent of farmworkers housing does not have a toilet, bath or sink? Do they know that 400,000 children below the age of 13 work under hot sun in stoop labor? Finally, do your readers know that this initiative if passed creates a five-person Agricultural Relation Board (appointed by the governor) to the tune of $600,000 per year financed from state sources?

As for "free" elections — this initiative disenfranchises most of the workers in that no worker can vote unless he worked for an agricultural employer for 100 days of the last calendar year. The initiative clearly states, "The date of such election shall be set at a time when the number of temporary agricultural employees entitled to vote does not exceed the number of permanent agricultural employees entitled to vote". Most large growers employ only a few workers year-round and hundreds of workers at the time of harvest. Thus, if a lettuce grower has 20 permanent year-round workers and 200 harvest workers, then the election must be set at a time when there are no more than 20 harvest workers eligible to vote, effectively taking the vote from 180 seasonal workers. It is up to the people to protect the farmworkers' future and in so doing protect themselves by voting NO on the anti-farmworker initiative.

We Urgently Need New Way To Select Veep Candidates

WASHINGTON — One thing emerges starkly clear from Senator McGovern's decision that he had to drop Senator Eagleton as his running mate:

We must find a better way of choosing vice-presidential candidates before a calamity befalls the nation.

There are compelling reasons.

A potential President of the United States should not be a one-man choice — and that applies equally to both political parties.

THE SELECTION of the vice-presidential nominee has almost invariably been casual, haphazard, a decision made in consultation with weary minds in the hectic closing hours of the convention.

There is no time for an adequate check on the prospective candidate's background — medical, financial, political. Senator McGovern talked for 45 seconds on the telephone with Eagleton and when McGovern asked him if there were things he ought to know about his past, he took a quick "no" as sufficient.

There was no solid investigation by the staff of any of the possible candidates on the McGovern list, and when they got down to Eagleton, they called a few friends to see if there was anything they needed to know and were assured there wasn't.

I AM NOT saying that Sen. Eagleton's hospitalizations prove that he would not have the stamina and balance needed in office. But the facts should have been known to those who had to make the decision and not withheld until investigative reporters forced them out.

The choice was hasty, the investigation was sloppy and the convention was given no freedom to choose among real alternatives.

This is not a special vice of the Democrats. Both parties do it approximately the same way — badly. There is no evidence that Eisenhower checked out Nixon's background in 1952, and there is no evidence that Nixon checked out Agnew's background in 1968.

BUT PERHAPS the most compelling reason to reform the method of choosing vice-presidential candidates is that the nomination ought not to be kept out of the democratic process.

The odds that he will become President are great and the strain and peril of the job are becoming greater.

The Vice Presidency is the most powerful escalator to a presidential nomination in public life today.

The Vice Presidency is becoming a more active and powerful office every year —and it is not going to become less so.

ONCE THE LEADERS of both parties agree that we must have a better way of choosing vice-presidential candidates, they'll find it. Some of the ingredients of a better way would be these:

1—An end to one-man choice. The presidential nominee could name a half-dozen acceptable candidates and then let the democratic process of the convention make the decision.

2—More time for making the choice. The presidential candidate could be nominated on the first day and his running mate on the last day of the convention. Or a two-week period could intervene and the choice put into the hands of the national committee reflective of the convention.

3—An objective report to the nation on the physical and mental health of all four of the nominees by an above-politics commission.

Reform to this end is not something that would just be nice. It is urgent and imperative.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Abortion Drama Is Part Of GOP's Convention Scenario

WASHINGTON — You will be forgiven if you betray a moment's suspicion at the news that some Republican ladies are planning to make an issue of abortion reform at their party's convention at Miami Beach. Suspicion because everybody knows Mr. Nixon already has come out against abortion reform, because one of the women threatening to push the question anyway is the wife of one of his major officials, because of an inevitable reaction to any such disturbance in Mr. Nixon's television time: What's the catch?

I will not suggest that Jill Ruckelshaus, wife of the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, is colluding with anybody. Nor Rita Hauser, co-chairperson of the Nixon re-election campaign. Their statements favoring a hands-off government attitude toward abortion fairly sing of sincerity, and their hopes of writing a plank to that effect into the Republican platform obviously are genuine (although both concede that their chances are negligible).

THE QUESTION, after the President knowingly pulled the plug on any remaining suspense about the convention by announcing his reselection of Mr. Agnew, is why he and his convention arrangers are going to tolerate any such manifestation of disunanimity as that now proposed about abortion.

To be sure, the principals are not going to be rowdies like Bella Abzug, Gloria Steinem, Friedan, Friendan, Shirley MacLaine and the others who tried and failed to get a liberalabortion plank into the Democratic platform. These are going to be both Republicans and ladies, as I said.

NEVERTHELESS, THEY are going to work with the same National Women's Political Caucus, and the subject of abortion is just as emotionalat a Republican gathering as at any other. At least they are going to bring it up first in the platform hearings at the Fontainebleau Hotel the week before the convention starts. If, after their likely defeat in committee, they decide to take a minority plank on the subject to the floor, it will come up late the afternoon of Tuesday, Aug. 22, shortly before the President's renomination.

One impulse is to put it all down as a way of waking the television audience up before that great moment. It might succeed in tearing the cameras off the street demonstrators who have promised to raise so much hell, and focusing on the action inside for a few minutes.

THE MESSAGE TO the watching public then would be that the Republican Party is big enough to entertain debate even about issues on which its undisputed leader already has set course. This is the charitable version, in which the convention shows conern over a matter of deep interest to all voters, especially women. (As this very President's own Commission on Population Growth reported, half the country thinks abortion should be a matter decided solely between women and their physicians, which is just what the proposed plank would specify.)

However, that version is too simple for those who have always believed the M between Richard and Nixon stood for Machiavelli.

THESE ARE THE ones who remember that the Population Commission's report urging liberalized and uniform abortion laws was issued in March; the nation's Catholic bishops condemned the recommendation in April; Mr. Nixon disowned that same recommendation on May 5; the next day he sent a letter to New York's Cardinal Cooke applauding the Church's efforts to repeal the liberal state law there; and in June a Gallup Poll showed that the President's standing among Catholic voters was up dramatically. The assumption is that Mr. Nixon is astute enough to discern some connection between thos events, even if it is unsporting ot anybody else to.

IT FOLLOWS from that assumption that Mr. Nixon's arrangers will tolerate and even encourage the little sideshow about abortion — but not for its educational value, which is how Mrs. Ruckelshaus realistically views her efforts. Instead, the value of the exercise to them will be its conclusion, the firm defeat of a liberal abortion plank there before the watching eyes of Cardinal Cooke, the bishops and the other half of the country that presumably rejects the idea that women and their physicians should make decisions on abortion without interference from politicians.

But this, you understand, is the cynical version, the one that maintains that M stands for Machiavelli and that the Grand Old Party is positively quivering over its prospects among Catholicvoters this year.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By THERON NEWELL

Why Not A Highway Turnstile To Safeguard Pets, Children

The other day I saw the body of a poodle in the center divider of Highway 101 near Hamilton Air Force Base. It obviously was someone's pet as it was well groomed and the license was plainly visible on the dog's collar. The body was there for two days over the weekend before it was removed.

I figured that it must have jumped out of a car and been hit by another car and killed. There was no other way for it to get through the protective chain link fence of the freeway.

LATER I SAW a place in the fence which had been left open for pedestrians to use the overpass south of the base. The dog could easily have wandered through this out onto the freeway.

Then I thought that small children could do the same thing. The state Division of Highways could put a turnstile there that could be used by older children and adults and protect the small children and pets.

Birthdays have a habit of rolling around much too often. My auto insurance agent sends out birthday cards not only wishing his customers a happy birthday, but also reminding them to check their driver's licenses. Mine had expired, so I renewed it. When I got it, the man said that it was no good for riding a motorcycle.

ONLY THEN did I realize that it took a special license to drive a motorcycle. That is a good step in the right direction in controlling motorcycles. Over the years I have covered so many fatal and near-fatal accidents of motorcycles. These single vehicle accidents are on the increase.

Stricter licensing of those who drive them might be one way to cut down on these accidents.

Many years ago, I had a friend who hated motorcycles and their noise. He had a solution to the problem then and kept repeating it whenever the occasion arose.

HE SAID THAT all motorcycles could be eliminated by making anyone riding them take a sanity test before riding it. That would eliminate all of them, he said, because no sane person would get on one.

Along the same line, statistics show that bicycle accidents both maiming and fatal are on the increase in California. This is probably due to the increase in bicycles and their greater speed.

Novato statistics back up the state on bicycle accidents. In 1970 Novato averaged an accident every 12 days. The first half of this year, it had increased to one every four and a half days, with May and June averaging one every three days. About 75 per cent of these are injury accidents, according to Patrolman Albert Mendoza.

BICYCLISTS ARE trying to get special bicycle trails. The county and cities are spending money on such trails. That may help some for long-distance rides.

The main danger to bicyclists is their utter disregard for traffic laws and regulations. They run stop signs, ride against the traffic and on sidewalks. Old and young alike violate these laws.

Some movement should be made to license bicycles to pay for the trails and at the same time, license the riders. At that time they could be instructed that bicycles are supposed to obey traffic laws. They are not supposed to be ridden on sidewalks, but with the traffic in the streets, not against it.

THE NOVATO CITY Council recently changed its meeting dates from the second and fourth Tuesdays to the first and third. In arguing for the chan e, councilman George Quesada said that after Jan. 1, he would have a conflict.

"It may be that I might have to resign," he said, but he would not say whether it was from the council or whatever would conflict with it.

The other day I took count of the passengers on the big buses that were running around the Novato area. I counted seven passengers on 12 buses. Mentally I calculated that these passengers would not pay for the gasoline used, much less the wages of the bus driver or the wear and tear on the bus.

Then my count was shattered, the 13th bus was half filled, but it was with commuters.

Demos Ignore Platform, Nominate Sen. Eastland

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democrats needed less than three weeks to disregard one demand in their party platform for the 1972 campaign.

They voted July 28 to nominate Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi for election by the Senate as president pro tempore, a largely honorary position held by a member who substitutes during absences of the vice president as the presiding officer. He succeeded the late Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana.

The job does carry prestige, $7,000 a year more than the salaries of other members of Congress, and a limousine. But whenever the Senate is handling routine business, a freshman senator is more likely to be presiding than the vice president or president pro tempore.

BY TRADITION reaching back half a century, the post goes to the senior senator of the majority party.(This tradition is even older than the seniority rule for selecting committee chairmen.)

A section of the Democratic platform adopted at the Miami Beach national convention blames the seniority system for weakening Congress and the political parties.

And one provision says that Democrats in Congress should "withhold any seniority benefits from a member of Congress who fails to overtly identify with the Democratic organization in his state which is recognized by the national Democratic party."

ONLY MISSISSIPPI elect members identified with a state party not recognized by the national party. The 1968 and 1972 conventions ousted the Mississippi regulars and seated a biracial party delegation, which asserted compliance with the rules of the national party.

Renominated for a seventh term this year by the Mississippi regulars, Eastland is regarded as a sure winner in November. His Mississippi colleague, Sen. John C. Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, is chosen by the same faction.

WHEN THE PRESENT Congress convened in January, 1971, Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., raised questions about future admission of senators to the Democratic caucus if they were elected other than as nominees of state parties recognized by the national party. Stennis had won as the candidate of the Mississippi regulars and Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia as an independent.

By a 2-1 vote, a special committee submitted a report proposing that members qualify for the Democratic caucus and its assignments only if they were nominees of their state parties. This proposal, which could have affected Eastland's future status, was rejected by the caucus.

EASTLAND'S ELECTION as president pro tempore may have been a minor breach in the seniority tradition.

The new platform calls for open-ballot selection of chairmen who will carry out party programs, and for disciplining them or committee members who ignore caucus instructions to report bills.

IT ALSO ASKS an end to the "closed rule" on House Ways and Means Committee bills, which deal largely with taxes and Social Security. With no such rule across the Capitol, the Senate can convert a minor bill into a "Christmas tree" with something for everybody.

Before new policies can govern committees and their chairmen, the Democrats need to win elections Nov. 7 that will keep them in control of the House and Senate.

First Jump Is Fatal To Kansas Coed

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI — Christine Curtis' first parachute jump killed her Sunday.

The 20-year-old red-haired Wichita State coed fell more than 5,000 feet before her auxiliary chute opened about 100 feet off the ground. But it was too late.

Her jumping instructor, Dale Mitchell, 25, told sheriff deputies he noticed the static line break as she left the small airplane they were in.

He said he immediately jumped out and free fell in a futile attempt to catch up to her. He landed safely on a county road several hundred yards from where Christine landed.

He told Sheriff Sgt. Dick Wallace, "I realize everyone has a time to go, but I just wonder why I had to have a part in this one."

Wallace was one of the first deputies to arrive at the plowed farm field northwest of Wichita. He said the opened parachute was lying a few feet from her body.

"The pilot, her instructor, everyone said she was a real levelheaded girl," Wallace said. "If she had just realized the problem with her chute she would have been all right. She just didn't pull the cord soon enough."

Christine's mother, Janice Curtis, said her daughter, an elementary education major in her junior year, was also active in mountain climbing and karate clubs.

"She was a quiet girl, but she always liked those kind of activities," Mrs. Curtis said. "She became interested in jumping at the beginning of the summer, and I guess she had a few hours of ground instruction first. But I was always apprehensive about it."

Although Pat Quesnel, 23, originally planned to row nonstop across the Pacific from the mainland to Hawaii, he had his plans changed when his rowing partner got an infected knee and they had to accept a tow into San Francisco. Quesnel of Seattle set out from La Push, Wash., on June 18 but he hopes to resume the voyage with a friend who is presently seeking a spot on the Olympic rowing team. He is shown here in his 22-foot-long boat Hawaii Kio.

Fischer Resignation Ends Eleventh Game

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — For three minutes Bobby Fischer sat alone on the brightly lighted stage. Boris Spassky had moved his rook five squares and left his $270 swivel chair for his dressing room backstage.

Fischer hunched over the wooden board supporting his head with his left hand. Then with a swift movement he stopped his clock, signed the protocol and conceded defeat on the 31st move. The 2,000 spectators in the dark hall went wild. Russians among the fans stomped their feet and cried "bravo, Boris, bravo" but still there was no sign of the world champion.

Finally Spassky returned. He walked slowly to the board with the applause reaching new crescendos. The Russian nodded and then lifted both hands pleading the crowd to stop. Only then did he sit down and sign the scoresheet which recorded his greatest triumph so far in the incident-marred $250,000 "match of the century."

Spassky had won the 11th game and cut the 29-year-old American challenger's lead from 61-2 to 41-2 points.

Reykjavik radio interupted its final broadcast of the day with a bulletin announcing Spassky's victory. The interruption was the first of its kind the station has used during the series.

And what a victory. For nine moves it looked like an instant replay of the seventh game which ended in a draw on the 49th move after Spassky had been on the brink of defeat. But the world champion had learned his lesson. He tempted Fischer into a small mistake on the 14th move and applied pressure. Ten moves later the crowd watched in stunned silence as Spassky's pawn felled the American's queen.

In the corridor outside, grandmaster Nikolai Krogius, one of Spassky's four seconds, got up with a satisfied smile and put on his raincoat. But Fischer refused to give in. "Perhaps he did not want the books to record such a quick triumph for Spassky. He could have resigned straightaway, "said Lothar Schmid, the German arbiter.

Grandmasters wasted little time in heaping praise on Spassky who appeared to have lost his crown after a shattering 56th moves defeat in Friday's 10th game.

With the 12th game coming up Tuesday at 1 p.m. EDT, Fischer still needs six points to capture the first world title for an American.

"A fantastic game ' said Yugoslavia's Svetozar Gligoric. "Spassky beat Bobby in his own game and played like a true champion."

Bent Larsen of Denmark agreed "Just what the doctor ordered. Spassky has had a rough time so far with Fischer's behavior and his own poor game. This was a victory to lift his morale sky high, only too bad Bobby did not remain on stage to congratulate him. Spassky applauded after the American's fine victory in the sixth match, Bobby could have repaid the compliment today."

"My money is still on Fischer, but Spassky certainly has bounced right into the ball game. A two point lead is almost impossible to overcome against a player of Fischer's genius, but let's see."

Street Group Will Concertize

Lacrymae Baroque Ensemble, a group of San Francisco street musicians, will present a concert of baroque chamber music at 8:30 p.m. Friday at Sausalito Art Center.

Works will include Bach sonatas for flute, violin, cello and harpsicord, as well as 17th-century French and German music.

Additional information can be obtained from the center.

New York Program

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mayor John Lindsay said Sunday that the city has launched a program, jointly sponsored by the Vera Institute and the Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs Administration, that will employ some 100 former drug abusers immediately.

VIET DENTISTRY, FAITH

Ex-Marinites Tell Experiences

By MARLENE FREEDMAN

Dr. Douglas Gibson, oral surgeon, has encountered cases in South Vietnam that he never dreamed of when he lived in Marin.

Just recently, he treated a small boy whose face was mashed in by a water buffalo.

Another patient suffered a chin so infected that it was covered with blackened tissue, because he didn't want to go to Saigon to the hospital and so was treated by a local village doctor.

It is all part of Gibson's duties as surgeon and dental instructor under a program sponsored by the United States Agency for International Development.

His wife, Elizabeth, spends half her time caring for their two children attending school in Malaysia and the other half preaching the Baha'i faith in the South Vietnamese countryside.

The international family was back in Marin over the weekend for the first time in two years.

Dr. Gibson extended his 30-day leave into an around-the-wsrld trip for the famiqy and visited friends in Marin on the last leg before returning to Vietnam. The family lived in Lucas Valley and then Marinwood.

Dr. Gibson is working under very different conditions from those he had at the Veterans Administration Hospital in San Francisco and the University of California School of Dentistry in San Francisco.

He works at Nguyen Van Hoc Hospital, the largest teaching hospital in Saigon. But when he needs the services of a plastic surgeon or a neurosurgeon, he has to go out of the hospital.

The operating room in the 500-bed hospital has "only basic equipment", he says, and is plag ed by a "problem of cleanliness." There wouldn't be any equipment at all "if it wasn't for AID."

Twice, he says, they have had power failures during surgery and since the hospital has no auxiliary power, he finished the operations using flashlights and torches.

"I've never run into any antagonism against Americans", he said, although about 50 per cent of his caseload results from war injuries.

He sees his teaching assignment as crucial. "Many of the injured can't get to us. They are either treated on a local level — and not in the sophisticated way that we can treat them at the hospital — or they die."

He is training dental students so that they can pass on their training to others who will go out into the provinces to practice.

Dr. Gibson went to work for AID in 1970. He completed his 18-month contract and renewed it for another 18 months. In June 1973, the program will be phased out although dental and medical equipment will continue to be supplied by AID.

In the midst of one of the most controversial areas of the world, Dr. Gibson has little to say about the military or political situation. He explains: "As a Baha'i, I remain apolitical."

But the Gibsons have a lot to say about their religious faith. His attractive, long-haired wife out-talks her articulate husband on that subject.

"I go into the provinces and talk about the oneness of mankind", she says a matter-of-factly. It is only after further discussion that she tells of the excitement and the danger.

"We travel to the provinces in all different ways — two-legged, four-legged, even boats."

When they drive, she says, she and her contingent make it a habit to let all the other motor traffic go down the road ahead of them. "That way we can see if any mines were planted during the night."

Her interpreters — versed in the numerous dialects — go ahead of them and gather the villagers from the countryside into a central meeting place. Then she arrives and through her interpreters, preaches the Baha'i faith.

Baha'i is the third largest faith in Vietnam, she says, behind Buddhism and Christianity.

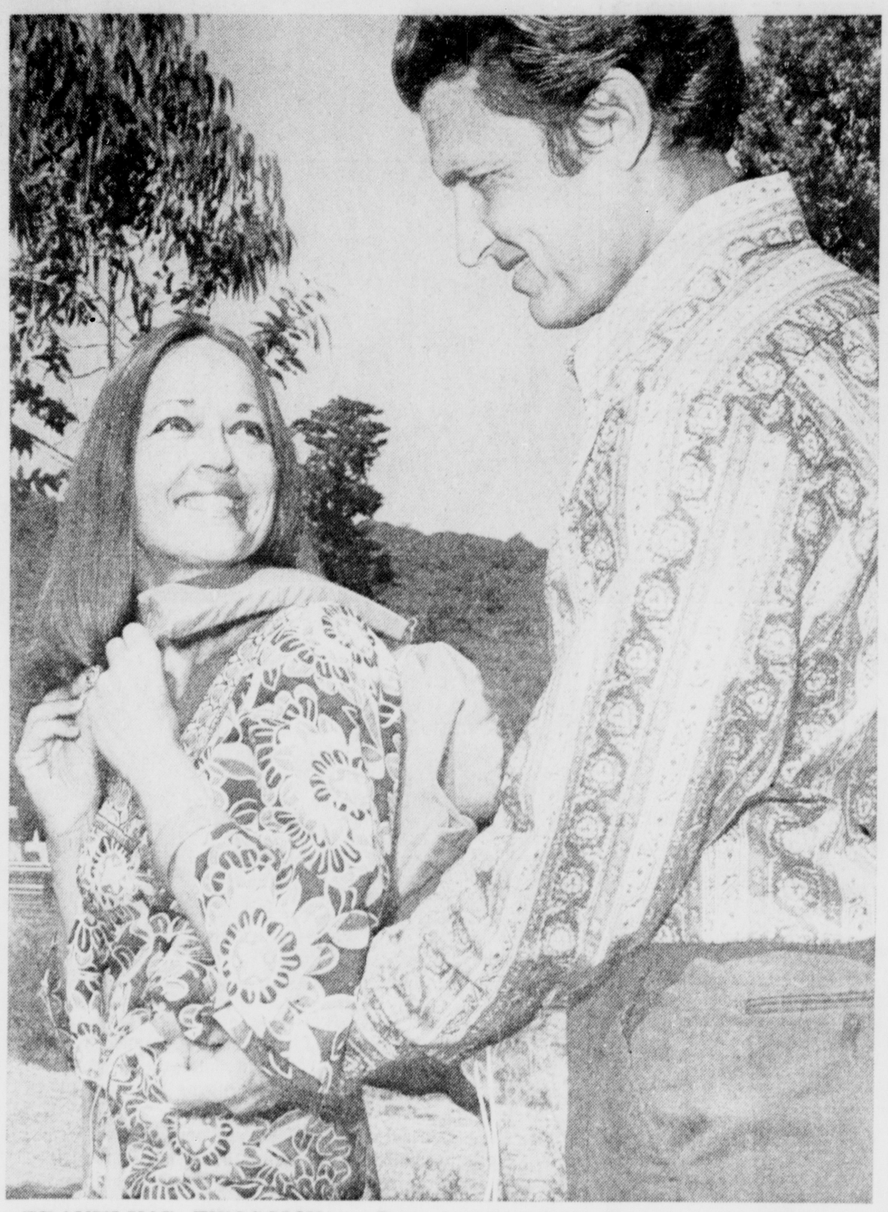

She visits six or seven villages in a day, being sure to return to Saigon by dark.

The villagers are friendly, she says smilingly. "They are invariably fascinated by my height compared to them, and by the fact that I have only two children while they each have about a dozen.

"They sometimes ask me if I know how to work in the rice fields. I ask them if they know how to work in corn fields and they laugh." Her interludes between preaching are spent in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, caring for their children: Peter, 15, and Deborah, 16. And their family is growing. They are adopting a Vietnamese-American Negro girl, 3 years old.

Wrong Date

Saturday's Independent-Journal erred in reporting the date of the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Tamlalpais Improvement Club. The club will meet at 8 p.m. Sept. 7.

Irish Riot, More Deaths Follow British Takeover Of IRA Posts

BELFAST (UPI)—A landmine explosion near the border with the Irish Republic killed two British soldiers early today, enveloping their patrol vehicle in a ball of fire. Gunmen dumped a youth's body in a Belfast Protestant area.

Hundreds of youths using iron battering rams smashed into an army post and set an armored car on fire before troops drove them back.

The army said the two soldiers were killed and two other injured when a Claymore mine exploded under their vehicle near the border town of Lismaskea, in County Fermanagh. The explosion wrecked the vehicle and set it ablaze.

In Belfast an unidentified youth in his late teens was found shot dead in the Protestant Donegall area near the entrance to one of the main highways running south, an army spokesman said.

The three deaths brought to 498 the number of persons killed in three years of sectarian strife and military operations in Northern Ireland, including 16 dead since the army occupied Irish Republican Army (IRA) strongholds in the province Monday.

Two soldiers were slightly hurt early today when the IRA brought a rocket launcher into action again, firing two shells at a British army post in the LaSalle School in Belfast's Catholic Andersonstown district.

The army said two shells from the rocker launcher — first used last September and fired twice with little effect last month — exploded in the school's gymnasium, which the British army is not using.

An army spokesman said the gymnasium was wrecked and a section of the school used for infants' classes badly damaged. He said the army has only an observation post in one corner of the school's main building. It was not hit, but its windows were blown out, he said.

In the first large-scale Catholic rioting since the assault on the IRA barricaded so-called "no go" areas, 500 youths using heavy iron poles as battering rams smashed in the main barbed wire gates of a new army post in the Catholic Andersonstown district of Belfast.

The rioters set fire to a Saracen armored car blocking the entrance to the post before troops drove them back with vollies of rubber bullets. The youths fought back with rocks and bottles during the two-hour battle before soldiers finally dispersed them.

The army said one soldier suffered a broken jaw and another a broken arm in the rioting. Two Catholic civilian men were seriously injured when their car was hit by a bomb aimed at an army ambulance in the fighting.

The battle erupted after 1,200 Catholics marched to a Gaelic football stadium to protest the army's takeover of the field and two nearby schools to accommodate the new post.

The Social Democratic and Labor Party (SDLP), the province's main Catholic opposition party, postponed a meeting today with William Whitelaw, secretary of state for Northern Ireland. At the meeting, Whitelaw had hoped to discuss a political settlement of Northern Ireland's trouble . The party did not give the reason for the postponement but SDLP source linked it with Sunday's rioting.

Meeting Slated On Development

A town meeting will be held at Lagunitas School Wednesday at 8 p.m. to discuss the future development of the San Geronimo Valley.

County planning commissioner Werner Von Gundell will be on hand to answer questions about possible encroachment of residential and commercial areas on open space.

The meeting will be in the multi-purpose room of the school.

Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition

HERE'S HEALTH!

by JUNE EMBURY

Last week, I mentioned the great new Multi-Vitamin supplement, FORTRESS, which contains large amounts of Vitamin C, combined with Bioflavanoids and Vitamin E in a form said to be more readily assimilated. This supplement is made by the remarkable Emory Thurston, Ph.D., Sc. D., lecturer on bio-chemistry, nutrition and pharmacy subjects. In his mid-80's, he's a living example of "practicing what he preaches," radiating vigor, stamina, keen mind and dedication to humanity.

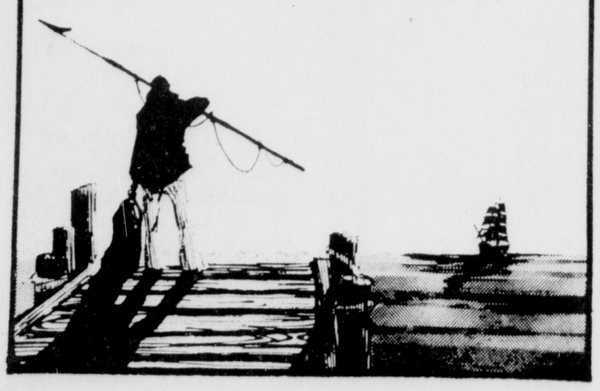

We keep on hand a special file of informative Research Bulletins, published by Dr. Thurston's Institute of Nutritional Research in Hollywood. These discuss various dietary deficiencies, based on material provided by other scientists as well as Dr. Thurston and include suggestions for correcting deficiencies. Copies are yours for the asking.

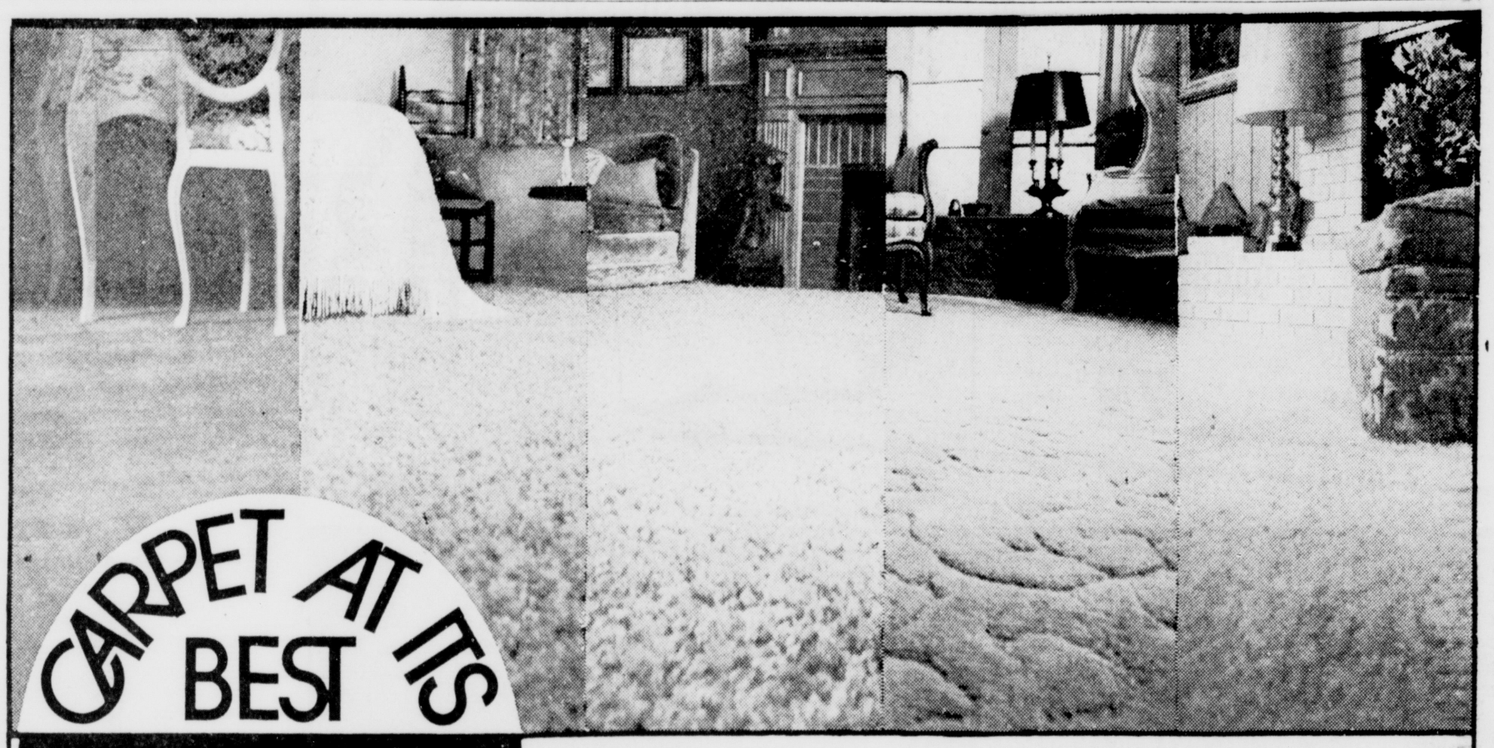

Emory Thurston is coming to Marin in October for a lecture series, more of which later.

Tragedies Overcome, Couple Celebrates Golden Anniversary

Tragedy has struck the lives of Mr. and Mrs. William Richards of Novato many times, but they have overcome it and are now looking forward to their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Florence Schwieger of Lafayette, Ore., and Mr. Richards of Dayton, Ore., met in a restaurant where Mrs. Richards was working. "I had one too many meals there," Mrs. Richard reflected kiddingly. And Mrs. Richards answered, "My boss said he would be a good catch, but I told him I wouldn't go to a dog fight with him. Four months later I married him."

They were married at the Methodist parsonage in McMinnville, Ore. Mr. Richard was born in Sonohomish, Wash., and then moved to Rupert, Idaho. Later he came by covered wagon with his parents to Dayton. Mrs. Richards was born in Loyal, Wis.

The couple had three sons. One, child died as an infant. Their second son, Harold Eugene Richards, who was serving in the Navy in World War II came home on leave. The 20 year old was killed in a car wreck on the Richardson Bay bridge on Christmas Eve, 1945. Their oldest son, Kenneth Willard Richards, died last Jan. 4, after a long illness.

Mr. Richards worked at a variety of jobs — in logging camps in Oregon, as a pile driver on the Columbia River, and during the war years at the Marinship in Sausalito.

When Marin General Hospital was built he worked for the landscaping firm, and he says proudly that he planted all the new landscaping. Before retirement he worked for the Novato Unified School District as a gardener for nine years.

Planted beside their mobile home in Novato, his roses and other flowers attest to his "green thumb". He also has a vegetable garden with garlic planted among the roses. "You'll never get aphids on the roses if you plant garlic among them," he advised.

The couple will hold an open house tomorrow for their friends. All of their brothers and sisters are living in Oregon, and the Richards doubted that they would be down for the celebration.

"We've thought many times whether we were going to make it," Mrs. Richards said as she talked about the many illnesses they had had, "but we are going to celebrate 50 golden years on Tuesday and that's what I'm going to have as a decoration on our cake."

LATEST HIT

'Express Yourself' Show In New York

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The latest hit in town is playing on Fifth Avenue to children of all ages.

It's an "Express Yourself" show where visitors actually participate in the exhibit instead of just observing. The idea is one other galleries or exhibition centers can copy, if they can cope with the breezy informality such an exhibit produces.

The free show is the brainchild of Walter V. Swartz, director of the Hallmark Gallery, who last year staged a children's participation exhibit called "Kaleidoscope" at the gallery.

"We learned then that grownups as well as kids are looking for a creative outlet," said Swartz.

ALTHOUGH THE DO-it-yourself show, 13 projects in all, is planned to include adults, the day I visited the gallery participants in the main were children from just past toddler stage to their teens.

They were making collages from paper and fabric at one table, molding castles in sand at a couple of others, creating figures from play dough at still another, chalking words on a wall-wide crossword puzzle, penning graffiti on an "Opinion Wall," walking through a maze guaranteed to give any claustrophobe a new attack.

Among the most popular parts of the exhibition which will run through Sept. 13 are the formica pyramids where visitors with various shades of markers can pencil their greatest wishes, their greatest fears, and that "Opinion Wall."

"I'm afraid of a ghost," one child had written. "I'm afraid not to be loved," wrote another. Another expressed fears of "war, death, starvation, pollution, demoralization, overpopulation ..."

The wishes side of the pyramid included the desire to "be the youngest, richest kid in the world", "to be a ballerina," "More love, less hate," "I had a Bible," and of all things "corn pads." One youngster simply had written the whole "Roses are red, violets are blue" rhyme.

WHEN THE pyramids are filled, attendants simply wipe off the formica and the visitors can start a new slate.

The graffiti gang really has a go at the "Opinion Wall," but one blessing at least—when the paper wall is filled, Hallmark attendants simply pull up a fresh sheet off the roll.

"Peace" and "Stop the War" motifs appear repeatedly on the wall. Some of the scrawls get pretty blue, some attempt at humor—"Your mother made you a homo; if I buy her the yarn will she make me one too?"

Serious, often quite good, poetry mixes with demands for "fewer summer camps", "more freedom in Girl Scout camps", "What this country needs is consciousness", overtones of politics such as "I do not wish to make any statement at this time". "Right on" signed off many of the scrawls.

Swartz who holds a bachelor's degree in art from Cooper Union in New York, has been with the gallery since it opened in 1964. Previously, he had been a designer for Hallmark. Have any scraps developed among the children over, say, building castles in sand boxes? "Not yet," said the director. But he still has until Sept. 13 to go.

Fashion Originality- Is It Attainable Today

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

ROME — There are those who hold that — There are those who hold that the burden of history is so great that originality in the arts has become virtually unattainable. This analysis finds a just application to the demi-art of fashion as illustrated by the fall-winter collections in Rome. The designers appeared to be wobbling in the middle of a tightrope, cautiously imitating the recent past or timely experimenting with the uncertain future.

Italian high fashions is in a crisis stateqdue to labor disputes in the industry, and there are rumors that this may be the last season the collections are presented on their usual scale. The shows seemed to emanate an aura of decaying elegance, which the preponderance of murky or lifeless colors reflected.

Still, there were some positive signs, such as the presence of buyers from Alexander's in New York, who stayed away for the past three years, and are now responding to a felt need on the part of American women for a return to classic styles.

THE BASIC sihouette for the season is very full, soft, and flowing. Clothes hang away from and conceal the body, whether in a chemise dress, a tent coat, or a dolman sleeve. Even the skirts — yes, the suit is back — tend to be full, with many of them box-pleated for a jaunty, swingy effect. Jackets are most often loose tunics, boxes, or long sweater knits. There is some attention to the waist in the wrap coats and jackets, which are belted securely just at or above the midriff. These are almost as prevalent as their more bloated counterparts. Popular fabrics are wool plaids, tweeds, herringbones, casmeres, and gray flannel.

Valentino was of course the star of the collections and just as predictably offered the exceptions to the rules. He shunned both the dolman and kimono sleeves, the tent coat, and the baggy bodice in favor of high armholed, snug-fitting jackets and dresses. Most surprisingly he showed no pants, except in his boutique line, which virtually every other designer is still showing.

He emphasizes the full or flared skirt, cut on the bias in jersey, wool knit, or heavy wool and tops it with a finger-tip jacket over a shorter, belted safari style jacket (a la Yves St.-Laurent) or sweater jacket.

His colors are a wonderfully creamy sand, camel, and taupe, or less effective combinations of apricot and brown or cerulean blue and black. His brushed cashmere and melton coats are mostly wrap, some with dropped shoulders.

NEW LOOK — The basic silhouette for this fashion season will be full, soft and flowing.

THERE WERE a few other high spots during the week: Tiziani's variation on the suit jacket, fited at the waist and sleeves in a ribbed knit for a slimming effect, and Lancetti's pants, which he settles at the waistline, carries smoothly down to a slight uncuffed flair, and combines with a three-quarter coat.

Andre Laug deserves kudos for his double seams which he applies to the pleats of his dresses and skirts and continues into the bodice or jacket for a decoratively geometric effect. Heinz Riva has concocted some of this season's best looking dresses — jumper chemises with dropped shoulders falling gracefully over turtleneck sweaters. Biki, as always, remains the house for colorful, extravagant apres-ski wear.

The biggest disappointments were Mila Schoen (of Milan), who offered a drab collection of uninspired pants, suits and dresses, some with the most ponderous dolman sleeves, and Fabiani, famed for his coats, who takes fullness to the point of bulkiness — especially in his furlined raincoats. (A lot of fur was on view — as trim for jackets and coats and as lining, sometimes dyed in the macabre shades of orange, green, etc.)

In evening wear, recurrent motifs were slinky or romantic long black dresses, brittle metallic and lame prints, sportswear styles with jackets, exotic Persian and Chinese silks, and the perennial halter and/or backless gown. Lancetti dreamed up a beguiling variation on the short after-five dress in the style of a slip with a sequined bodice, and Valentino fared well with his lyrical laces. Knife pleated chiffons were also ubiquitous.

The most important look to emerge for evening was typified by Princess Irene Galitzine who adapted soft, billowy matte jersey and Qiana to pajamas with tunic or halter tops and full pants, or to toga styles. She pairs them with sequined jackets or very long sashes and fringed shawls.

CAPUCCI'S CLASSICAL togas and tunics evoke a similar mood, cascading in the filmiest of fabrics and the palest of colors. He also walks away with the revival honors for this season with his rediscovery of the art of pressed pleating. Capucci stumbled upon eight or nine turn-of-the-century machines that were used to create an accordion or waffle effect on fabric and restored them sufficiently so that his seamstresses could apply them to his shimmering, rippling taffeta dresses cut in Renaissance styles. The process involved clegningth rust off the machines and wasting yards of material until the method was perfected. Ittook about 15 days to make each dress, which required four times more fabric than usual and extra stitching to secure the pleats.

"In order to keep high fashion alive, we have to preserve the artisans and rediscover the old ways of doing things. The cleverest, most talented designer can't produce without these artisans and this heritage," commented Capucci fervently. When so many designers are stalling in the '20s, '40s, '50s, and even '60s, rather than hurtling into the future, perhaps there is something to be said for harking back further into the past.

Home Wedding Ceremony For Mill Valley Girl

Kathleen Clark of Mill Valley became the bride of Dennis Dean Jennings Saturday afternoon in a ceremony at the Mill Valley home of Dr. T. G. Brown that was followed by a reception.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William L. Clark of Mill Valley, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dean M. Jennings of Sausalito.

Maid of honor was Marsha Kelly of Mill Valley and best man was Stan Forster of Los Gatos. Edwin C. Pentz of San Francisco showed guests to their seats.

After a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe the couple will live in Mill Valley.

Both of the young people were graduated from Tamalpais High School. Kathleen was also graduated from Heald's Business College and Dennis attended the College of Marin. He is employed with Paul Masson in San Francisco.

The bride has two brothers, Mark and John Clark of Mill Valley. The bridegroom is the brother of Mrs. Diane Burt of Seattle, Wash., and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Max V. Johnson of San Francisco.

Rules For Behavior Of Children

Should parents today be permissive or strict with their offspring? One couple with nine children believes they should be "firm" when it comes to behavior, but "loose" when sharing information and ideas. Those parents are Dr. Joseph Bird, a clinical psycholgoist from Saratoga, and his wife, writer Lois Bird. They've just collaborated on a book called "Power to the Parents!" which Doubleday has published.

According to Lois Bird, family discussions at their house are very much encouraged because "we feel two-way communication is so important." Their dinnertime may last as long as three hours, she notes, because "we talk about everything and everyone has so much to say." Their discussions include such subjects as premarital sex, the war in Vietnam, drugs, politics and social problems "with no holds barred."

The Bird youngsters — six girls and three boys ranging in age from 7 to 18 — may disagree "as much as they like" during these discussions, their father points out, and no attempt is made "to inhibit" their differences of opinion.

Both parents insist that these verbal exchanges always be "courteous" however. Personal insults aren't permitted, Dr. Bird declares, "and each person must always be given the chance to express his views before anyone else can step on them."

Autumn Wedding For Miss Davis

The couple's engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Davis of San Anselmo.

Merilly is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and California State University, San Francisco.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George McLoughlin of San Francisco. He was graduated from St. Ignatius High School and the University of Santa Clara with an engineering degree.

LYNN A. BAKER
Former Miss Marin

Lynn Baker, John Ross To Be Wed

The engagement of Lynn Alan Baker of Tiburon and John Francis Ross of Hanford has been announced by her parents, Durward Baker of San Francisco and Mrs. Roberta Baker of Tiburon.

Lynn, who was Miss Marin in 1970, is the sister of Mrs. Michael Heacock of Larkspur and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Johnson and Mrs. Sara Baker, all of San Francisco. She was graduated from Redwood High School and College of Marin and now attends California Polytechnic State University in San Luis Obispo. The future bride is past honored queen of Job's Jaughters and past DeMolay sweetheart.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Ross of Hanford are the future bridegroom's parents, and Jan Ross is his sister. He is a graduate of Hanford High School and Cal Poly.

Diana Deen, L. Ortegren Are Married

A reception at Maple Lawn in San Rafael followed the 2 p.m. wedding ceremony of Diana Thersa Deen and Leif A. Ortegren at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo yesterday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Deen of San Rafael, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Cossairt of Pacifica.

Mrs. Victor Ortegren of Pleasant Hill and the late Mr. Ortegren are the bridegroom's parents.

Mrs. Linda Cotten was the matron of honor and Merle Miller of Mill Valley was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Nancy Garcia of San Rafael; Mrs. Sharon Iribarne, and Elaine Deen, of San Rafael, and Mrs. Janet Hillard of Idaho, the bride's three sisters.

The best man was Jerry Whiting of Pleasant Hill. The ushers were the bride's brother, Robert Deen of San Rafael, Jeff Kish of Reno, Nev., Jim Ellis of Mountain View, Steve Lundgren of Pleasant Hill, Erik Disen, Placentia, and Michael Simking of Lake Tahoe.

The bride is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and of the College of Marin. She is employed by Dr. Gene Hallock in Santa Barbara.

The bridegroom was graduated from Pleasant Hill High School and the University of California at Santa Barbara. Mrs. Vicki Ellis of Mountain View is his sister.

The wedding trip was to Southern California. The couple will live in Santa Barbara.

LINDA ANN DALEY
Engaged to be wed

Ann Daley Engagement Announced

The engagement of Linda Ann Daley to Peter John Harrington of Oneida, N.Y., has been announced by Linda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Daley of San Rafael.

Linda, who is the sister of Jean and Denise Daley of San Rafael, is a graduate of San Rafael High School and attends the College of Marin.

Peter, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harrington of Oneida, N.Y. is serving as an electronics technician with the Navy at Point Mugu.

Peter was graduated from Oneida High School prior to Navy service. He is the brother of Raymond and Edith Harrington.

The couple are planning to be married early next year.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Marriage May Not End Problem Of Overly-Jealous Boyfriend

DEAR HELEN:

I'm not a teenager, and naturally I'd like to be married, but I'm beginning to wonder:

After eight months of being engaged, my fiance is still so jealous I can't even talk to the husband of a friend when we're out as a foursome.

I've had to throw out all my dresses he feels are too short, and buy a one piece swimsuit because he doesn't want men seeing me so "bare."

When I have a lunch date with the girls at the office, he accuses me of meeting another man.

I realize that if he hadn't caught his ex-wife with her lover, he wouldn't have this problem, but when even psychiatry doesn't help, will my patience have a chance? In spite of therapy, he's getting worse.

He says marriage will put all those bad memories out of his mind. — WOULD IT?

DEAR W.I.:

More likely, marriage to him might put YOU out of your mind! If psychotherapy can't help, then I'd guess his problem didn't start with an unfaithful wife, nor will it end with a faithful one.

Would you really be happy in jail? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

How do you handle your wife's ex- husband who insists on being friends? When he stops in to see his children, he stays for dinner and spends the evening. He still depends on my wife for major decisions (one of the reasons for their divorce) and she "doesn't want to hurt his feelings," so she helps him work out his problems.

I am not jealous. There's no need for that. I just don't want him underfoot. Am I being unreasonable? — THREE'S A CROWD

DEAR THREE:

No! This man may never look for a new life as long as he has a former wife to "mother" him. Tell her this is carrying a friendly divorce too far! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Is it wrong to ask a close friend to replace an expensive record her little boy broke? This isn't the first time. She thinks he's old enough to work the stereo, and I was too late to stop him.

I got tired of this breakage so I suggested she buy a new record, and I haven't seen her since. I thought I was quite tactful about it.

Should I call her up and apologize for being mercenary or dun her again for the record? Half my friends say yes to the first, and half to the second. — SIX MONTHS SILENCE

DEAR SIX:

How about the third alternative? — Forget it.

An apology you don't mean would only make you more resentful, and a dun would get your nowhere. Who needs this kind of "record-breaking" friendship? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

"Shocked Straight" asked, "How can my nice suburban friends who seem so normal go in for mate-swapping?" She'd be amazed at the number—and types — of people who swing: professors, doctors, contractors, engineers, nurses, hairdressers, housewives, people from all walks of life.

My husband and I have been swinging for over a year now and we have a closer and more honest relationship than most straight couples. Of course there must first be a very stable bond, with deep trust and much love. A healthy, uninhibited marriage should be made stronger by sharing its joys with friends. — HONEST SWINGER

DEAR SWINGER:

Seems to me you swingers limit yourselves to one pursuit when the varied joys of social intercourse have so many more possibilities.

In fact,a good fast doubles game of tennis is also, "healthy, uninhibited" —and it lasts longer! — H.

Learning How To Buy Saves

Learning how and what to buy helped a Memphis housewife to save 29 per cent on her weekly supermarket bills and still put a good meal on the table, according to an article in the August American Home magazine.

Writer Glenda Collier did extensive research in libraries and with supermarket managers and butchers. She learned that shopping for meat late Saturday afternoon generally results in big savings.

With the supermarket closed on Sunday, many cuts won't sell on Monday because the fluorescent lights in the case make the meat appear dark. Eggs, though graded AA, A, or B have equal nutritive value. She saves by using the higher grades for frying, poaching and boiling, and the B grade in scrambled eggs or omelets.

Diane Craig Exchanges Vows With John Hegarty

Susan Diane Craig was married Saturday evening to John P. Hegarty Jr. at St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross, the church where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Craig of Greenbrae were married 21 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hegarty of San Mateo are the bridegroom's parents.

Lisa Ann Craig was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Gaby Obuchi of San Anselmo, Vicky Cimina of San Rafael, Mary Anne Michaels of Greenbrae and Mrs. Charles Kahler of Mill Valley.

Best man was Lloyd Boldeman of Los Altos. Dennis Whittaker of San Mateo, Ray Shurson of Santa Cruz, Phil Moralez of Sacramento and the bride's brother, Forrest Craig of Greenbrae, ushered.

Following a wedding trip to Carmel the couple will live in San Mateo.

Susan was graduated from Redwood High School and the College of Marin dental assisting probram. She is employed by California Dental Service in San Francisco. Mrs. Melvin Craig of San Francisco is her grandmother.

A graduate of San Mateo High School, College of San Mateo and Chico State College, the bridegroom is employed at Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Mother, Daughter Win Cake Honors

A mother-daughter team from San Rafael really "put the frosting on the cake" when they took top honors at the Napa Town and Country Fair Cake decorating contest earlier this week.

Mrs. Henry Scettrini won a first place in the novelty cake category, and her daughter, Virginia Scettrini, won first award in layer cake design, second in the sheet cake contest, and the award for the best overall use of colors.

The Marin women became interested in cake decorating when they took courses offered by the San Rafael Recreation Department, and later joined the Icing Artists of Marin, a cake decorating club, which meets the first Tuesday of each month at the Marinwood Community Center.

Couple Is Married In San Rafael

Marriage vows were exchanged by Rebecca Angeli and Daniel Sturm at an 11 a.m. ceremony at the First Congregational Church in San Rafael on Saturday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Angeli of San Rafael. Her brothers are Michael and Henry Angeli, also of San Rafael.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sturm of San Rafael. He is the grandson of Mrs. Anna Eisenstadt of San Francisco and of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sturm of Orland. Daniel is the brother of Ted Sturm and Karen Walker of San Rafael.

The couple were attended by Katie Castellucci as maid of honor and Donald Perkins of Petaluma, as best man.

Rebecca is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and attended the College of Marin. She is employed by the Bank of Marin in San Rafael.

Daniel is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and of California State University, Chico.

New Food Encyclopedia Gives Facts On Safety

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — A new book published this week seeks to fill a frequently expressed need for a readable encyclopedia of food chemicals.

It is called "Eater's Digest" and is written by Michael F. Jacobson, a former aide to Ralph Nader who is now co-director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a non-profit study group in Washington.

There have been increasing demands in recent years for such information so that people concerned about allergies or food safety can find the answers they are looking for.

Jacobson, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a doctorate in microbiology, makes a determined effort to avoid the pitfalls of what he calls "Poison in the Pantry" books which seem designed to scare people.

HE ACKNOWLEDGES that many chemicals serve a useful purpose without adding any significant risks. And he agrees that many people are glad to pay the extra cost and undergo the extra risk of some modern, convenience foods.

His main concern is with the large volume of chemicals and the lack of proof that many are safe in the quantities consumed by humans over a lifetime. He contends that most additives are used merely to enhance the profits of food manufacturers.

"All food additives help companies make money," he said, "and that, in a nutshell, is why additives are usually used."

The prime purpose is greater efficiency in processing, storage, distribution and marketing of food items.

The main part of the book consists of an alphabetical listing of 108 additives, with a description of each one and a discussion of its main problems and advantages.

In addition, there is a summary of food standards for 14 product categories, including poultry and meat products, dairy products and miscellaneous items. Since standardized foods are not required to list ingredients, this section presents information not known by many shoppers.

For the more sophisticated, there is a list of additives that have been banned and a partial list of chemicals "generally recognized as safe" by the Food and Drug Administration. The FDA is currently reviewing this list in response to critics who question the safety of some items on it.

JACOBSON RAISES doubts about the safety and usefulness of many chemicals. He also practices what he preaches. He says that while the book was being written, he filed petitions and complaints with the government "about possible hazards associated with violet and orange artificial food colorings, sodium nitrite and brominated vegetable oil."

He is particularly critical of artificial colorings, breakfast cereals and snack foods. Adding nutrients to breakfast cereals and cupcakes, he said, may make them more nutiritious but not necessarily wholesome. He says such products are "little more than vitamin-coated candy."

In view of the difficulty of avoiding many chemicals in the normal diet, what does Jacobson recommend for the careful consumer to eat? His own "rule of thumb" adds little to what any competent nutritionist would say:

Base your diet on fresh or frozen meat, poultry and produce, low-fat dairy products and whole grains, with variety to obtain balance. He would also avoid artificial colors and antioxidants such as BHA, but that is easier said than done.

Publisher of the book is Doubleday and Co. Inc.

Never Settle For Half Of The Pie—Try For It All

"That's the kind of luck I have come to expect," said South as he went down at four hearts. "I win about half as many finesses as players with normal luck." There wasn't a dry eye at the table.

CLUB ACTION

West opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace. South ruffed the second club, drew trumps with the ace and dummy's jack, and then finessed with the jack of spades.

West won with the queen of spades, and the defenders eventually got two diamond tricks. Down one, with a lot of moaning by South.

South can make the game if dummy's long diamonds can be established or if the spade finesse works. If he tries the spade finesse first, the diamonds are meaningless. If he tries for the diamonds first, he can switch to spades if the diamonds break badly.

TEST DIAMONDS

The correct line of play is to ruff the second club, draw one round of trumps with the ace, and then lead out the ace and another diamond. As soon as both defenders follow to the second diamond, South knows that the suit will break favorably.

East returns a spade, and South takes the ace. The finesse will not be needed. He draws a second round of trumps with the king and then gives up another diamond.

WAY TO DUMMY

East returns a spade, and South takes a king. Now he can get to dummy with the jack of trumps to discard the jack of spades on a good diamond.

If the diamonds didn't break, South would eventually take the spade finesse. He would thus have two chances for his contract instead of only one.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Mr. Quiz:

I'm sure you know that a lot of people have birthdays but are afraid to admit it. For children, it's a big deal, but for older folks, we don't like to be reminded. In this youth-oriented society, why should anyone my age celebrate the fact he's getting older? Signed: Gloomy Over-30.

Dear Over-30:

Wake up, buster! You're only as old as you feel and you are getting prematurely old by negative thinking. It's great to be alive! And on your birthday, that's the reason for joy. Do you know what I did to celebrate my 50th birthday? Took the wife and kids backpacking 10,500-feet into the High Sierras. It was the best party I ever had, camped by a clear blue lake, under God's blue sky, encircled by John Muir's Range of Light. Some of the youngest people I know are over-80. Admit your age and celebrate!

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Last year Dr. Ralph Bunche, a Negro, was the highest American official in the United Nations.
2. Don Larsen pitched the only no-run, no-hit game in World Series history.
3. Monty Woolley refused to play "The Man Who Came to Dinner" because the role required him to be a crotchety and angry old man.

ANSWERS

1. True; 2. True; 3. False.

Redevelop Talk

The impact of a planned city redevelopment agency will be discussed at 8 p.m. Thursday in the community house among the Novato City Council and boards of Novato Unified School District, North Marin County Water District and Novato Sanitary and fire district.

DRAMA REVIEW

Festival Troupe Hits Gold In 'Oz'

By KAY KSANDA

The Marin Shakespeare Festival has a very hot property in its newest production "The Wizard of Oz." Produced in the open air theater at Dominican's Forest Meadows in San Rafael, the updated and glittering musical comedy is written for all ages, with plenty of laughs, and lots of pizzaz.

At its official opening Saturday afternoon there were as many dads as moms, lots of youngsters and plenty over 21. It was a hot day, the birds sang, the orchestra tuned up, and the fathers took off their shirts to sunbathe.

From the moment that Dorothy hit the stage, the moppets were either on the edge of their seats or standing up. They yelled at the Bad Witch, clapped for the Good Witch, and froze, awestruck, at the booming voice of the Wizard. The musketeers of the Yellow Brick Road, the Scarecrow, Tin Woodsman, and Cowardly Lion, are outstanding. The perfect combination of makeup, costuming, choreography, and acting is mind boggling.

Written and directed by Sharon McKnight, the production is not cute, not sugar sweet, but an all out, super-dooper great musical. She is assisted by a great choreographer, Teddi Kern, and her musical director, Bob Greenwood, from Redwood High School. The music, the familiar "Over The Rainbow," "We're Off To See The Wizard," etc. is all tied together by concert pianist John Balmer, who sits at a postage stamp piano amid the young Redwood High School orchestra.

Casting is absolutely tops, with everybody in professional form, pace, and projection from the littlest Munchkin, to Oz, "the great and powerful." The personalities that highlight the show are The Wicked Witch, and the Cowardly Lion (Connie Kennedy and Donovan Scott.)

Connie comes on like a slithering, glittering cobra with fluttering draperies, and lots of special effects. As she disapears in an explosion of pink smoke, the Good Witch drawls sarcastically that she's "tremendously theatrical." It's when she disapears, finally and forever, by melting under the strobe lights, thatshe stops the show. It's the adults that gasp. All kids know bad witches melt.

Donovan Scott as the Lion thumps about like a huge pussy cat. Christopher R, as the Tin Woodsman, is sweet and sad, while Michael Blake, as the Scarecrow, plays it wise and warm. Dorothy (Mary Cleere Haran) has as much dimension as a T.V. commercial, but is cute, bright, and convincing, and the children loved her. The Good Witch, Lynn Phillips moves and sings like an updated angel. Jim Haran is perfect as the Wizard. Everything's nice and tight.

Perhaps the star of the show is the young, 24-year-old girl in blue jeans and a sweatshirt, that strode up to the stage when the audience had gone. Creator and director, Sharon McKnight, had her attention upon every facet of the production. Fresh from her directing stint of "Jesus Christ, Superstar" (what a swtich) in San Francisco, she knows her medium well. "Oz" is partly from the movie, the earlier original 1937 Broadway play, and her own construction. The dialogue is camp for the grownups, and funny to the moppets.

Truly, it's a fast paced, entertaining show, and the best children's show I can remember seeing. It runs two hours, with one intermission. If the youngsters can stay awake until 10:30, take them at night, as the Witch melting is more scarey. Showtime is 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays, and 2:30 Saturday afternoons through Sept. 2. There is also a free puppet show at the ticket booth.

Sirhan Quits Death Row; Manson Not Yet Removed

Sirhan B. Uirhan, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassin, was moved out of Death Row at San Quentin Saturday along with five other condemned men.

But, while the other five murderers were released into the general prison population, Sirhan, 28, was placed immediately in the adjustment center under protective custody.

"He's in enough protection that we feel he won't come to harm from other inmates," said San Quentin information officer Joseph R. O'Brien. He added that Sirhan's demeanor has been very good since he was brought to Death Row after his marathon trial in Los Angeles.

Sirhan was kept isolated from other Death Row inmates because prison authorities feared the inmates might try to avenge the Kennedy slaying.

O'Brien said there was no immediate plan to transfer Sirhan out of San Quentin to another prison, as had earlier been predicted. The California Supreme Court reduced his death sentence on June 16 to a life term.

The row is being phased out with the abolition of the death penalty, and after Saturday's moves its population was down to 87 inmates today.

The five murderers moved Saturday were Dorman Talbot, Warren Saling, Bruce Bowersox, James Meeks, and William Archard. O'Brien said they were put into the East Block orientation area and are expected to stay there a week to 10 days before being phased into the institution.

These were the first previously condemned men to be transferred within San Quentin. Last month six murderers were sent to receiving centers for reassignment to other prisons.

And today San Quentin officials received word of transfers impending this week for three more inmates. O'Brien said John Archa and Sean Murphy will be sent to the California Training Facility at Soledad Central, and Ronald King has been ordered transferred to the California Men's Colony East at San Luis Obispo.

Death Row's other most notorious inmate, Charles Manson, is still there, and O'Brien said no order for his reassignment has been received.

Rezoning Asked In Rohnert Park

Plans to rezone 82 acres for a future subdivision will be considered at the Rohnert Park City Council meeting at 7 p.m. today.

Martin Stone has requested that land on the northwest corner of Snyder Lane and Rohnert Park Expressway be rezoned for single family home lots of 6,500 square feet each.

The council will also hear an appeal by the Bank of America for a seven-year use permit for a temporary bank. The planning commission approvedonly a 3.5-year permit, saying a permanent building should be completed in that time.

Four Dates Left For Rabies Shot Clinic

The last four in a series of rabies vaccination clinics for dogs will be held this week and next, according to the Marin County Department of health services.

The clinics, sponsored by the county and the Marin County Veterinary Medical Association, run for two hours each beginning at 6 p.m. A $3 fee is charged for each day.

The schedule for clinics is:

Tomorrow at 6 p.m. at Ross School, Lagunitas Road, Ross; Thursday at 6 p.m. at the Mill Valley corporation yard, Sycamore Avenue and Camino Alto; Aug. 15 at 6 p.m. at Marion School, 1705 Marion Avenue, Novato; and Aug. 17 at 6 p.m. at the San Rafael city schools administration building, Third and E streets.

So far this year, 3561 dogs have been vaccinated at the clinics — about 500 less than last year.

State law requires that dogs at least four months old be vaccinated against rabies and licensed.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, said a vaccine which is good for two years will be used at all clinics. Dogs vaccinated with the two-year vaccine last year need not be revaccinated this year, she said.

The deadline for obtaining a 1972-73 license is Aug. 31 after which a penalty will be charged.

Dogs brought to the clinics must be on leash and parents have been asked not to bring their children to the clinics as a safety precaution.

Odd Loot Is Downfall For Burglar

Leslie Tina Roos thought there was something suspicious about the man lurking in the bushes on Hawthorne Avenue, in Larkspur Friday afternoon.

She told Larkspur police it wasn't the fact that he was in the bushes — it was the fact that he was carrying a mink jacket, and an M-30 carbine.

Miss Roos, of San Francisco, startled the man, who fled, dropping the mink, the rifle and a coin collection.

Later investigation showed the items had been burgled from the home of Robert James Richards on Hazel Avenue, said police. Also missing was a color TV set, which was not found.

Neighbors you may not even know need your help.

They're still picking up the pieces. And the help they need (food, clothing, housing) costs cold hard cash.

The American Red Cross is spending well over 10 million dollars to do its job in helping others the way you yourself would help them.

Help us. Make it generous. And make it today. Please.

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, AUGUST 7, 1972 17

NURSERY — Remodeling supplies are scattered all over the lecture room of the old College of Marin chemistry building; the facility is already being remodeled to house the child care center, and will include an isolation room and a reception area besides the center proper.

PLAYGROUND — This overgrown parking lot on College Avenue will be transformed into a bi-level play area for College of Marin students' children. Volunteers are sought to help with cement laying and to install a child-proof fence round the perimeter. (Independent-Journal photos)

A CHILD CARE CENTER

College To Help Ease Burdens Of Young Parents

By PAT PERRY

Last semester Theo Simison of Mill Valley simply could not afford to pay baby-sitters so she hauled her 4-year-old son, Kilo, to her anthropology classes at College of Marin and dropped two other courses.

Come September, the young mother intends to take 12, maybe 15 units, while Kilo is cared for entirely free at the college child care center.

Multiply her situation many times over and you have the sum of the help soon to be afforded needy student parents, an on-campus child care center where a mother or father can leave their child while they attend classes.

Housed in the old chemistry building at the corner of College Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, the center will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday for children 2 to 5 years old.

To be eligible to enroll their child or children, the parent must meet federal and state poverty criteria (either be on welfare or eligible for it). It's expected many will be single parents, divorced, separated or unmarried, some will undoubtedly be men who can now attend college while their wife or girl friend works, and some will be young couples both taking classes.

Because the center is federally funded, at least 90 per cent of the parents must meet the welfare criteria, and will have to be certificated by the county social services department. The other 10 per cent will be borderline cases who may not meet the income limits, and may have to pay small fees.

Another condition of enrollment is that the parent must take an adult education class on "creative experiences with children" . . . a sort of parenthood primer.

The center is the outcome of years of planning and campaigning. Students began pushing for on-campus child care at least five years ago. Last year's application for federal funds for the project got bogged down in a morass of state bureakracy.

Jared Sharon, director of community and college development, paid tribute to the excellent and persistent work of students in securing the center "while I wrote up the proposal I never had a better supporting cast than this."

Gregory Feron, last year's student body president has been particularly active in ramrodding the project through — although he gives most credit to former student Olga Nicholls.

Finally hearing this week that the center had been funded he described as "bliss — calling up all these people and telling them they can come to school in the fall because there's somewhere for their kids."

The center will operate on a $48,107 budget. Of this the largest sum, $23,480, is in federal funds. The college's adult education department contributed $3,055, the college's community services $6,709, the Marin County Schools Office $8,756, Associated Students $5,000, and $1,107 will come from parent fees.

Feron is urgently seeking volunteers with skills in carpentry, plastering, cement work and wood work to help since most of the money will have to go on equipment and supplies.

Volunteers should contact Sharon at the college's community services office. There is some urgency to the work since the center must be ready for opening when classes start in September.

Sharon said the child care center will be governed by the Marin County Board of Education through its preschool director, Joseph Denhart. He'll be assisted by an advisory committee of four student parents, an Associated Students representative, a college administrator and two instructors.

It's expected that the center will be a source of much enrichment for the college itself. Among disciplines that will be involved are nursery school theory, vocational nursing, child psychology and home economics.

Student volunteers to work in the center will also be sought in addition to the paid professional staff, and it is intended to keep a 5-to-1 child-adult ratio.

Student surveys in spring 1971 found 142 student parents had to pay for babysitting to attend classes; 156 student parents with 224 children indicated they would use a campus child care center. More than 90 per cent of these potential users met poverty criteria.

Feron explained that it's difficult to predict how many student parents will use the center. Some people fear it might get overloaded, since it will be geared for only 25 children at any one time.

"We don't know how many people have dropped out of school because of baby-sitting problems," he said, "but we do know that last semester a lot of kids were bringing their children to classes because they had nowhere to put them."

Sharon said the county social services department is being "wonderfully cooperative" in the venture and has agreed to certificate prospective parents concurrently with their college enrollment.

Similarly, the college has arranged for credit enrollments, which end Monday, to be held open indefinitely for student parents who intend to put their children in the center.

Which indicates a second area of urgency: anyone who considers he might meet federal and state poverty criteria and would like to attend College of Marin this fall while enrolling a child in the center should apply to the college admissions office as soon as possible.

"While it might appear at first glance that we are subsidizing people already on welfare it is essentially the opposite," said Feron. "We're trying to get them off the welfare rolls by helping them get an education and acquire marketable skills."

Soviet Medical Chief In Marin; Likes Redwoods, Not 'The Pill'

By JAY GOODWIN

Bathed in the filtered sunlight in Muir Woods, the Soviet Union's health minister criticized the use of birth control pills, saying they increase the likelihood of blood clotting.

He said data from the World Health Organization indicates that women taking the pill suffer from blood clotting five times as frequently as any other group of women.

The health minister, Dr. Boris V. Petrovsky, visited Muir Woods and Tiburon Saturday, with an entourage of Soviet health officials, as part of a 10-day tour of the Unitdd States.

Standing amidst giant redwoods, Petrovsky also said his government does not support abortions, except when medically necessary.

In the Soviet Union, he said, "We only perform abortions when they are medically indicated because we do not have a problem of family regulation."

Speaking through an American interpreter, he added, "We encourage an increase in the birthrate." He surveyed the wooded park, then said, "We too have a national park. . .Siberia. We are short of labor."

As Petrovsky returned to photographing the fallen trees and redwood burls, several Soviet and American officials said the Soviet Union has encouraged population growth since it lost about 20 million people during World War II.

One Soviet official estimated his country lost about 50 million people as a result of the war since most of those killed were young men and women who would have borne children during the post-war period.

While he said he does not favor abortions, the 64-year-old Russian surgeon saved his strongest criticism for birth control pills. "I personally think oral contraceptives cause more damage than abortions because the use of contraceptives is a mass phenomenon," he said.

Contrary to their widespread use in the United States, birth control pills are only used in the Soviet Union, "when a woman should not get pregnant for medical reasons," said Petrovsky.

Besides Petrovsky, the Russian delegation includes his wife, Madame Ekaterina M. Timofeeve, who is also a physician; Dr. Oleg P. Schepin, head of foreign relations for the Ministry of Health; Nicholas I. Blokhin, director of the Institute of Oncology and Gregory I. Sidorenko, director of the Institute of Hygiene.

Roger O. Egeberg, special assistant to the U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is serving as Petrovsky's American escort on the cross-country tour, which resulted from the historic agreement signed in Moscow in May by Soviet officials and President Nixon.

Before he departed Muir Woods, Dr. Petrovsky said, "I would like there to be more parks like this on earth because they're better for human health than any kind of medicine."

The delegation of health officials, translators, information officers and a sheriff's deputy then piled into three black limousines, drove up the winding roads and down through Mill Valley and spilled out of their cars once again on Main Street in Tiburon.

After a few more snapshots and a vodka-enhanced luncheon at the Caprice Restaurant in Tiburon, the motorcade headed off to San Francisco International Airport, where the delegation was to catch a plane to Los Angeles.

Lagunitas Schools Budget Hearings Set

The Lagunitas School District board will hold a formal public hearing on its proposed 1972-73 budget of $542,000 at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at San Geronimo Valley School.

The budget, which is not expected to increase the current tax rate of $4.46 per $100 assessed valuation, is up nearly $56,000 over last year.

The board will also receive a progress report on the Lagunitas playfield.

Marin City Reading Skills Class Slated

Reading, vocabulary, spelling, speech and composition will be taught 7 to 10 p.m., Mondays.

Dead Deer Deposited At City Hall

An irate San Rafael resident who threatened to dump a dead deer at city hall may have done just that Saturday night.

According to police, Patrick Lufburrow of 207 McNear Drive said Saturday that if a dead deer were not removed from his property he would place the animal's carcass on the assistant city manager's or city manager's desk Monday morning.

That call was made at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, police said.

At 8:30 p.m., police found a dead deer on the steps of city hall.

Officers said they told Lufburrow that the public works department was not able immediately to dispose of the carcass.

Prison Indians Hold Festival

Twenty American Indians from the western United States yesterday afternoon joined the 21 Indian inmates behind the walls of San Quentin Prison for an afternoon of Indian pageantry.

Tribal dancers in traditional dress performed the sword and shield ceremonial dance, a war dance and a dance contest to the beat of drums and to the chant of ancient tunes.

The San Quentin Pow Wow has been held every year since 1964. It was started by the late Walter Lasley, an American Indian who encouraged the development of American Indian culture at the prison.

is living in this area. Not an Eichler or a Kenney home, but it is a modern 3 bdrm., 2 bath. Built by a quality builder. A very large living room w/fireplace, all hardwood floors. A delightful garden, covered patio and play area for children. A nice pool site too! A new listing at $41,500.

"A garden of Paradise"

A cool feeling of peaceful solitude from the moment you step inside the garden entrance to this well maintained family home. The interior offers the pride of ownership, with sparkling new paint. Quality carpeting, and a real fine sense of decorating. The rear garden offers an unusual swimming pool and private area. $45,950. Realtors.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Transplantation Brings Up Scientific, Legal Disputes

Heart and kidney transplantation started many scientific and legal discussions. Most of these centered about the precise moment of death and whether the victim was dead before donor parts were removed. The end result was a universally acceptable diagnostic criteria of death. This is understandable because man dies in stages and, for a time, life and death coexist.

The controversy also brought into the open how much care should be given a dying person with irreversible brain damage. Examples include individuals who have received severe head injuries with extensive brain damage and for whom there is no hope. The same applies to older persons who are vegetating or unconscious because of a massive stroke or repeated bouts of uremia.

THEY DESERVE reasonable care, but not extraordinary measures. Extraordinary, according to Dr. Frank J. Ayd Jr., is "whatever here and now is very costly or very unusual or very painful or very difficult or very dangerous, or if the good effects that can be expected from its use are not proportionate to the difficulty and inconvenience that are entailed."

The heart may have stopped due to a blockage of nerve impulse and unless restarted, death occurs. Life can be restored if the heart is stimulated to beat. Another example is the individual with an abscess that will kill him unless opened and drained.

WE HAVE many sophisticated artificial sustainers of life that will prolong the death of a helpless person. The doctor who gives blood transfusions, special medications, turns on the respirator, stimulates the heart to beat with a pacemaker, or administers oxygen knows that these will not save the individual. All too often the family demands these extraordinary measures hoping for a miracle.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent Journal.)

SHINGLES DURING PREGNANCY

Miss P. A. writes: My niece, who is expecting a baby any day, is miserable with shingles. Is this disorder associated with pregnancy?

REPLY

No. Shingles (herpes zoster) is a painful viral infection of the nerve endings of the skin. It is unfortunate that the condition developed during pregnancy because it adds to her discomfort.

CLICKING SOUNDS

T. I. writes: When I move my head or swallow, I hear a clicking sound. Does this mean arthritis of the spine?

REPLY

This is the best possibility if the clicking occurs only when you move the head. But when it takes place on swallowing, the eardrum usually plays a role as air is being forced into the ear via the eustachian tube.

PIZZA AND EGG FOO YUNG

A reader writes: Perhaps I'm old-fashioned, but I don't think a 15-month-old baby should be fed pizza, barbecued hot dogs, and egg foo yung. Will you please comment on this matter?

REPLY

Most children of this age can eat the same foods as adults. These tots usually prefer simple foods, but like to sample those mentioned.

SUMMONS NO. 2
No. 63442

Superior Court of California, County of Marin Hall of Justice, Civic Center, San Rafael, California 94903

ELMER W. MARTINELLI and HAZEL MARTINELLI, his wife, WALDO G. GIACOMINI, JEANETTE GIACOMINI, DAVID GIACOMINI, ROBERT GIACOMINI and RICHARD GIACOMINI, and MARKHAM CORPORATION, a corporation, Plaintiffs, vs All of the Heirs at Law of CATHERINE A. KEYS, deceased, Namely, GEORGE T. KEYS, JOHN M. KEYS, JAMES W. KEYS, ELIZABETH M. KEYS, EDITH A. KEYS and MINNIE M. KEYS, and DOE ONE through DOE ONE HUNDRED, and all persons unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the Complaint, adverse to plaintiffs' ownership or any cloud upon Plaintiffs' title thereto, Defendants.

TO THE DEFENDANTS: A civil complaint has been filed by Plaintiffs against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must file in this Court a written pleading in response to the complaint within thirty (30) days after this summons is served on you (except that if the action is against the State of California pursuant to Section 738.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure, within one hundred eighty (180) days). Otherwise, your default will be entered on application by the Plaintiffs and the Court may enter a judgment against you for the money or other relief requested in the complaint. The real property which is the subject of this action is located in the County of Marin, State of California, and is referred to and described specifically in the complaint on file herein as follows:

PARCEL NO. 2: All that certain strip of land 75 feet in width, lying equally 37.5 feet on each side of the following described center line: BEGINNING at the intersection of the boundary line between land now or formerly of Galen Burdell and C.A. Keys, with the originally located center line of the North Pacific Coast Railroad Company (now Northwestern Pacific Railroad Company) at Engineers' Station 790 plus 09; thence in a westerly and northerly direction along the said center line following the courses and curvature thereof, a distance of 5,941 feet to a point on the southerly line of land now or formerly of R.L. Grandi, et al; at Engineers' Station 849 plus 50, containing an area of 10.20 acres, more or less. Being all of that strip of land conveyed by deed dated June 20, 1874, C.A. Keys to North Pacific Coast Railroad Company, recorded July 1, 1874, in Liber M. of Deeds, Page 34. TOGETHER with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in anywise appertaining, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, isuues and profits thereof. TO HAVE AND TO HOLD all and singular the said premises, together with the appurtenances, unto the said second party and to his heirs and assigns, forever.

The above described real property is also described as follows, in that certain Joint Tenancy Deed dated August 21, 1949, from FLORA MARTINELLI, ELMER W. MARTINELLI and HAZEL MARTINELLI, his wife, and recorded in Official Records of Marin County in Volume 658 at page 723:

All right, title and interest of grantors in and to that portion of that certain property described in Deed from Northwestern Pacific Railroad Company to Elmer W. Martinelli, dated August 5, 1935, and recorded September 23, 1935, in Liber 304 of Official Records, at page 352, records of Marin County, which lies outside of the boundaries of that certain property described in Deed from Olympia Grandi et vir to Flora Martinelli, dated November 1, 1923, and recorded November 17, 1923, in Liber 30 of Official Records, at page 354.

The object of this action is to quiet title to such real property in Plaintiffs, and that it be adjudged that the Plaintiffs are the owners of said real property in fee simple absolute, and that their title to said real property be established and quieted.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your pleading, if any, may be filed on time.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING IN THE MATTER OF RICHARDSON BAY SANITARY DISTRICT

The California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, August 22, 1972 at a meeting beginning at 9:30 A.M. in the Alameda County Public Works Building, 399 Elmhurst Street, Hayward, California to consider amendment of an order which was issued June 24, 1971, pursuant to Section 13301 of the California Water Code requiring Richardson Bay Sanitary District to cease and desist from discharging waste in violation of waste discharge requirements and prohibitions and directing said discharger to comply with said requirements and prohibitions in accordance with a time schedule. The specific time schedules in question are the following:

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT

B. Compliance with the Board's discharge requirements be completed according to the following time schedule:

1. Bypassing of Untreated Sewage

TASK	COMPLETION DATE
Authorization of Funding	July 30, 1971
Complete Construction	September 1, 1972
Compliance with Requirement	April 1, 1973

2. Receiving Water Floating Matter and Foam, Effluent Disinfection, Turbidity, 5-day BOD and Toxicity

TASK	COMPLETION DATE
Completion of Conceptual Plan and Submit Schedule of Compliance	July 1, 1972

The board's staff, the discharger and other interested persons will be given an opportunity to present evidence concerning compliance with the time schedule and whether or not the time schedule should be amended. The discharger and all other interested persons may, but need not, be represented by counsel.

If possible, written copies of testimony to be presented at the hearing should be furnished to the board in advance of the hearing.

The regional board file on the discharge of Richardson Bay Sanitary District is open to public inspection from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays.

Pop Singers' Marriage Ends

The seven-year marriage of singers Carolee and Thomas M. Gillespie of Bolinas was dissolved Friday in Marin Superior Court.

The two were known professionally as "Tom and Lee" and billed themselves as "contemporary pop" rather than folk singers. Beginning in 1962, they made numerous appearances in Bay Area clubs and at art and folk festivals. They made a number of records.

Settlement of child custody and property was reached out of court before the uncontested dissolution was ordered by Judge E. Warren McGuire.

Sex Crimes Plea Is Innocent

Ralph Melroy Hinkle, 55, of Lagunitas, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to two felony counts of committing sex crimes against 5-year-old and 14-year-old children at his home July 14.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Aug. 22.

Hinkle was arrested after parents of the two children complained to juvenile officers. He was freed from jail after posting $10,000 bail.

'Magic Flute' Featured At Inverness

Soprano Gwen Curatilo, who has just returned to San Rafael from a year of performing in Germany, Spain, France and England, will be featured in the Mozart opera, "The Magic Flute," the major event in the eighth annual Inverness Music Festival.

The opera, in a semistaged production in English with piano accompaniment, will be presented Aug. 13 and 20 at 3 p.m. in the amphitheater adjoining St. Columba's Church. Sandor Salgo will direct.

The soprano sang six sessions with the San Francisco Opera Company to critical acclaim as Xenia in "Boris Gudonov," Barberina in "The Marriage of Figaro," Marianne in "Der Rosenkavalier" and Papagena in "The Magic Flute," among others.

She was particularly noted for her singing as Cio Cio San in "Madame Butterfly," for which she was chosen to sing in a Merola memorial concert in San Francisco's Stern Grove.

She also has a broad symphonic repertoire and was for several years soloist with the Bach-to-Mozart Group in the Mill Valley Candlelight Series concerts.

Other local singers in the opera will be soprano Margot Power and 15-year-old Elisabeth Engan.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling the festival office or by writing P.O. Box 2, Inverness.

SAN RAFAEL SETS McKEON HEARING

This new look for the heart of downtown San Rafael —has been proposed for the old county courthouse site by the McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento. Viewed here from Fourth Street, the proposal includes an eight-story office building, a two-story office building and a multilevel parking structure. The project, which would require the demolition of the old courthouse annex, will come before the planning commission Aug. 22, according to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner. The firm, which has already put $10,000 down on the property, must pay the city $640,000 before Oct. 25 for the parcel in accordance with a county agreement, said City Mgr. James H. McCown.

Allende Suspends Top Policemen

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)— President Salvador Allende suspended the nation's two top federal police officials last night for alleged responsibility in a gun battle between police and peasants in which one person was killed and 11 wounded.

Allende removed Eduardo Paredes as police director-general and Carlos Toro as subdirector. Paredes, a 32-year-old psychiatrist, is a member of Allende's Socialist party. Toro, an electrical engineer, is a Communist.

Paredes and Toro were suspended pending the results of an investigation by a three-man panel into the incident Saturday during the "assault on the Moncada barracks" settlement on the outskirts of Santiago.

Police said one of the residents was killed and five peasants and six police wounded. More than 110 were arrested. Leaders of the community said police opened fire without provocation.

Residents of the shantytown are among the poorest in the capital area. Most live in wooden shacks without title to the land. The settlement is named for the Moncada Barracks in Santiago, Cuba, which Premier Fidel Castro assaulted July 26, 1953 to start the revolution in his island nation.

Fain Sentenced In Air Extortion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Alton A. Fain, man convicted of threatening to blow up airliners, was sentenced Friday to the maximum term of 20 years. The judge said he regretted the penalty was not more severe.

U. S. District Judge Spencer Williams(osentenced Fain for conspiring to extort $250,000 from United Air lines.

Fighting Continues By Ohio Democrats

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— The Ohio delegation that feuded at the Democratic National Convention last month went another round during the weekend when it met to choose four national committee members.

With Frank King, president of the Ohio AFL-CIO and head of the 153-member delegation at the helm here Saturday the balloting turned into a shouting match.

"I'm going to run this meeting in a business-like way with no child-like games and I won't have a repetition of the situation that made Ohio a national laughing stock and national scandal," King had said in opening the meeting.

When it was over, King declared as winners of the four seats on the National Committee Robert McAlister, chairman of Sen. George McGovern's Ohio campaign; Rep. Wayne Hays; Doris Rankin of Cincinnati, a McGovern delegate, and Ann Fleckner of Columbus, a backer of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey at the convention.

McGovern supporters leaped to their feet to protest when King awarded Hays a seat even though he polled fewer votes than state Sen. M. Morris Jackson of Cleveland, a McGovern backer.

As the arguments became more heated, King threatened to throw some delegates out of the meeting. Howard Fink, head of the Ohio McGovern caucus, said the Hays election would be appealed to the national committee.

King said he was going to "conduct this just like Larry O'Brien," the convention chairman, in making "decisions" on who went to the national committee.

King said his interpretation of the convention's Rule 23B was that committee members must fairly reflect the preference of delegates to the convention at the time they were elected.

King said Jackson represented McGovern interests and, therefore, both he and McAlister could not hold seats. Humphrey held more delegate strength than any other candidate.

In a caucus boycotted by the McGovern delegates at the Miami Beach convention, Humphreyites, led by King, elected two other national committee members. Ohio holds two other seats, with state party chairman William Lavelle and state party second vice chairwoman Esther Mayl of Dayton sharing one vote.

At the convention, the Ohio delegation passed on roll call votes time and again as the Humphrey and McGovern factions found little middle ground. King said the McGovern delegates made the 153 Ohioans "look like a bunch of rummies."

Revitalization Priority Sought

The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce has urged the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency to assign top priority to the revitalization of downtown San Rafael.

"Unless action is taken immediately to reverse a trend, sales may decline, resulting in decreased sales tax revenue," according to Jack E. Bucknum, chamber president.

He said that the economic health of the downtown business community was vital to the success of the city's redevelopment plans.

Priorities within the downtown should be given to traffic circulation, parking and beautification, he said.

Sailor Accused Of Sabotaging Carrier

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 21-year-old sailor was in custody today for allegedly tossing junk into one of the engines of the USS Ranger last month, causing a half-million dollars damage.

Patrick D. Chenoweth, Puyallup, Wash., a fireman, was held for pretrial investigation, Navy officials said Sunday.

DeMont Wins 1,500 Freestyle In World Record Time

I-J Special Report

CHICAGO — Let the date be recorded. On Aug. 6, 1972, Rick DeMont of Terra Linda became the fastest distance swimmer in the history of the world.

DeMont, a 16-year-old Terra Linda High School senior, demolished the world record for the 1,500-meter freestyle last night, en route to a victory at the United States' Olympic trials here.

He bettered by more than four seconds the standard of 15:57.1 by John Kinsella of Indiana University, with the staggering time of 15:52.91.

Trailing DeMont were Doug Northway of Pima, Ariz., and Mike Burton of Arden Hills, Calif. Kinsella, the pundits' premeet selection to win the face, finished sixth.

DeMont was aided by the fast pace set by Kinsella, who faded at the 700-meter mark. Representing the Marin Aquatic Club, DeMont then took over and kept going, pulling further ahead of the world record pace at every lap.

His 500 "splits" en route: 5:18.7, 5:18.8, 5:15.4.

"It's hard to put into words, I'm sort of dazed," his coach, Don Swartz, slowly commented following the event. "It just felt great for me as a coach, though, because he was ahead of the world record pace and you know he's going to win and set the record — like watching the ball on a roulette wheel fall in your slot."

The youthful Terra Lindan will now swim two events in Munich, having qualified in the 400-meter free Friday evening.

The timetable for DeMont's endeavors at the Games calls for the trials and finals of the 400 and Friday on Sept. 1, with the prelims and finals of the 1,500 coming Sept. 3 and 4, respectively.

Swartz says this will be a better timetable for his protege. "With the two 400 races followed immediately by the 1500s, he was pretty wiped out. He'll have a day of rest between the 400 and the 1500 in Munich.

Swartz, only in his fifth year of swim coaching, zestfully related that the American Swimming Coaches Association extended to him a late invitation (after Rick's 400) to speak on training at the World Coaches Clinic in Montreal following the Games. Like a gourmet cook, though, he won't divulge many of his top secrets. "I'll be sufficiently vague," he grinned.

DeMont's picture appeared on the August cover of Swimming World magazine, a full-color action photo that proved not to be a jinx as other magazine cover-stories, especially Time, have proved in the past to be.

What about DeMont's Munich chances? "He's got a shot at a medal," Swartz mused. "There'll be Northway, and Brad Cooper and Graham Windeatt of Australia right in there. Burton probably had to peak down all the way, and he may not be able to stay in shape."

Swartz estimates Rick can go a little faster. "He swam to win the race, figuring that if he did that, the record would take care of itself."

Although DeMont was "shaved down," (legs and arms) Swartz says he did not cut his hair, which would further chop his time.

In the trials the day before, DeMont just barely skimmed into the Sunday final, clocking 16:11.1. One second slower, and he wouldn't have made the finals at all.

Two other world records were shattered and another tied last night to complete selection of the U.S. Olympic swimming team. A total of 11 world records were bettered in the five-day trials.

Jo Ann Harshbarger, 15, Seattle, cracked Australian Shane Gould's world record in the women's 800-meter freestyle in 8:53.85. Karen Moe of Santa Clara, Calif., sped to the women's 200-meter butterly mark in 2:16.62.

Gary Hall, 21, an Indiana University senior, who holds the world record for the 400-meter individual medley at 4:30.81, won the 200-meter and tied the world record of 2:09.3 set two years ago by Gunner Larsson of Sweden.

Player Sets Higher Goal

"This is my sixth major championship at the age of 36," Player said Sunday after making his latest one the Professional Golfers' Association Championship. "My ambition is to win the most."

The 54th PGA crown went to Player by two strokes over Jim Jamieson, who admitted he felt the pressure, and Tommy Aaron.

"Ben Hogan is my golf idol," Player said after beating the field and the rain, and coming closest of anyone to beating the golf course he called " the best in America."

"He mentioned how tough this course was and how tough Carnoustie (in Scotland) was. Now, we have both won championships on the same courses."

First place in the $225,000 tournament was worth $45,000 to the South African, whose pride was stung earlier in the week by a story suggesting he wasn't among the best any more.

"It really means something to win a major tournament, and when you work hard, it means more," said the man who runs two miles a day and then does a half-hour's worth of exercises to keep in shape.

Jamieson, 29, had the lead at one point late in the tournament, being even par while Player was one over.

"I realize I blew it in the last three holes," the chunky winner of the Western Open said in his usual cheerful fashion. "It was the pressure. The pressure bothers me more putting than anything else."

He lipped an eight-footer which would have given him a par on the 408-yard, par-four 16th; two-putted from 20 feet on the par-three 17th, and had a three-footer go wide to the right on the killer closing 18th hole. Jamieson and Aaron each got $20,850 for splitting second and third money.

Sam Snead had a last round which was incredibly only nine strokes higher than his age of 60 and headed a group of three at four-over 284. Snead, Ray Floyd and Bill Casper got paid $9,275 apiece.

Jack Nicklaus, who had his Grand Slam bid broken by Lee Trevino in the British Open, lost his attempt to break a tie with Bobby Jones for the most major championships won. Nicklaus, who has 13 wins in the big ones, finished with a 72 for a 287 total.

Trevino, a pre-tournament co-favorite with Nicklaus, had a 71

Hamilton Duo Wins Boxing

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — It was repetitious and maybe a bit painful, but otherwise the final stage of the U.S. Olympic boxing trials here Saturday was perfectly fine as far as two Hamilton Air Force Base boxers were concerned.

The two — bantamweight Ricardo (Ricky) Carreras and welterweight Jesse Valdez — decisioned their opponents in challenge bouts to insure a trip to Munich Aug. 26 as part of the U.S. Olympic team.

It was precisely the same thing the two boxers did last month, in the original trials in Fort Worth, Tex., but the Olympic moguls created the challenge bouts to make sure no fluke winners were sent to the Olympics. If the challenger had won Saturday, a third bout would have determined the representative.

Other winners included Tim Dement, 17-year-old student from Bossier City, La., who stopped flyweight Jesse Trujillo of Denver in three rounds, and Duane Bobick of Bowlus, Minn., a heavyweight who defeated Larry Holmes of Trenton, N.J., by disqualification.

Hamilton heavyweight Nick Wells of Fort Worth finished second to Bobick in the Fort Worth trials and was selected to oppose him in the challenge bout, but was unable to do so because of injuries sustained in that fight.

49ERS' NOLAN:

We Need Work On Pass Rush

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) —The San Francisco Forty Niners lost their first game of the exhibition season on a last-minute touchdown and the New York Jets gained only 162 yards passing, and today coach Dick Nolan said the team will have to work hard on its pass rush.

"We gave them too much time to throw the ball," Nolan said of the New York quarterbacks, "and while I was pleased with a lot of things we did I'm disappointed in our pass rush. We're going to work extra hard on it this week."

The Jets rallied in the last 33 seconds to score the deciding touchdown in a 17-10 victory at the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday night, with John Riggins going 26 yards for the winner.

It was a game in which the Forty Niners never were behind until that score by Riggins as Steve Spurrier, who went nearly all the way, showed he can do the job. Steve hit on 21-of-36 passes for 268 yards and one of his completions was a 47-yard bomb to Jimmy Thomas for San Francisco's only touchdown.

A 25-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett accounted for the only other San Francisco points while in addition to Riggins, the Jets scored on a 30-yard pass from Bob Davis to Eddie Bell and a 40-yard field goal by Bobby Howfield.

Naturally, the Niners wanted to win the game but Nolan put every available man into the game. The only notable absentees were John Brodie, top draft choice Terry Beasley, and defensive end Cedrick Hardman.

Hardman is just now coming back from off-season knee surgery and won't be able to play until the first regular season game, if then. So, it becomes important for San Francisco to find someone who can put a little more pressure on enemy passers until Hardman is ready.

Upset Win Earns Lutz U.S. Crown

Only the wry smile on his face told that he had just won the 45th annual U.S. Professional Tennis Championships and the $10,000 first prize.

'BIGGEST WIN'

"I guess you'd have to say it was the biggest win of my career," said the 24-year old Marinite, referring to his sizzling 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4 upset of Tom Okker of the Netherlands in the finals of the $50,000 tournament Sunday —making Lutz the first American champion since 1962, and ending nine years of Australian domination.

It was a fitting end to a spectacular march through the tourney for the unseeded Lutz who knocked off three of the world's top players on the way to the finals —top-seeded John Newcombe, five-time champion Rod Laver and 1971 finalist Cliff Drysdale.

MATCH POINTS

Lutz had to save two match points against Newcombe in his first-round match, which was decided by a tiebreaker in the third set, and fought off four more match points in a similar

FOLLOWING WIN

Madden Pairing For 12 Raiders

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — The first game is history for the Oakland Raiders, and for 12 of them the final report card.

The Raiders, behind Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler, beat the New England Patriots 31-24 Saturday night and went right back to work at their training camp today to get ready for the Baltimore Colts On Aug. 14.

Coach John Madden, satisfied with his veterans but still in doubt about a lot of his rookies, must cut the squad to 60 players by Tuesday, which means 12 men will go.

Three rookies a cinch to stay off their first game performances are wide receivers Cliff Branch and Mike Siani and defensive back Skip Thomas. The three came in for praise from Madden, who said it's nice to win the exhibitions but looking at players in action is the real important thing.

"We're not ready to open the season," said the Raiders' coach, "But that's what exhibitions are for—to get ready and nothing else."

Lamonica played the first half and completed 4-of-15 passes for 105 yards while Stabler connected on 5-of-10 in the second half. Branch caught one of Stabler's throws for a touchdown and had two catches in all for 40 yards. Siani had one catch for 11.

Thomas made an interception on Brian Dowling of Yale, the Pats' backup quarterback, and ran it back for 16 yards.

Madden also liked what tight end Ray Chester and wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff showed him and the running of Pete Banaszak, Clarence Davis and Don Highsmith came in for praise. Highsmith scored two touchdowns and Banaszak one. The other Raiders points came on a 17-yard field goal by George Blanda.

However, it was a missed 51-yard field goal by Blanda that upset Madden. On that one, which was short, Ricky Harris took the ball on the eight and ran it 92 yards for a Pats score.

"There is no excuse for things like that," said Madden. "It shows we have a lot of work to do, especially on defense."

Good To Be Back For Giants' Willoughby

SAN FRANCISCO — For Jim Willoughby, it was good to be back.

The San Francisco Giants' right-handed pitcher, just recalled from Phoenix when Sam McDowell was placed on the disabled list, went the distance for his first big-league victory Sunday as the Giants salvaged a doubleheader split by beating Houston, 6-2, after the Astros, had pounded Jim Bar and Don McMahon for a 7-3 win.

Willoughby stopped the Astros on eight scattered hits while the Giants supported him with 11 hits, including homers by Chris Speier, Ken Henderson and Dave Kingman.

The victory snapped a five-game San Francisco losing streak and a four-game Houston win streak. Despite the split, the Astros gained a half-game on the Cincinnati Reds in the national league west and now trail by five games.

Tom Griffin gave up seven hits and the first four San Francisco runs while dropping his third decision in six games. Five Houston pitchers fanned a total of 16 Giants during the doubleheader.

Lee May doubled and singled, drove in two runs and scored two while pacing the Astros in the opener. Johnny Edwards added three hits and Roger Metzer, Cesar Cedeno and Jim Wynn had two hits each.

Barr was touched for 11 hits in seven innings and was the first game loser (4-5) while Larry Dierker, with help from Jim Ray over the last 2⅓ innings, was the winner and now is 10-6.

Oakland Splits, White Sox Gain

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—The Oakland Athletics, with the Chicago White Sox gaining ground on their hold on first in the American League West, take on the Kansas City Royals tonight with Jim Hunter (14-4) on the mound.

The Athletics lost another game off their narrowing lead in the division when they dropped the second game of a doubleheader Sunday to the Minnesota Twins at Bloomington, Minn.

Rookie Dave Goltz pitched a six-hitter and Rod Carew scored two runs as the Twins won the second contest 5-1 after Oakland scored three in the top of the 13th to win the opener 6-3.

The A's dropped three games of their four-game series to the Twins and now lead Chicago by only three and a half games.

The homer gave Killebrew 534 for his career, tying him with Jimmy Foxx for fifth place on the all-time homer list, two behind Mickey Mantle.

Joe Rudi had three hits and two RBIs for Oakland in the first game, won by Darold Knowles. Rudi also had two hits in the second game and finished the four-game series with 10 hits in 17 at bats, raising his league-leading batting average to .326.

Mathews In, Harris Out With Braves

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Luman Harris was fired today as manager of the Atlanta Braves and Eddie Mathews, a team coach and former slugging third baseman, was named to replace him.

The announcement was made in Cinrinnati by Bill Bartholomay, president of the Braves, and Eddie Robinson, director of player personnel.

They said Mathews has been signed to a contract which extends through next season. Robinson, who had been carefully evalutating the team for the past two months, strongly recommended that the change be made, the Braves announced.

The Braves have lost seven of their last eight games. They have been hurt throughout the season by weak pitching and mediocre fielding and have never been able to rise above .500.

Mathews, 40, the first base coach, slugged 512 home runs in his major league career. Most of his playing time was with the Braves in their former homes, Boston and Milwaukee. He played two seasons for the Atlanta team in the Southern Association in 1950 and 1951.

Harris, 57, a drawling Alabama native, had one successful year at Atlanta. In 1969 his Braves won the Western Division title but were beaten by the New York Mets in the playoff for the league crown.

The Braves were fifth in the league in 1968, fifth in the division in 1970 and third last year.

Harris pitched six years in the majors in the 1940s.

Harris also managed one year at Baltimore and two seasons at Houston before coming to the Braves.

Rumors that Harris was to be fired had circulated in Atlanta almost all season.

Frey Pitches No-Hitter In DiMaggio Game

Gene Frey pitched a no-hitter yesterday to give the Italian Club a 4-0 victory over Villa Builders and keep it abreast of Toby's Truckers in the torrid South race in the Joe DiMaggio League.

Frey struck out 10, walked two and saw one baserunner reach on an error. It was the second no-hitter of the year for Frey, who threw one for Redwood High in a non-league baseball game in March.

Italian Club and Toby's are tied for the South lead at 10-1-1.

Gimeno's Victory Ties Davis Cup

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI)—Veteran Andres Gimeno today beat young Harold Solomon, 6-3, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2 to level the score at 2-2 in the Davis Cup interzone semifinal between Spain and the United States.

Advancement to the final round against the winner of the other semifinal between Australia and Romania hinged on the result of the last singles match between Wimbledon champion Stan Smith and Spain's Juan Gisbert.

It was the second victory in the series for Gimeno who beat Smith in four sets Saturday.

The balding, 35-year-old veteran had originally been dropped from the team by Spanish captain Jaime Bartroli, but was reinstated after top-ranked Manuel Orantes pulled a muscle in practice.

Outgunning and outsmarting 19-year-old Solomon time and again, Gimeno was off to a fast start, winning the first five games in a row —the fifth with straight four aces —before Solomon notched his first games with a series of lobs.

Gimeno, playing on home ground at the slow clay court of Barcelona's Royal Tennis Club, romped through the second set with equal ease with his powerful serve and well-placed volleys.

Solomon, from Silver Spring, Md., came back briefly in the third set, successfully pinning Gimeno to the baseline and forcing the Spaniard to play his own unusual game.

With his characteristic two-handed grip the young American varied the pace, alternating slow lobs with precision sideline drives to take the set 6-2.

Koufax Leads List Of Hall Inductees

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. — Former pitching stars Sandy Koufax, at 36 the youngest inductee ever, Yogi Berra, Early Wynn, Fairfax's Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, and four other baseball greats were officially enshrined today in baseball's hall of fame.

Also inducted with the three most recently retired players, were Buck Leonard. Three others honored posthumously: Ross Youngs, Josh Gibson and former American League President Will Harridge.

Koufax, forced to retire after the 1966 season because of an arthritic left elbow, led the National League five straight years in posting the lowest earned run average, hurled four no-hitters in as many differnet seasons, won the Cy Young Award three times and was named the NL's most valuable player once.

IN BASEBALL

Stargell, Aaron In Good Form

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Willie Stargell and Henry Aaron are a perfect example of two men with different philosophies who achieve the same result.

The two National League sluggers are among the premier home run hitters in baseball, but when it comes to discussing their theories about home runs the two men have different lines of thinking.

Aaron, who is in hot pursuit of Babe Ruth's career record of 714 homers, openly admits that he is swinging for the fences every time up in an effort to catch the Babe before age erodes his abilities.

Stargell takes a vastly different approach.

"When I go up to the plate I don't think home run. I've never hit a home run yet when I tried to," says the Pittsburgh Pirates' slugger. "Usually when I try I make some kind of mistake."

Aaron tried to hit home runs Sunday and belted two as the Braves defeated the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in 10 innings. Stargell didn't try to hit home runs and walloped three as the Pirates took a doubleheader from the Montreal Expos 8-0 and 7-2. Which philosophy is better?

In other National League games, New York trounced Chicago 12-2, St. Louis blanked Philadelphia 6-0, Los Angeles defeated San Diego 6-0, and San Francisco salvaged the nightcap of a doubleheader with Houston 6-2 after the Astros won the opener 7-3.

The Chicago White Sox won a doubleheader from Texas 10-1 and 7-1, California took two from Kansas City 4-3 and 3-2, New York swept Milwaukee 3-0 and 6-4 in 10 innings, Baltimore routed Boston 11-2, Cleveland beat Detroit 2-1, then lost 6-5, and Oakland beat Minnesota 6-3 in 13 innings then lost 5-1 in American League action.

CHICAGO — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley said he was fined and reprimanded by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn not because he was wrong but because what he said was "made public."

Kuhn fined Finley $500 Saturday and reprimanded him for statements the owner made about Kuhn's intervention in contract negotiations between Finley and Vida Blue last spring.

Auto Racing

George Follmer, who won the Canadian-American Challenge Cup race at Road Atlanta last month as a replacement for injured Mark Donohue, made it Can-Am victory No. 2 yesterday with a green-to-checkered flag triumph in the $83,000 Buckeye Can-Am at the Mid-Ohio Road Course in Lexington, Ohio.

In both wins Follmer drove Roger Penske's turbocharged Porsche 917-10.

Tennis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The U.S. Clay Court Tennis Championships open today with the women's competition threatening to steal the limelight from the men's singles.

The reason for the extra interest in the women's events is the presence of two outstanding performers in Australian Evonne Goolagong and 17-year-old Florida star Chris Evert.

The women's field also will include Australia's Margaret Court, who defeated Miss Goolagong yesterday to win the Western Women's singles title at Cincinnati, Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Ga. — After being down match point, Rosemary Casals of San Francisco came back to take 32 of the last 37 points and defeat Francoise Durr of France, 6-7, 7-6, 6-0, to win the Virginia Slims Tennis Tournament.

Jermane's Rise In Marin Golf Circle

(Second of a series)

Since moving to Marin County a year and a half ago, Mike Jermane has risen to the top among local golfers. Last month he annexed the Marin Country Club championship, which gives him home course advantage for the 1972 Marin County Tournament of Champions.

"Sure I think there's a home course advantage, in terms of knowledge of the course," the 29-year-old Jermane says. And his knowledge of the par 72 Novato layout where the tourney of champs will be played Sunday must be rated extensive.

He defeated Frank Conti, 3 and 2 for the club title, but more impressive was a 1 up victory over 1971 tourney of champs titleholder Mat Palacio Jr.

Jermane, a five-handicapper, became a member of Marin C.C. after moving to Marinwood from San Francisco a year and a half ago. it is his first membership in a club, and of course, his first club championship.

Jermane first took up golf at the age of 12, and continued to play while attending San Jose St. College as an advertising major. At that time he even considered a professional career in golf, at least on the country club level.

Now Jermane works as a representative of the DeTuy Orthopedic Applicance Co. His job allows him to get to the golf course two or three times a week, so he'll be in good practice when he takes on the champions of Marin's five other golf courses in the tourney of champs.

Snap-On Softballers Notch 9-8 Triumph

Stu Clemons and Mike Gaffney hit back-to-back home runs in the sixth inning to give Snap-On Tools a 9-8 victory over North Coast Distributors in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league game yesterday at Albert Park.

In other action, Deming's Tires edged Fabulous Aliens, 5-3, and Marin District walloped Belly Whompers, 16-6.

Knickerbockers Grab 12-1 Win

Pitchers Dennis Bueler and Lenny Hoffman gave up just one hit apiece while Tim Bowen hit a three-run homer and John Sjoblom a solo shot as the C. L. Moore Knickerbockers of Novato defeated the Sacramento Falcons yesterday, 12-1, in a semi-pro baseball game at Novato High.

The Knickerbockers improved their Sacramento Rural League record to 9-2 and will meet league-leading Lodi (10-2) Thursday night in Lodi in a key game.

Gold Issues Serve As Inflation Hedge

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband and I are interested in buying South African gold stocks. We are concerned with inflation and are interested in high income. What do you think of Blyvooruitzicht Gold and Driefontein Gold Mining? — W.L.

A. With worldwide monetary conditions continuing unstable, shares of gold mining issues, since Americans are prohibited from buying gold outright, are a justifiable inflation hedge.

However, the price of free market gold has moved almost vertically since the first of the year from about $43 to $66 an ounce on the London Metal Exchange. This rise has carried over to stock prices as well — gold mining companies have tacked on about 50 per cent to their value, pushing many to new highs.

Free gold price reflects the balance between supply and demand. With the spread between demand and supply apparently broadening, the only way prices can go is up, according to most experts.

South Africa, which produces 78 per cent of the free market gold, precipitated the upsurge in price when it announced that reserves were being built up and sales on the free market were no longer required under the IMF agreement. Demand for gold from inflation-conscious Europeans, who are estimated to hold 5,000 tons of the yellow metal, is not expected to abate.

On the contrary, some estimates of a 500 per cent increase in demand from this sector have been expounded. Industrial use worldwide will probably remain constant — Japan is lifting all restrictions on this type of use as of next April.

Supply may get a boost from low-grade mines coming onstream, since at the higher price level, low-grade ore can be milled profitably. Another source of metal, the Soviet Union, annually produces 150 tons more than it needs. Nonetheless, offsetting factors such as old mines being exhausted and continued hoarding should keep demand higher than supply.

Either of the two issues, ADRs traded OTC, would be suitable. Dividends after the 15 per cent South African withholding tax are currently $1.37 a share for West Driefontein and $0.27 for Blyvooruitzicht.

Prices On Good Side At Opening

Continuing favorable economic news was credited for the firmer tone of the market. Recent substantial gains came with an outpouring of favorable second quarter earnings reports, and sharp increases in factory orders and inventories. And, analysts said, there remained overriding optimism concerning the course of the Paris peace talks.

Glamor stocks moved in both directions, but several showed substantial gains. IBM jumped 3 1-2, Corning Glass 2 1-2.

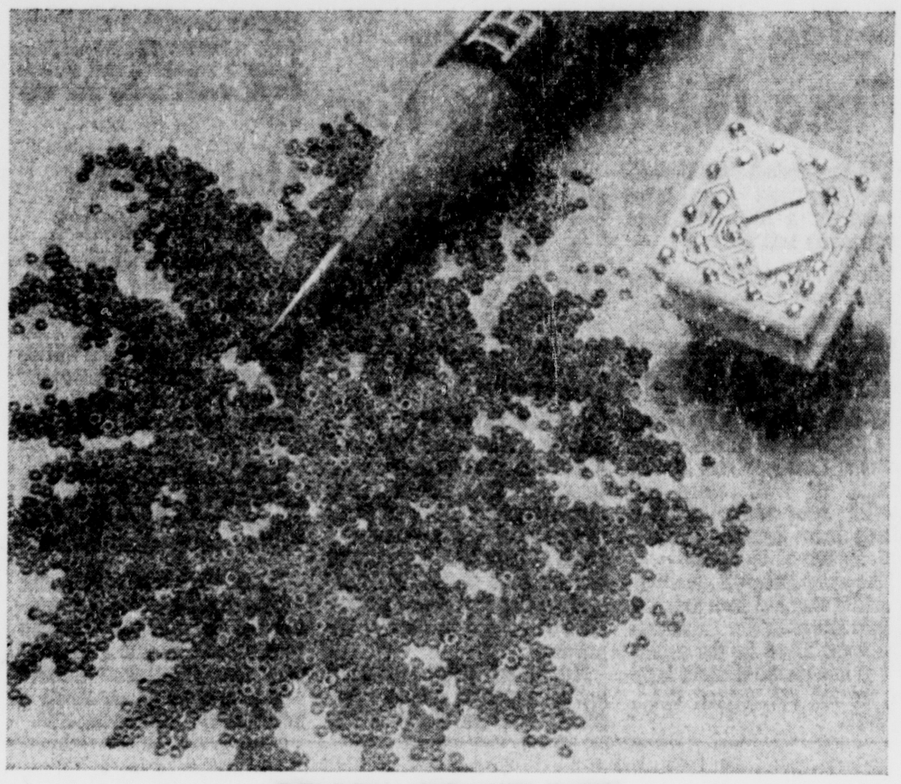

City Stores was the most active NYSE stock in the morning, losing 1⅝ to 5⅜ on 52,300 shares. The firm gave no reason for the sharp decline.

Prices also moved slightly higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Mobile Home stocks took a beating on the Big Board in the first two hours. A report in the Wall Street Journal said the industry was in for a decline compared with previous quarters. Among the losers, Skyline fell 3, Fleetwood Enterprises 1 7-8 and Redman Corp. 1 1-2.

Steels were firm, motor stocks mixed.

Chemicals were paced higher by Dupont, up 1 7-8 and Monsanto, up 1 1-2.

PENCIL-POINT SIZE

This pencil-point shows the relative size of a mounted silicon chip — about one-eighth-inch square — containing 1,024 microscopically small monolithic circuits used in the main store of new IBM computer systems. They're the most compact main storage circuits ever used by IBM. When encased in tiny four-chip modules, 4,096 circuits provide same data storage capacity as do these tiny ferrite cores, strung on wires for use in conventional computer main storage.

Accounting Series Slated In October

Accounting and its many applications for the businessman and the individual taxpayer will be discussed in a series of public meetings at Dominican College in San Rafael during October.

The conferences, to be held on Oct. 11, 12 and 13 from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m., are sponsored jointly by the North Bay chapter of the Society of California Accountants, Marin County Chamber of Commerce, San Rafael Independent-Journal, and Dominican College.

Each program will consist of three 20-minute talks followed by a written question and answer period and will be moderated by Ernest T. Stair San Rafael accountant.

The exact topics for discussion are still under consideration. Among those recommended are:

Public Accountant and the Small Businessman, Public Accounting as a Career for You, Public Accountant and the Farm Owner, Financial Reporting for Small Business, Taxes and You, 1972 Federal and State Tax Law Changes and Who Gets the Benefits, Special Tax Breaks for People Over 65, Tax Breaks Now from Estate (Life) Planning for the Future, Tax Shelters, Saving Cash by Cutting Taxes, and many others.

The North Bay chapter of the Society of California Accountants, headed by President Edward Pierce of San Rafael, is conducting a public poll to see what topics are most in demand.

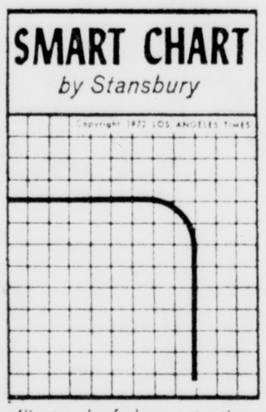

Redwood Bank Has Record Six Months

Redwood Bank in San Rafael increased its deposits by 30 per cent and loans by 22 per cent during the first six months of this year, compared with the same period last year.

President Bryon W. Leydecker reported to shareholders that net earnings for the first six months reached a record high of 95 cents per share, compared with 85 cents last year.

San Rafael Motorcycle Agency Is Moving To A New Location

Wise

Dearth

Anthony

Dahlstrom

Harley Davidson of Marin will move into new quarters at the corner of Bellam Boulevard and Lisbon Streets in East San Rafael about October.

The motorcycle agency, now located a block away at 105 Verdi Street, was founded in 1967 by Kevin and Dana Dearth: Dearth said the agency outgrew its present site because of expanding business.

He will move into a new building which is being built by Don R. Presley of San Rafael at 125 Bellam Boulevard. Contractor is Al Villa of Novato.

Dearth spend four years with the Seebees in the Philippines before joining his parents at the Northwestern Savings and Loan Association (now Fidelity Savings and Loan) in 1956. He was with the savings and loan for 11 years before opening his motorcycle agency.

SON-MAR Termit Control has just opened for business at 1064 Machin in Novato, next to Hussman's Refrigeration.

Prioprietor is Robert (Pat) Pauley of Novato, who has been in the termite control business for 12 years, the last two and one half years with Foremost Termite Control in San Rafael.

Pauley will serve primarily in Sonoma and Marin. He used the first three letters of each county for his company name — Son-Mar. The new company will be open five days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

DR. ROBERT V. DAHLSTROM of San Rafael was named director of research and development for Bio-Rad Laboratories of Richmond. Bio-Rad manufactures clinical diagnostic tests and high quality chemicals and instruments for research, medicine and industry.

Dr. Dahlstrom was formerly vice president of research and development for Bio-Technical Resources Inc. of Manitowoc, Wisconsin.

J. MICHAEL ANTHONY, senior deputy district attorney, has resigned from the Marin D.A.'s staff after seven and one half years to enter private practice.

He will be associated with Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna, and Claxon at 4340 Redwood Highway in the La Plaza Building at Northgate Industrial Park. Anthony and his wife left last Friday for a three-week vacation in Europe before he resumes his private law practice.

MARTIN P. WISE, assistant vice president and assistant manager of Crocker Bank's San Rafael main office, has been named assistant vice president-operations at the bank's Market-Jones office in San Francisco.

A native of San Rafael, Wise joined the First National Bank of San Rafael (which later became Crocker Bank) in 1954. In 1962, he was promoted to assistant manager of the Petaluma office.

He became operations officer at the San Rafael main office in 1968 and the following year was made assistant vice president and operations officer. He was promoted to assistant vice president and assistant manager in 1971.

NONI BELDEN ALLEN of Kentfield has joined the Greenbrae office residential sales staff of Frank Howard Allen & Co. Realtors. Mrs. Allen is active with Montessori School and Louise A. Boyd Science Museum ic San Rafael.

BART PASSERO and Jurgen F. Vahrenkamp, representing the Redwood Empire District of Prudential Insurance Co., San Rafael, are back from a business conference of leading underwriters held in Denver.

From 1964 to 1969, Bergsund lived in Glen Falls, N.Y., where he won several prizes in the community's annual art shows. He was charter president of Sight & Insight Inc., a nonprofit organization exhibiting in the Cannery in San Francisco.

MARY MONTES of Terra Linda has taken over as manager of Marin Motel at 4136 Redwood Highway in the Northgate area of San Rafael. She succeeded Mrs. Betty Heard, who had managed the motel for two years.

Mrs. Montes operated a beauty salon in San Anselmo for seven years until she sold out in 1966. She then moved to the East Bay and just returned to Terra Linda last month.

Review Set For Bus Payment

The Golden Gate Bridge District's claim that Marin County must pay $787,338 this fiscal year for local bus service will be reviewed by district and county officials on Thursday.

The meeting of the district's joint transportation and finance-auditing committees will be at 9:30 a.m. in toll plaza offices.

A sharply different county payment, $265,407, has been computed by the county's acting transit manager, James B. Robertson. The district's figure was based on a cost sharing formula reached between the county and district before operating experience showed it to be unfair to the county.

Also on the agenda is the issue of how much of the district's dwindling reserve should be preserved to prevent it from going broke or having too little left to meet unexpected costs. The staff has recommended a $5 million reserve, twice its projected total for any likely emergencies.

San Francisco Supervisor John Molinari has pushed for a $10 million reserve, $4 million under the estimated reserve at the end of this fiscal year.

The full board of directors will act at 10 a.m. Friday on bids to build the initial fleet of three new ferryboats. The low bid was almost $4.2 million more than the $7.8 million estimate.

Pacheco Ranch Plans Due Study

The Novato City Council will consider development plans for the Pacheco Ranch when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Novato community house.

The council postponed action on the matter last Tuesday in order to inspect the property on the west side of Highway 101 opposite Hamilton Air Force Base.

U.S. Development Co. plans for the 519-acre ranch include a professional and light industrial area adjacent to Highway 101, along with a motel, restaurant and convenience shopping area, and 650 to 700 clustered homes or townhouses on 138 acres in the valley to the west.

The remaining 381 acres would be deeded free to the city for parks and open space.

False Alarm Costs Time Getting To Fire

The San Rafael Fire Department received four false alarms in a little less than three hours last night.

One of the city's five fire engines was responding to a false alarm at Midway and Front streets at 9:06 p.m. when a brush and grass fire broke out at Robert Dollar Drive.

At 9:16 p.m., a false alarm was reported at Canal Street between Larkspur and Novato streets. At 10:32, there was another false alarm at Nova Albion Drive followed at 12:05 p.m. by one at 39 Trellis.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said it was just luck that last night's fire at Dollar Drive was easily contained as the engine lost at least three minutes turning around and getting there, he says.

Marcucci said the false alarms plaguing San Rafael are part of a nationwide problem.

The San Rafael Fire Department, with 150 alarm boxes throughout the city, receives an average of 16 to 25 false alarms each month, he says. In April, May and June, 75 false alarms were called in.

A false alarm is a misdemeanor and becomes a felony if a fireman is injured while responding. Fire officials have investigated rashes of false alarms and have staked out areas of high incidence, but no one has been caught, Marcucci said, adding that citizen cooperation is needed to combat the problem.

Marcucci urged anyone seeing a person acting suspiciously near an alarm box to obtain a description and, if possible, a license number. Anyone seeing a prankster pull a false alarm should notify fire officials.

Market Cattle Climb Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Marketing of fattened beef cattle will rise to a record in the second half of 1972, but total production of red meats will be just about equal to output in the same period last year, an Agriculture Department report has predicted.

"Expanding beef output and seasonally increasing pork production will dampen livestock prices later in the year, but very strong consumer demand will hold meat prices above a year earlier," economists said.

Tourist Out $28,000 In Marin Theft

A briefcase said to contain $28,000 in cash has been stolen from a Napa restaurateur who spent a night on the town in Tiburon.

The man, Lee Carbone, 56, reported that his briefcase was stolen last Thursday while he was staying at the Tiburon Lodge, police reported today.

Carbone, according to police, said he had carried his briefcase into a bar where he and his wife had drinks, and then to a restaurant, where they had dinner.

After returning to sleep at the Tiburon Lodge, Carbone was awakened after midnight by his wife saying that his briefcase had been taken, police reported.

Carbone told police he had been carrying the cash because he often cashes checks at his Napa restaurant. Police suspect the money was taken from his hotel room while the door was unlocked.

Pacheco Ranch Plan On Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider the master plan for development of 519 acres of the Pacheco Ranch, south of the city and west of Highway 101, at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The plans by U.S. Development Corp. provide for 650 to 700 housing units, offices, light industry and shopping area on 138 acres, with the remaining 381 acres for parks and open space.

Councilmen started review of the plans last week and visited the property yesterday.

Police Pursue Sports Cars In Tiburon Hills

With red lights flashing and sirens wailing, about half a dozen patrol cars chased two sports cars through almost eight miles of winding roads in Tiburon and Strawberry yesterday morning.

The driver of one of the Porsches, Peter Manfred Bucklin, 24, of Daly City, was cited by police for failure to stop at a stop light and yield to pursuing police officers, speeding, and lack of registration.

Police also stopped a second Porsche but did not cite the second driver. According to Belvedere police, officers were not sure the second Porsche was one of those involved in the chase.

Tiburon police said two Porsches were seen speeding down Tiburon Boulevard at about 2:30 a.m. yesterday. Patrol units from Belvedere, Mill Valley and the Marin County Sheriff's Department were called for assistance.

During an eight mile chase through the hills, the two sports cars lost the pursuing patrol cars, said police.

Moments later, a Porsche was stopped by a patrol car at a station on Tiburon Boulevard. While police tried to identify the car as one of the two they had been chasing, another Porsche approached the service station then made a sudden U-turn and headed back up Tiburon Boulevard, police reported.

Several patrol cars took off after the car and eventually stopped Bucklin near Blackfield Road.

Despite the fact that the first car's tires were smoking, police said they could not be sure it was one of the cars they had been chasing.

Freeway Projects For Tomorrow Are Announced

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow were announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Sections of freeway involved are:

1. North of Washington Street in Petaluma, outside northbound lane closed 6 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to permit slab replacement.

2. South of Richardson Bay Bridge, two outside northbound lanes closed 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. to permit paving.

3. Between Richardson Bay Bridge and Alto overcrossing, inside southbound lane closed 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to permit electrical work.

4. Between Golden Gate Bridge and Waldo Grade tunnel, outside northbound lane closed 8 a.m. to noon and two outside southbound lanes closed noon to 6 p.m., to permit paving.

Decrease Shown In Radiation

UPTON, N.Y. (UPI)—A limited study conducted at the Brookhaven National Laboratory shows that radiation levels in humans have decreased since 1963 when the treaty prohibiting atmospheric nuclear tests was signed.

Ten employes of the laboratory were tested once a month from 1960 to 1971 for the presence of cesium 137, a product of nuclear explosions which is present in fallout. Nine-hundred other employes were tested less frequently.

In the first year of the testing, the average value of cesium 137 was 37 picocuries for each gram of potassium in the body. A picocurie is a measure of radiation.

Open Space Bonds On Corte Madera Agenda

Corte Madera Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville will give a status report on his proposal for an open space bond program at tonight's meeting of the Corte Madera Town Council at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

Requests from two homeowners' associations will be considered; one, from the Christmas Tree Hill Homeowners association requests a building ban in their area because of recent fires, the other, from the Corte Madera Avenue Homeowners Association concerns traffic control.

Church Poll On IRS Harassment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Church of Scientology is polling more than 7,000 East Coast churchs of every denomination to determine if the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) practices "harassment" against churches involved in social action programs.

A church spokesman said Sunday confidential questionnaires have gone out to the East Coast churches following a similar poll on the West Coast sponsored by the Scientologists.

The church claims it has received numerous complaints that the IRS was investigating churches involved in such issues as the Vietnam War, poverty, housing and other social action programs.

'Fair Days' Meeting

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce will meet with the city's Country Fair Days committee at 8 p.m. Aug. 10 at Casper's La Siesta, 145 Tunstead Street, to discuss final plans for the Aug. 26 festival, Kenneth R. Ball, chamber president, announced.

51-Thousand Marin teachers are asleep!

This is the book that could wake them up.
Once you've read it, you may want to make some noise...

When Marin schools open this fall, 51-thousand specially qualified teachers will not teach. They'll go to class, but they will not teach.

It will be a waste of scandalous proportions. In human resources. In tax money. And above all—in quality of education. For these 51-thousand idle teachers already know the special capacities and motivations and eccentricities of their students better than anyone else in the world. Who are these sleeping teachers?

They are the students themselves—all 51-thousand of them—and each potentially his or her own best teacher!

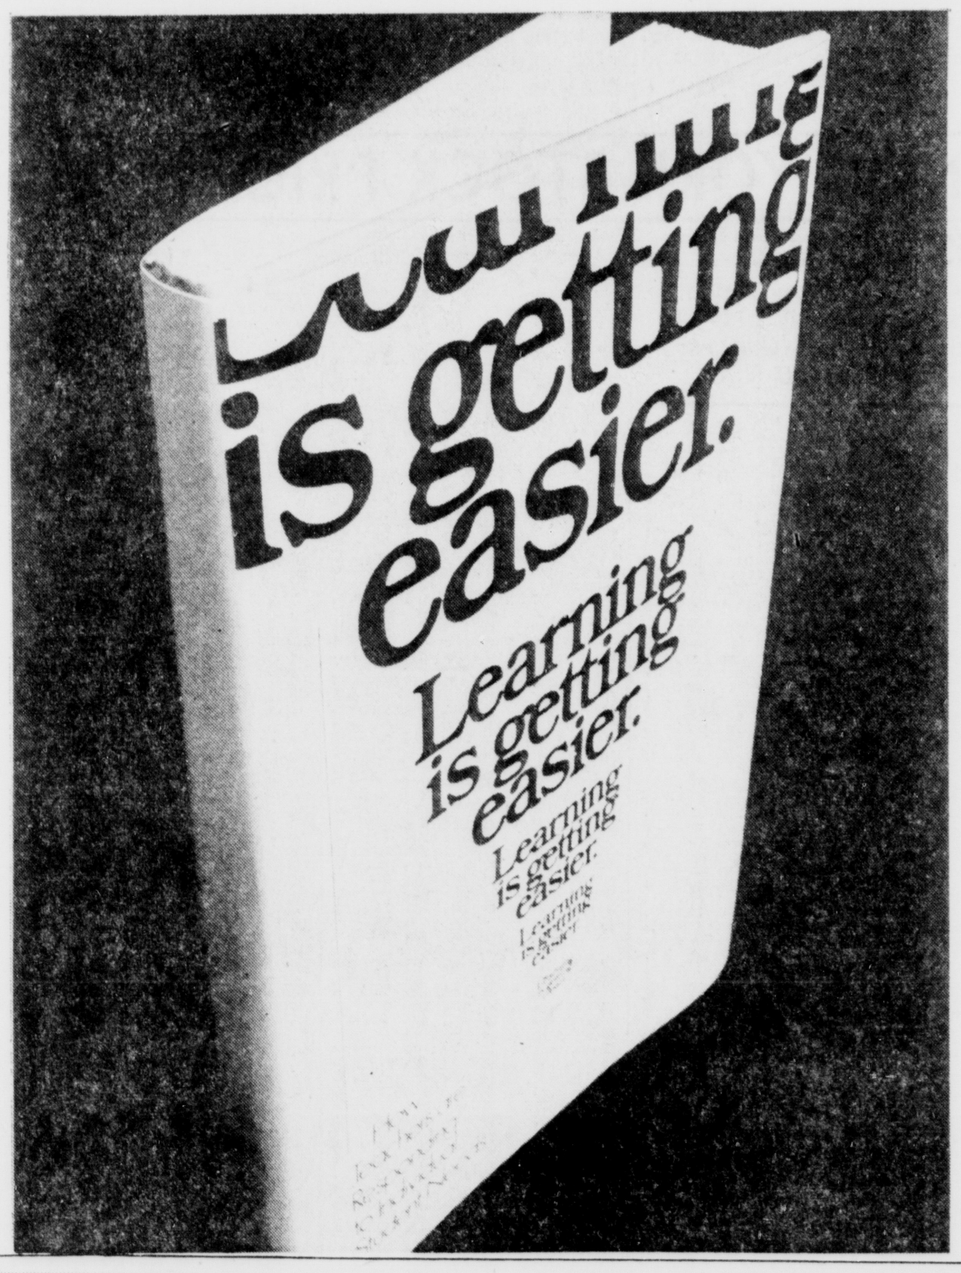

Academic baloney? Hardly.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans are self-teaching their way through school—at all levels—right now! (Not at home—but in class, on campus). In fact, at the college level alone, over 160 thousand young men and women—on 1,203 major campuses throughout the country—are self-pacing, self-teaching, and self-testing their way to straight A's! How did it all happen?

Thousands of instructors quietly introduced a revolutionary idea into their classrooms. Victimized for voicing important educational problems—criticized without being given answers—these instructors have now found and applied a potential solution for all schools. It is a new individual learning system.

Originally conceived to meet an isolated set of teaching problems, its extraordinary potential was almost immediately evident. And soon the system was spreading—from class to class and school to school. Today it is sending rumbles throughout the entire U.S. educational system. Because it works. Because it is compatible with the existing system. Because it is welcomed by both faculty and students.

FACING DEATH

Marin Reflects The Trend

By MARLENE FREEDMAN
(First of four articles)

Marin County is starting to talk openly about something that has long been avoided as a topic. Death.

"It's like sex", observes a sociologist. "Until recently, it wasn't socially acceptable to talk about. Now we talk quite openly about sex. It's the same with death."

A concerned minister devoted an entire sermon to death and dying. He told his congregation, "We can never fully come to terms with our living if we do not also come to terms with the reality of our own death."

A doctor who has dealt with life and death in his office for 15 years muses, "My patients and I have a sort of unspoken agreement. 'I know I'm going to die' they almost say,' but don't tell me. I don't want to hear it."

A scholar scans his growing library of literature on death, dying and grief and concludes: "We know so little about death because we've never been there. We can't talk about it knowledgably because we don't know what it's like to be dead."

Marin has 1300 to 1500 deaths a year, according to the county coroner's office.

Each one has psychological, economic and emotional repercussions that extend from the family unit outward into society.

Some are so-called natural deaths, some the results of accidents and some are suspected or confirmed suicides.

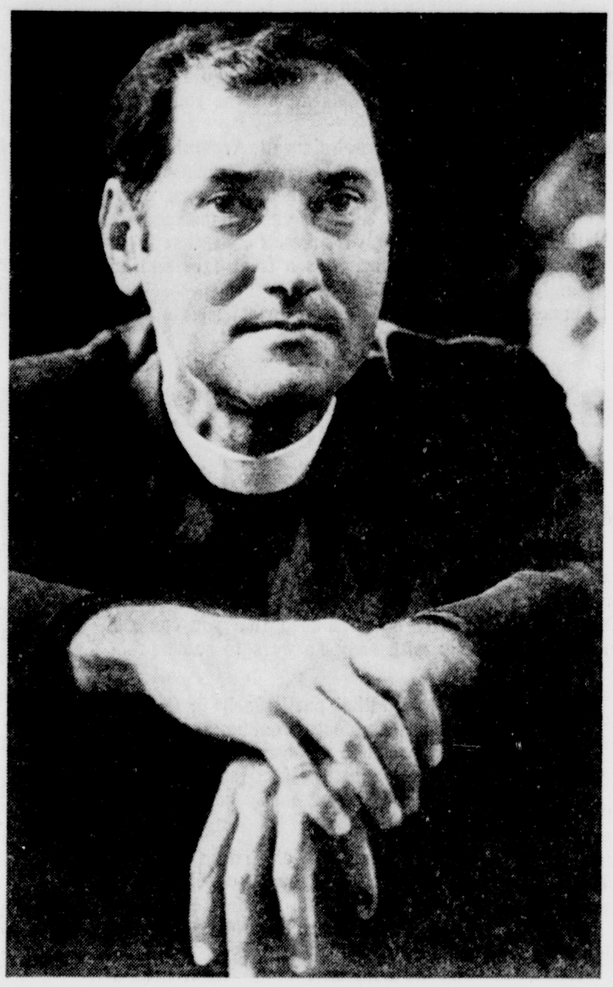

Marin changes with each and every death. And yet, until recently, it wasn't talked about, wasn't thought about, wasn't studied.

Terminal patients dreaded it . . . elderly citizens feared it . . . those in pain welcomed it . . . and others ignored it.

Then, gradually, it began to infiltrate literature. Abortion, euthanasia, organ transplants, new surgery techniques, immortality were more and more in the news.

Medical science was rushing towards perfection and many fooled themselves into believing death was being conquered.

REV. JOHN S. THORNTON
"We sooner or later have to contemplate our own death. I thought there must be some preparation."

Why concern oneself when soon it will be a thing of the past?

Then, President Kennedy was assassinated, ushering in an age of political assassination and young children began to ask about death. "Will I die, too", they asked themselves for the first time. And they asked their parents, forcing them into confronting their own deaths for the first time.

"Children can't accept death nowadays because they don't see it", says a doctor who has thought about it at length. "Fifty years ago, children were brought up in the same house with their parents and their grandparents. When their grandparents died, it was at home before their eyes, so they saw death as they grew up and they accepted it. Now, the trend is towards hospitals and convalescent homes, so they don't see people get old and die. They just aren't exposed to it anymore."

But whether it is the threat of nuclear warfare as some contend or, as others suggest, the nation's involvement in war that is sparking interest in death, people are increasingly curious about it.

Marin General Hospital has made it standard procedure to show all staff members the film, "Until I Die". The film, by psychiatrist Elisabeth Kubler Ross, pioneer in the study of death and dying, deals with the relationship of doctors and nurses to terminal patients.

(Indicative of growing public interest in the nature of death is the fact that College of Marin has included the hospital's film in its concert-lecture series and will show it at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 31 in Olney Hall on the Kentfield campus.)

A group of parents whose children are being treated for cancer at the hospital formed "The Candlelighters", an organization to foster emotional support in the face of imminent death.

Dr. William M. Lamers, chief of the psychiatric department at Ross General Hospital, is deluged with requests from the National Funeral Directors Association to lecture at universities, theological seminaries and hospitals across the country on death and grief.

The San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo has received what is believed to be its first master's thesis on death, entitled, "Plain Talk About Death."

The Marin Suicide Prevention Center, only a year old, is receiving a record number of distress calls each month as it attempts to contend with the county's shocking suicide rate — second highest in California among counties of its size.

Keith C. Craig, chief organizer of the center and investigator for the county coroner, is collecting data for a book by a student of suicide on suicides without apparent motive, called subintentional suicides.

The Marin Community Mental Health Center is sponsoring a "Childhood Mourning" program, counseling children who are having problems readjusting to the death of a parent. The program is currently branching out into counseling children whose parent has a terminal illness.

And Rev. John S. Thornton, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Belvedere, has initiated a profound program "to teach us how to contemplate our own death."

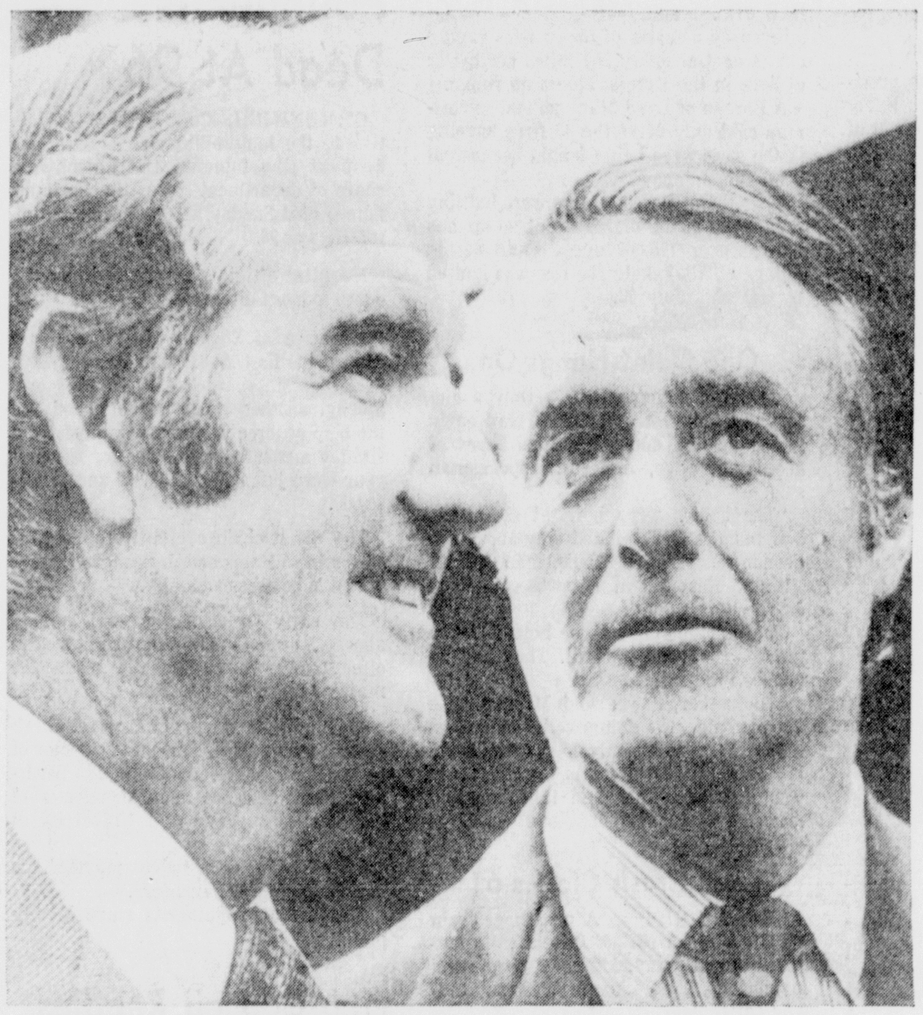

The young, articulate minister poignantly traces its development. "As part of my duties, I arrange for funerals . . . I go to the hospital and watch people die.

"I try to help families prepare for the event . . . It's a period of intense suffering for which I thought there must be some preparation."

He reflected on the meaning or lack of meaning of death and decided, "We sooner or later

Demos Gather To Approve Shriver

McGovern Choice Is A Shoo-In

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Democratic National Committee convened an extraordinary session today to set the stage for nominating Sargent Shriver as George S. McGovern's new vice presidential running mate.

The first order of business on the agenda was disposition of credential challenges raised from at least four states. A nine-member subcommittee heard the challenges, with rulings on them —subject to approval of the full committee Tuesday —set for later in the day.

The actual nomination of a vice presidential candidate to replace Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton comes Tuesday. National chairman Jean Westwood said she saw no hitches developing to the committee's approving McGovern's choice of Shriver for the No. 2 spot.

McGovern, during a visit to his campaign headquarters this morning, predicted Shriver would strengthen the ticket in Chicago —where Mayor Richard J. Daley has been less than enthusiastic about McGovern's candidacy —and "all across the country as well".

"I feel we have added a very powerful man to the ticket," McGovern said.

The South Dakota senator said that he did not know yet who would place Shriver's name in nomination.

UPI learned however that Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield would nominate Shriver.

McGovern announced his choice of Shriver Saturday night following a number of turndowns by others to whom he offered the post. After lengthy meetings with the brother-in-law of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy Saturday and Sunday, McGovern said "I don't think the campaign has been hurt a bit" by dropping Eagleton and picking someone else. "We're ready to go."

Mrs. Westwood, selected by McGovern as new national chairman the day after the Miami Beach convention ended, said in an interview just before today's special session opened that Shriver was one of her

Sargent Shriver Claims 'Incredibly' Good Health

ROCKVILLE, Md. (UPI)—R. Sargent Shriver, the new choice for Democratic vice presidential candidate, describes his health as "incredibly" good and says he knows of nothing in his background which would hurt his party's ticket.

Shriver met reporters on the back lawn of his estate in this Washington suburb Sunday less than 24 hours after he agreed to be Sen. Gorge S. McGovern's running mate, replacing Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri.

Eagleton was dropped from the ticket after it was revealed he three times underwent psychiatric treatment in the 1960s.

The choice of Shriver is expected to be ratified Tuesday when the Democratic National Committee completes a two-day extraordinary session in Washington.

Shriver, 56, the brother-in-law of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said McGovern asked him if there was anything in his life which in any way could reflect adversely on the ticket, the campaign or the party.

"My answer was that I couldn't think of anything, truthfully," Shriver said. He said he had not been sick for 30 years and was in "incredibly good health."

Shriver said that one reason he wanted to run was because he had been so fortunate in both his health and in what his life has brought him.

"I want to the best of my ability to put America back on the pinnacle which it used to occupy in the mind and hearts of people all over the world," Shriver said. "We've lost our direction, our sense of purpose. That's evident wherever you go."

On Sunday, Shriver met with McGovern, held a strategy session with McGovern aides, and invited a few friends over for a hamburger cookout in his backyard.

Shriver has never held elective office, but he was the firet director of the Peace Corps, served as head of the War on Poverty, and as ambassador to France. He also is a Roman Catholic, providing a religious balance to the Democratic ticket.

He was born at Westminster, Md., the son of a banker. He went to Yale and after a short time with a New York law firm, entered the Navy in World War II, emerging as a lieutenant commander.

Shriver was hired by Joseph P. Kennedy at the end of the war to edit for publication the letters of the oldest Kennedy son, Joseph Jr., who was killed on an air mission over the English Channel. Shriver was taken into the Kennedy organization in 1946 and made his business mark as manager of Chicago's Merchandise Mart.

He married Eunice Kennedy in 1953. They have five children.

Shriver came to Washington in 1961 as part of President John F. Kennedy's New Frontier, taking over the directorship of the newly formed Peace Corps. Shriver stayed on when Lyndon B. Johnson became President, and in 1964 Johnson put him in charge of the Office of Economic Opportunity. After a stint as envoy to France, Shriver resumed his law practice.

North Viet Troops, Tanks Threaten Road To Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Three thousand Communist troops backed by a huge force of 30 Russian-built tanks were reported moving Monday toward the market town of Kompong Trabek in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak—the gateway to South Vietnam's strategic Mekong Delta.

Air Force and Marine fighter bombers knocked out 14 Communist tanks in the area Sunday and Monday. It was the largest number of North Vietnamese tanks ever reported in the area.

Kompong Trabek sits aside Highway 1—the vital road between Saigon and the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh—and also controls a major Communist supply route running north and south through Cambodia.

In other action:

North Vietnamese troops captured two additional hamlets just south of Hue Monday, bringing to seven the total number of hamlets taken in the last two days. Four of them were later abandoned.

West of Hue, government soldiers and North Vietnamese troops battled in a number of scatttered clashes around artillery base Checkmate. Many sources said they felt Hue was the next major target for the Communists.

Three 122mm artillery rounds were fired at Hue but no casualties were reported.

Air Force fighter-bombers used laser-guided "smart" bombs to destroy three spans of a railway bridge northeast of Hanoi and only 35 miles from the Chinese border.

Steep Ravine Cabin Lease Ban Signed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Thirteen so-called "five-star bluebloods" from the Bay Area will lose their exclusive leases on cabins in Mount Tamalpais State Park under a bill signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill, SB 682 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, aroused an intense behind-the-scene campaign by the lease holders and their politically powerful friends to kill the measure in the Legislature.

Behr introduced the bill after disclosure that the leases were held for $41.66 a month. The 13 lease holders have enjoyed the use of the cabins since the park was created 11 years ago.

State park officials said it was the only such arrangement in the state. A spokesman for the state Parks and Recreation Department estimated the cabins would be worth $50,000 if they were on private land.

The public will continue to be barred from the cabins, which are in Steep Ravine along Shoreline Highway, until the leases expire at the end of 1973.

Gory Quang Tri Poses Peril To City Of Hue

HUE, Vietnam (UPI)—The push to recapture Quang Tri city has ground to a halt and opened a rift between the South Vietnamese and their American advisers.

North and South Vietnamese forces have settled into an almost perfectly matched battle that in the first five weeks cost the 20,000 government troops 4,000 men dead and seriously wounded.

South Vietnamese commanders up to and including President Thieu have studiously ignored the recommendations of U.S. advisers throughout. As a result, some American support has been removed.

U.S. officers now admit privately that the operation to retake Quang Tri is not going well and that the former imperial capital of Hue is in great danger of falling to the Communists.

The officers say that the government is inviting the destruction of its elite volunteer forces and what could be at best a severe psychological setback

Terra Linda Youth Sets A Swim Record

I-J Special Report

CHICAGO — Terra Linda's Rick DeMont, 16, yesterday shattered the world's 1,500 meter freestyle swimming record here with a 15:52.91 clocking.

The Terra Linda High School student topped the former mark of 15:57.1 held by John Kinsella of Oak Brook, Ill., set Aug. 23, 1970. See details in sports.

Senate Opens Debate On Handgun Checks

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate debated today a bill to outlaw production of cheap handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials". An effort was made to broaden the bill to ban possession of handguns by any civilian, but it was given little chance of approval.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., an advocate of strong gun control laws, proposed an amendment to outlaw possession on grounds that "privately owned handguns of any kind simply have no place in today's society."

The Seate had rejected similar legislation numerous times in the past because of opposition from gun owners.

Strong opposition came not only to Hart's proposal but a plan by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to call for licensing of all gun owners and registration of all guns.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, where gun-control legislation is unpopular, warned that any effort to broaden the bill could recoil into the enactment of no legislation whatsoever.

The measure before the Senate, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., closes what Bayh called "a gaping loophole" in the 1968 Gun Control Act.

That law banned the importation of cheap handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials" but permitted their domestic production. Since its enactment, domestic production has swelled to 1 million guns a year, Bayh said.

"Because of their ready concealibility and availability, they are used in the majority of handgun murders perpetrated each year," Bayh said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Bremer In Isolation

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Arthur H. Bremer, who is beginning a 63 year prison term for attempting to kill Gov. George C. Wallace, was isolated in a maximum security cell for protection against other inmates and himself, Marsland Penitentiary officials report.

Bremer, convicted Friday of the assassination attempt, was placed in a 12-foot by 12-foot cell on the third floor of the penitentiary's prison hospital until he undergoes psychiatric examination.

Lt. Arthur Newsome of the guard force said yesterday the isolation was ordered because "other inmates might try to hurt the man." He added that officials were also concerned about a suicide attempt because Bremer had mentioned the possibility several times in his diary read at the trial in Upper Marlboro, Md.

Bremer will be allowed no visitors for a week except for his court-appointed attorney Benjamin Lipsitz and the prison chaplain.

No Wallace Support

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The presidential candidate of the American Party does not expect to get the endorsement of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who ran on the party ticket four years ago.

"I don't anticipate him endorsing anyone, but he has told me I'm one of his favorite people," says John G. Schmitz, a lameduck congressman from California who won the presidential nomination at the party convention here.

Schmitz, who said the Republicans "purged" him when he lost renomination to Congress in June, heads a ticket that also includes Thomas J. Anderson, of Pigeon Forge, Tenn.

Schmitz, 41, and Anderson, 61, both belong to the John Birch Society, but Schmitz said the ticket is still "balanced."

"He's a Protestant from the South, while I'm a Catholic from the West Coast," Schmitz said.

End To Floods Seen

MANILA (UPI) — Disaster control officials said today the month-long floods in Luzon are expected to recede completely within a week to end the worst calamity in the Philippines since World War II. A bright sun shone over the flooded regions.

Col. Federico Pasion of the National Disaster Control Center (NDCC) warned, however, that despite improving weather conditions, threats of violence remain among desperate, hungry refugees. The big job of rehabilitation still lies ahead, he said.

With the generally sunny weather that began yesterday along the 300-mile long disaster zone, floodwaters will recede at an average of 12 inches a day to enable refugees to return to their homes and farms in three or four days, according to Pasion.

The official death toll from the floods which covered 11 provinces including vast sections of the Manila area stood today at 430 and was expected to rise with the discovery of more victims.

Hiroshima Services

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — About 200 persons, including some of the survivors, attended a memorial service yesterday for the 70,000 persons who died in the world's first atomic holocaust at Hiroshima 27 years ago.

The survivors are members of the Committee of Atomic Bomb Survivors in the United States which arranged the service.

The keynote speaker was Dr. Hiroshi Maki, director of the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission Medical Laboratory in Hiroshima. Dr. Make said he would hold a "comfort" clinic today to examine problems of survivors who live in the Los Angeles area.

215,000 Acres Ruined

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI) — More than 215,000 acres of timber were destroyed by a series of forest fires raging out of control today 200 miles northwest of here in the Brooks Mountain range.

A Bureau of Land Management spokesman said only 24 of the 43 fires burning in the state were being fought because of a lack of manpower.

More than 500 firefighters were battling the largest of the blazes which so far has burned over 195,000 acres south of the village of Allakaket. The fire was ignited by lightning July 13.

One Quint Hangs On

LIEGE, Belgium (UPI) — Only a girl survived today of quintuplets born early yesterday and doctors had no hopes of keeping it alive, a hospital spokesman said.

"The babies were born at six and a half months and weighed only about two pounds each," the spokesman at St. Vincent Hospital in suburban Rocourt said.

The quintuplets — three boys and two girls — "were too small. They had no chance," he said.

The mother, 27-year-old Marie Louise Jacquemain, was doing well, the spokesman said. She already has a 6-year-old boy. The spokesman was unable to say whether the mother had taken fertility drugs.

Train Crash Claims 61

KARACHI (UPI) — A passenger train rammed into a stalled freight train outside Karachi today, killing 61 people and injuring 63, the Pakistan Western Railway Office said.

Pakistan Radio said the accident occurred in Liaqatpur, midway between Rawalpindi and Karachi. The radio said the passenger train was en route to Karachi when it slammed into the freight train.

The official railway office casualty toll conflicted with early Pakistan Radio reports that said 57 people died and 100 were injured.

Punjab provincial officials were investigating the cause of the crash.

W. T. GRANT
Millionaire dropout

Chain Store Founder Is Dead At 96

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI)— W.T. Grant, the multimillionaire high school dropout who founded the nationwide chain of department stores that bear his name, died Sunday at Greenwich Hospital. He was 96.

Hospital officials attributed Grant's death to heart disease.

A native of Stevensville, Pa., Grant opened the first W.T. Grant store in 1906 in Lynn, Mass., with $1,000 of his own money, another $1,000 he borrowed and the help of three partners who invested a similar amount. Gross sales for the first year were just under $100,000 and profits $5,000.

The Grant chain currently totals 1,100 stores in 45 states and does more than $1 billion in business annually.

Although he never completed high school, Grant held an honorary doctor of laws degree from Bates College in Lewiston, Maine, and an honorary doctor of humane letters from the University of Miami.

Grant, who was twice married, is survived by three daughters.

Hub Council Readies Hearing On Budget

The San Anselmo City Council will consider adopting its proposed $1.5 million budget for 1972-73 at its meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The council will also set a new tax rate which is expected to be an increase of 23 cents over the current rate of $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation.

The council will also consider adopting an ordinance setting also redemption fees for impounded animals.

Shriver Given Support By California Delegation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —R. Sargent Shriver's vice presidential candidacy has the enthusiastic support of California Democratic leaders, particularly the national committee members who will officially nominate him Tuesday. (See other stories, page 1.)

"There will be no problems in Washington when we put the official stamp of approval on this one," said committeewoman Mary Ledesma of Huntington Park.

By contrast, some were talking publicly of open revolt had Sen. Edmund S. Muskie accepted George McGovern's offer to be his running mate.

National committeewoman Mrs. Wallace Albertson of Los Angeles reported Shriver ran a close second to former attorney general Ramsey Clark in an incompleted poll of California's 271 convention delegates to determine their vice presidential preference.

Florida Gov. Reubin Askew was third and Muskie a poor fourth.

Twelve of the 278 Democratic National Committee members are Californians. A UPI survey showed they overwhelmingly support Shriver as a man with a "Kennedy mystique" who will appeal to young voters, organized labor and campaign contributors.

"It's a great choice for California and assures us now of a real viable ticket," said state Democratic chairman Charles T. Nanatt of Van Nuys.

Mrs. Albertson called it "the best of all possible compromises. He will appeal to young people. He has a Kennedy mystique. And he has an avenue to money."

Earlier, Mrs. Albertson had said she "could not in good conscience vote for the nomination of a man like Muskie for vice president."

Assemblyman John L. Burton of San Francisco, co-chairman of California's convention delegation, said Shriver was "a damn good choice" because he has "good credentials among the young and the idealists."

Another co-chairman, Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr. of San Francisco said "the hallmark of the McGovern campaign has been doing the unexpected. And certainly Shriver's selection is in that category. He's a fresh face and an excellent choice."

From the Republican side, state GOP chairman Putnam Livermore of San Francisco said, "it looks like Shriver was way down on McGovern's list. This is not a very auspicious beginning for a running mate.

Other reaction from Democratic National Committee members:

Dormon Commons of Los Angeles, a wealthy business executive and Democratic contributor—"He was my choice before the convention. So I'm doubly pleased."

Jo Seidita of Northridge— "He's just what ze need at this lime, a breath of fresh air. He will help us raise money. Organized labor will be happy. He can bring people together."

Madelleine Haas Russell of San Francisco—"This is absolutely the best choice he could have made," adding that she wired McGovern last week urging Shriver's selection.

Wyanne Bunyan of Mill Valley—"I'm relieved. He has the widest range of appeal we could have picked. Kennedy backing always helps."

California Republicans Warned Not To Underrate McGovern

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — George McGovern is an isolationist and a radical but Republicans should not underrate his appeal to voters, warns the California GOP chairman and a high Nixon administration official.

Delegates to a Republican state convention were cautioned against overconfidence Saturday as they gathered to write an official platform for the party in California.

They adopted a broad-based platform which skirted such politically sensitive issues as abortions, capital punishment, school busing and marijuana. It was a generalized policy statement designed to appeal to all party factions and be useable by any Republican candidate in the November election.

The 140 delegates — primarily nominees for Congress and the legislature — also adopted a resolution critical of the 1972 legislature for failing to pass a property tax relief and school finance measure and asking Gov. Ronald Reagan to call a special session on these issues.

Reagan already has said he will not call the Democratic-controlled legislature back from its three-month vacation which began Saturday.

Although the platform was the main agenda item, the Nov. 7 election was the chief topic of conversation. California, with its biggest-in-the-nation bloc of 45 electoral votes, is regarded as crucial by both native son President Nixon and McGovern.

"It is very easy to underrate the President's opponent," warned Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council.

"But we have to face up to the fact that there is an appeal. And I'm afraid a great many people may very well temporarily be persuaded that you can get away with easy answers to some problems."

He added that particularly in California, where Democrats outnumber Republicans 3 ro 2 in voter registration. "We should recognize the fact that the President needs a great many democrats to win reelection."

Republican state chairman Putnam Livermore of San Francisco characterized the Democratic candidate as "an admitted theorist, an isolationist and in a real sense a radical."

But he said that while Nixon held a relatively large lead of up to 15 per cent in other states, he was ahead in the polls by only 7 or 8 percentage points in California.

The platform:

—Called for "a school finance system which guarantees each child an equal, basic educational opportunity."

—Supported "the concept that the people of California should decide whether or not they need the death penalty for the protection of society." It did not take a specific position on the November ballot measure which seeks to restore the death pnealty.

—Pledged to "resist any public employe collective actions which strike against the public interest."

—Promised both to "strive for a balance between the economy and the environment" and "to provide strong legislation to enhance and protect the coast line and create additional coastal recreational areas."

—Denounced "all forms of demeaning social or economic discrimination, whether on racial, cultural or other grounds."

—Pledged both "protection for growers against unfair and illegal labor practices and an arbitration process for settling disputes" and to support field hands' "efforts to secure fair and equitable wages, decent working conditions and equal employment opportunities."

Judging Trio Picked For Art Show At Marin County Fair

Three judges have been selected for the art competition at the upcoming Marin County Fair.

They are Ralph Ducasse of the Mills College art faculty; William Elsner of the Palace of the Legion of Honor, San Francisco, and Hayward King, curator of Bolles Gallery in San Francisco.

Entries must be received by Aug. 14, according to fair manager Marcelle McCoy. Categories include paintings, sculpture and graphics. Best-in-show entry will receive $150 and five merit awards of $100 each will be awarded.

The Terra Linda Art Association will supervise the art competition. Entries will be on display in the Civic Center auditorium from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., daily from Aug. 31 through Sept. 4, dates of the fair.

Authorities Believe Giant International LSD Ring Broken

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI)— Authorities believe they have "broken the back" of one of the prime international producers of LSD with the arrest of more than 40 members of a secret drug cult founded by Dr. Timothy Leary.

The 51-year-old former Harvard instructor, who fled to Switzerland after escaping from a California prison in 1970, was among 29 persons named in grand jury indictments returned last week by the Orange County grand jury. His bail was set at $5 million. The jury also named 90 other persons as being conspirators.

Raids Uaturday by county, state and federal narcotics officers resulted in more than 40 arrests in California, Oregon and Hawaii.

Orange County District Attorney Cecil Hicks said that illicit drugs with a street value of $7.9 million had been seized, including 1.5 million LSD tablets and 2.5 tons of hashish.

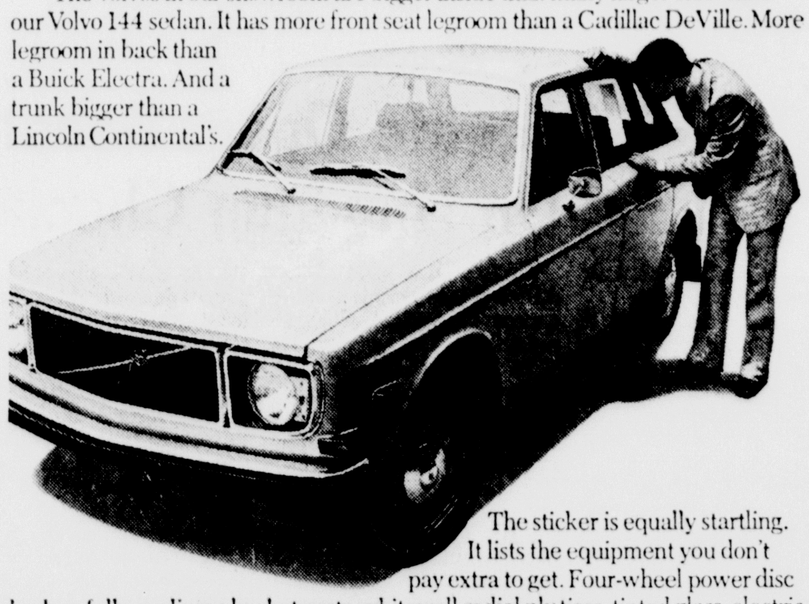

All those arrested are members of the Brotherhood of Eternal Love, an offshoot of the League of Spiritual Discovery (LSD), which was formed by Leary a few years ago while he was telling young people to "Tune in, turn on and drop out."

Leary escaped from the California Men's Colony near San Luis Obispo, Calif., in September, 1970, while he was serving a 10-year sentence for marijuana smuggling and fled to Switzerland.

Swiss authorities Friday ordered Leary to leave the country by Oct. 31 because of his views on drugs.

Hicks said the Brotherhood operated the smuggling network by using forged passports which allowed members to travel around the world making illegal drug purchases.

WORKING FOR 'WALKING JOE'

Campaign workers create new posters for their candidate, "Walking Joe Teasdale," who is running for the Democratic nomination for governor of Missouri. The poster party yesterday in a St. Louis suburb was required, workers said, because many of Teasdale's old posters had deteriorated or were torn down. Teasdale is prosecuting attorney of Jackson County, and lives in Kansas City. (UPI Telephoto)

29 Hurt In Black-White Prison Clash

Warden Harold Black said between 150 and 200 white prisoners "squared off" against an equal number of blacks in the prison yard for 15 minutes before guards could get them back into their dormitories.

Twenty-four prisoners were reported injured immediately after the outbreak, but five more reported later to the infirmary. Three were hit by No. 9 birdshot when guards fired shotguns to force the men back into their dormitories.

Black said that the minimum security prison was quiet today, but housing units remained locked.

The disturbance was the second in two months at Kentucky's minimum security penal institution this summer.

SAN QUENTIN SIX

Grand Jury A Rubber Stamp?

By PAT ANGLE

A member of the Marin County Grand Jury which last October indicted six San Quentin inmates for murder and other crimes during the Aug. 21, 1971 attempted breakout at the prison said Saturday the jury brought the charges against the men "without one moment's deliberation."

Gerald A. Hawes of San Rafael, who quit the jury last October in protest of its action in the case, also charged Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales of hampering efforts by several jurors to obtain more evidence before indicting.

The inmates — Louis N. Talamantes, Hugo A. Pinell, John Larry Spain, Fleeta Drumgo, David Johnson and Willie Tate — were indicted along with attorney Stephen M. Bingham on five counts of murder in connection with the deaths of three San Quentin guards and two other convicts Aug. 21. Bingham disappeared right after the bloody break.

The seven men were also charged with conspiracy to commit escape, possession of a firearm by an inmate and kidnapping.

Hawes said that during the jury hearing on the case, Bales asked jurors not to question his witnesses who testified against Bingham and the six. And when a few jurors, including Hawes, insisted on asking questions of those testifying, Bales "charged that we were delaying the case," he said.

Hawes and William Kunstler, defense attorney for the Chicago Eight conspiracy trial, spoke at the Unitarian Fellowship in San Rafael in a fund raising effort for the San Quentin inmates. Approximately 40 persons attended the gathering.

Hawes also recalled that he had asked that three witnesses be recalled during the jury proceedings because some of the testimony given later had conflicted with their statements, but said the district attorney had refused to recall them.

Hawes said he left the jury convinced that insufficient evidence was presented to indictthe six inmates.

"We couldn't even get the registration of the gun involved (allegedly smuggled to Soledad Brother George Jackson by Bingham)," the juror complained. "Bales kept telling us that there was a great deal of evidence that would be brought out at the trial, but he wouldn't give it to us."

Hawed said the jury only deliberated on the murder and conspiracy counts involving Bingham and on the charge that there had been a conspiracy by the attorney and inmates to commit escape.

"Once the jury decided to indict Bingham, they also indicted the six, as an afterthought, without deliberation," he added.

The former juror said he believes the district attorney may also have instructed the jury improperly. "He assured us that all we needed to indict was 'reasonable suspicion,' he said. "I think what is actually needed to bring charges is 'probable cause.' "

Both Hawes and Kunstler agreed the grand jury system as it presently exists should be abolished. "Grand juries were designed to act as brakes on the excesses of prosecutors, but they certainly don't do that now," Hawes said. "They are only rubber stamps for the prosecutor's wishes."

"If we had no grand jury, it would put the onus on the prosecutor to make a political decision on whether to indict," Kunstler said. "All the jury does now is give the prosecutor an out if the indictment turns out to be a mistake; he can blame the grand jury."

Kunstler said he didn't defendthe San Quentin inmates because of a heavy schedule of cases. But the New York attorney thinks the case has "drama and media appeal because it grows out of the murder of George Jackson" (Jackson was killed during the violence that day) and should be used "to do something for all the anonymous people who have no support and go down in the dust every day."

He said the trial will also provide "an opportunity to prove how Jackson's murder took place."

Brezhnev Contacts Cairo Boss, Strain Eased Says Newspaper

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today President Anwar Sadat has received an "important message" from Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev about "latest developments in Soviet-Arab relations."

The message gives high respect to Soviet-Arab relations and will facilitate political contacts at a summit level between the two nations, Al Ahram said.

Political sources said the message is the first from Soviet leaders since Sadat decided to oust Soviet military advisers from Egypt July 18.

Al Ahram said a delegation rrepresenting representing leadership of the Soviet Communist party will visit Cairo before the end of the month for political talks with Egypt's Arab Socialist Union, the nation's only political party.

Egypt marked the second anniversary of the Middle East cease-fire today with an announcement that Soviet military advisers had completed their withdrawal.

The announcement was made by Sayed Marei, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Arab Socialist Union. He told a political rally that the Russian withdrawal has ended and "only a limited number of instructors are remaining behind for a short and limited period."

The Middle East cease-fire took effect Aug. 7, 1970, following Egypt's acceptance of proposals made by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, for a peaceful settlement.

It was originally scheduled for a three-month period, but was extended twice, until Sadat terminated it formally in March last year.

The guns, however, remained silent along the Suez Canal. There were a few outbreaks of hostilities — the last of which was last July 24, when Egypt said it shot down an Israeli Phantom jet—but generally the two sides abided by the truce.

Arab diplomatic sources said about 2,000 Russian instructors remained behind, and even this number was expected to dwindle gradually. Recently, there have been calls in the Arab press to to end the ceasefire.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of Al Ahram newspaper, recently described the continued state of no-war, no-peace in the region as a "historical crime" and said Egypt was the sole loser from its continuation.

The Russian advisers were ordered out by Sadat last month because the Soviet Union refused to give him all the weapons he asked for.

Diplomatic sources in Beirut were divided whether the ouster would drive Egypt in the direction of war or peace. While noting that the withdrawal left Egypt more vulnerable to Israeli attacks, they said it also freed Sadat's hand if he chose to resume hostilities.

Electric Chair May Go To Ohio Museum

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— The Ohio Historical Society is interested in obtaining the state's electric chair for display in an exhibit "on torture and punishment."

Although state officials have not yet decided whether to discard the chair that has been used to kill 315 persons since 1897 at the Ohio Penitentiary, historical society director Daniel R. Porter said his organization would accept the device.

Marin Reflects The U.S. Trend

have to contemplate our own death."

He read Kubler Ross and agreed that we are a death-denying society. He recalled the feelings of rage the bereaved express against God and he began to recognize the poor relationship between a dying person and others —family, doctors, clergy — because they feel uncomfortable and their feelings are transmitted. So he decided to do something about all this.

He selected parishioners he thought might be interested in the subject of death — surgeons, internists, nurses, psychiatrists, psychologists, lawyers —and invited them to seminars on death and dying.

The seminars are generally unstructured, but deal with the psychological, spiritual, religious and medical process of dying.

So far, the approximately 50 members are still talking about their own deathu which Thornton feels is fundamental before going on to the death of others.

He plans to invite guest lecturers and show films at future meetings.

"We meet at 6:45 in the morning, so you know that those who attend are serious", he quipped.

His program is new, but interest in death by clergy is not.

Rev. Karel F. Botermans pastor of the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians, gave a sermon entitled "Death Control" in November 1970.

It was a moving argument for a person's right to die with dignity in the case of incurable illness. But it was also a commentary on our society.

"We live in a society which really has very great difficulty in dealing with the reality of death," he observed. This is reflected in heroic medical measures when hopes for recovery are gone and "it is reflected in the many euphemisms we use when we are talking about death."

He ended his sermon with his belief that one must come to terms with death before one can come to terms with life. And he extended a plea to his parishoners to fill out a form from the Euthanasia Educational Fund. The form is a statement that, in the case of incurable illness, the person wishes to be allowed to die.

The last time he mailed out those forms he pointed out, only 17 out of 650 responded.

(Tomorrow: Physicians look at death.)

Last Novato Mail Will Go Earlier

The last daily mail dispatch from Novato now leaves 45 minutes earlier than the previous 7:40 p.m., according to Postmaster J. W. (Bill) Almeida.

Because of a change in the schedule of the truck which takes mail from Santa Rosa to Oakland, Almeida said the final dispatch has been moved up to 6:55 p.m.

The change was made Friday on orders from Oakland, he said.

From now on, letters mailed from Novato later than 6:55 p.m. will not go out until the first pickup at 8:15 the next morning.

Almeida said the new schedule will create hardships for some businessmen accustomed to the later dispatch time.

Woman Denies Kiling Husband In Mill Valley

Pleas of innocent and innocent because of insanity were entered today in Marin Superior Court by Harriett Josephine Putney, 55-year-old Mill Valley housewife accused of murdering her husband.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson appointed two psychiatrists to interview Mrs. Putney and set Aug. 28 for receiving their reports on her mental condition.

Mrs. Putney is accused of shooting her husband, Stanley, on June 27 during a running argument at their home about whether they should move to the mountains or the seashore.

The husband, a retired Navy chief petty officer, died on the way to a hospital. The wife, who shot herself in the abdomen, was hospitalized two weeks.

Waterways On Planner Agenda

The Larkspur Planning Commission will consider an ordinance requiring access to public waterways at its meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m.

The ordinance, patterned after state law, would require subdividers to provide public access to Corte Madera Creek and other bodies of water.

The commission also will consider an ordinance regulating docks, piers and floats on the creek, along with an ordinance allowing subdividers to dedicate land for bicycle paths.

Art Center Program Set

An evening of music, dance and film will be presented at 6 p.m. Saturday at Sausalito Art Center.

The meatgrinder operation to retake Quang Tri city and the inner fortress Citadel destroyed three of the nine airborne battalions in South Vietnam. They are now retraining and being given replacements whose fighting ability is far below that of the veterans killed or maimed.

When the paraoroopers were removed from the books of effective fighting forces, the marines took over. Within a week, a marine battalion was all but wiped out, sent to the rear for retraining and replaced by another.

The marine division, however, is led by only a one-star general.

What was believed to be a small Communist force in the provincial capital was expected to evaporate in the face of a large drive by 2,500 vaunted paratroopers.

"We thought that the enemy either could not or would not reinforce," said one allied officer. "But he did."

The paratroopers left an escape route for the North Vietnamese inside. But instead of leaving, the Communists moved in more men and supplies, including heavy antiaircraft guns.

At that point, about mid-July, U.S. advisers recommended a change of tactics. Instead of a drive on Quang Tri, they argued for end runs around the city that would eventually starve the Communists out.

President Thieu demurred and reordered his generals to retake Quang Tri.

Council May Ask Freeway Change

The San Rafael City Council will consider askng the state to redesign and alter the Terra Linda interchange when the council meets at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The planning commission has recommended the action to improve northbound traffic flow on Highway 101, according to William J. Bielser, assistant city manager.

The council will consider a burglar alarm ordinance aimed at police department regulation of the devices to cut down on false alarms and hear a report on salary negotiations with the city's police and fire personnel, Bielser said.

Peninsula Firm Has Low Bid

A low bid of $198,021 by Freeman-Sondgroth Construction Co. of Mountain View has been received by the California Division of Highways for a road improvement project in Marin County.

The project consists of leveling, repairing and resurfacing the westbound lanes of Route 37 beginning west of Route 101 at the Ignacio Wye in Novato and continuing 2.5 miles northeast to Atherton Avenue.

A contract is to be awarded soon.

Saying "I don't really expect" any major opposition to Shriver's selection Tuesday in the committee meeting at the Sheraton Park Hotel, the Utah businesswoman said the one-time Peace Corps director and ambassador to Paris was "one of the names I suggested clear back in Miami."

Asked if the McGovern campaign would be further damaged by the fact the South Dakota senator got several rejections before Shriver accepted the offer of being his running mate, Mrs. Westwood replied, "No. This comes right back to the fact that this is the most open campaign ever conducted. We just came out in the open instead of behind closed doors."

Mrs. Westwood said she believed that it was "personal and other considerations" that caused Kennedy and a handful of others to turn down the No. 2 spot, rather than pessimism about the chances of the Democratic chances against Nixon.

Newsweek Magazine said one of those who urged McGovern to take Shriver was former President Lyndon B. Johnson. Johnson was said to have considered Shriver as a vice presidential partner before choosing Hubert H. Humphrey in 1964.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert Dole, Republican national chairman, said Monday elementary fairness diclates that the GOP be given free network broadcast time to answer Sen. George McGovern's Saturday night speech in which he announced his selection of Sargent Shriver to be his new running mate.

In a Senate speech, Dole denounced McGovern for devoting "only one minute of his 16-minute speech to Shriver (and) taking the balance of the time for a blistering attack on President Nixon and his record."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. said in response to Dole.

"I'm really surprised. He's got to be kidding. For four years now the President has gone on TV in defense of his positions and the Democrats have always been denied time to respond."

Reed Will Head 5-State Drive

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Thomas C. Reed of Ross, Republican National committeeman for California, has been named regional director of the President's reelection campaign in Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Hawaii and Texas.

Clark MacGregor, national director of the campaign, said Reed, 38, will link the national headquarters and the campaign organizations in the five states.

Reed worked in 1964 on the presidential campaign staff of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and in 1966 was Northern California chairman of the Reagan for Governor Committee. He served as Reagan's first appointments secretary.

Tax Plan Before Petaluma Board

Plans for a tax rate increase election will be considered at the Petaluma Board of Education meeting at 8 p.m. today at the school administration building.

At a special meeting last week, the board received conflicting advice on the prospects of success for an election. In the past year two attempts to increase the tax rate have failed.

The board will also consider adoption of 1972-73 budgets for both the elementary and high school districts. Prior to the meeting, the board will tour the recently completed addition to Rancho Cotate High School.

Culvert Project Contractor Set

The San Rafael Meadows Flood Control Zone 6 board has awarded a $7,000 contract to Flipovich Construction Co. to replace an underground culvert.

The culvert is located near 222 El Prado Avenue in San Rafael, according to John A. Allen, board member.

He said that the board has invited interested citizens to view the culvert work.

Inflation Watchdogs May Trim Pay Guide

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board and the Price Commission plan a joint meeting next Monday amid indications that lowering of the 5.5 per cent wage increase standard will be discussed.

Changing the 5.5-per cent standard has been openly discussed several times by Nixon administration officials, but the Pay Board has never set down an intensive discussion on the wage limit.

Two Fatal Crashes On Highway 101

Two men died in accidents yesterday on Highway 101, the first at about 2:30 a.m. near Hamilton Air Force Base, the second at about 5:20 p.m. just north of Novato.

They were the 20th and 21st traffic fatalities thus far this year in Marin County.

Killed were Arthur Harrison Mooneyhan, 39, of 1800 Gilrix Street, Petaluma, and Warren C. Hathaway, 72, of Port Jervis, N.Y.

They were the 20th and 21st traffic fatalities in Marin thus far this year compared to 23 by this date last year.

According to the CaliforniaHighway Patrol, it appeared that Mooneyhan, an inspector for Brinks Armored Cars, may have fallen asleep at the wheel while northbound on the freeway. His car, in which he was traveling alone, left the roadbed near the crest of St. Vincent's Hill and crashed into a guard rail. He was ejected from his car and hurtled about 90 feet through the air, according to the patrol.

Hathaway, a retired machinist, was a passenger in a car driven by Maude Eleanor Fredman, 71, of Healdsburg.

According to the patrol, Mrs. Fredman reported she became nauseated and lost control of her car, crossed the dividing strip and crashed into another car, the patrol reported.

The second car was driven by Chris J. Shaini, 32, of San Francisco.

Two more cars were involved when Arthur H. Robinson, 39, of Richmond slammed his brakes to avoid the collision and was hit from the rear by a car driven by George Kelly Ray Sr., 55, also of Richmond.

Novato General Hospital reported Mrs. Fredman in satisfactory condition today. She suffered multiple cuts and scrapes. No report was available on any other persons injured.

Bond Campaign To Be Mounted

A meeting aimed at organizing a campaign to pass San Rafael's $2.25 million bond issue for open space has been called for 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the teacher's lunchroom of San Rafael High School.

Precinct chairmen will be appointed at the meeting, according to Jerry Russom, a campaign coordinator.

Russom said campaign organizers were particularly interested in getting young people involved in the open space drive.

The bond election, scheduled for Sept. 19, would cost city taxpayers an additional 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Park-Lighting Try Abandoned

The Gallinas Village Community Services District board has decided to abandon attempts to provide lighting for the interior of Adrian Rosal Park in the wake of vandalism.

Instead, the board will ask Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to light the periphery of the park, according to Marguerite F. Clark, board secretary.

She said that PG&E has refused to maintain interior park lights in the face of a losing battle with vandals who shake the lights off utility poles.

Convict Missing On Work Outing

Lawmen in the Bay Area today were on the lookout for a San Quentin inmate who failed to return to the prison Friday evening from his work furlough assignment in Oakland.

George Porter, 42, of Solano County, entered the prison in February 1966 and was serving a sentence for second degree robbery, according to San Quentin officials.

He was due to be paroled December 11.

New Ordinance To Be Read Tonight

Mill Valley City Council will give a second reading to its new ordinance regulating marshland filling at its meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at city hall. A second ordinance up for adoption is on animal control, and a first public hearing is set for an ordinance on the sale of beverages in returnable bottles.

Councilmen will discuss a proposed agreement between the city and the employees' union, the ALCIO-affiliated ASME.

riers reported leaving the Loi Dong storage area four miles northwest of Haiphong burning in a Sunday strike.

Other Navy planes also hit the Van Dong storage area 24 miles northeast of the city and made a direcct hit on the Mong Duong highway bridge 40 miles to the northeast.

Communist gunners bombarded South Vietnamese marines with 1,300 rounds of artillery and mortar fire on the northern edge of Quang Tri city Sunday, killing three government troops. Marines also turned back several Communist ground attacks but neither side reported making much progress.

American military strength in South Vietnam was reduced to 44,600 men with the withdrawal of 1,400 troops last week, the largest one-week pullout in five weeks, the U.S. command said Monday.

The latest withdrawals left 5,600 troops still to be pulled out in order to meet President Nixon's goal of reducing American strength here to 39,000 by Sept. 1.

The 1,400-man troop withdrawal last week was the largest decrease since 6,000 men were pulled out during the week just before Nixon's July 1 deadline of 48,000. All of Nixon's troop goals have been exceeded since the withdrawals began in August, 1969.

Park Stands Theft Plot Trial Stated

A jury trial has been set for the week of Sept. 5 in Marin Superior Court for a Cotati man arrested in what police said appeared to be the first step in a plan to burglarize concession stands in a national park.

He was arrested July 27 after police received a call about two men working on a car at 4:15 a.m. in San Rafael.

The car had been stolen earlier from a man who lives in the Dominican area of San Rafael, police said.

In the auto were maps of Sequoia National Park, detailed floor plans of concession booths and two knives, police said.

Fewer Working With Secrets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The number of federal employes authorized to stamp government information as top secret, secret or confidential has dropped from 43,586 to 16,238 in the past two months, President Nixon was told Thursday.

New rules regarding government secrecy were imposed last March following the Pentagon Papers case. The regulations took effect June 1.

John S. Eisenhower, chairman of the Interagency Classification Review Committee, said in a report to Nixon the number of officials authorized to use the highest classification —top secret—had been reduced by 53 per cent from 2,275 to 1,076.

Chorale Audition Times Slated

Auditions for Winifred Baker Chorale will be held Aug. 16 and 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Angelico Hall, Dominican College, San Rafael. Director Winifred Baker announced openings in all voices, particularly for tenor and bass.

Concert plans for the coming year include the Bach mass in B minor in mid-November, Haydn's "Creation" in late January, and a concert of contemporary music late in spring.

The chorale's latest appearance was in the Arthur Fiedler-San Francisco Symphony pops concerts in San Francisco in July.

Tablet Possession Charge Dismissed

A charge of illegally possessing 500 tablets of benzedrine against Russell Morris Vibbard, 20, of San Anselmo, was dismissed today in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson granted a defense motion to drop the charge after he learned that another judge had earlier granted a motion to suppress evidence in the case. It had been ruled that a search of Vibbard on March 16 after he had been arrested by San Anselmo police because of a traffic warrant was illegal.

OBITUARIES

Alfred E. Fowler Jr. Rite Set

Funeral for Alfred E. Fowler Jr., a veteran of World War II who lost both legs in a land mine explosion but triumphed over that adversity, will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Fowler, who was 53, died Aug. 5 at San Francisco Veterans Hospital in San Francisco after a long illness.

He was wounded in Germany while serving with the 90th Division, 358th Infantry. After the war he learned to walk again with the aid of two artifical legs and a cane.

Fowler, until his retirement in July, 1971, was an assistant Veterans Service Officer in Marin County. He held the job for 21 years and was known as a tireless worker who brought encouragement and cheer to other wounded veterans while he himself was in pain.

He was born in San Francisco but had lived in Woodacre until his retirement when he moved to Santa Rosa.

At the time of his retirement the Independent-Journal editorialized: "If you think you have troubles and aches and pains, and that society owes you food, clothing, medical care and recreation, we submit to you the case of Al Fowler, who was cut down by a land mine but bounced back taller than ever."

He was a member of Tamalpais Post 72, Veterans of Foreign Wars of San Rafael, Pacheco Chapter 79, Disabled American Veterans and San Anslemo Post 179 of the American Legion.

He is survived by his wife, Rosaline G. Fowler; two daughters, Carol Ann Fowler and Mrs. Dolores Robinson, both of Santa Rosa; two sons, Robert J. Oliver of Penngrove and George A. Oliviera of Rohnert Park; a brother Vernon Fowler of Tracy, and 10 grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private.

MRS. SMITH

Funeral arrangements for Fran-ces W. Smith of Sausalito are pending at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Smith, 79, died Friday in a local hospital after a brief illness. was born in Nebraska and came to Point Reyes Station at the age of 19. In 1941, he moved to Sausalito where she lived most recently at 209 Third Street.

Survivors include her son, Willard Thornston of San Francisco; her brother, Glen Storm of Concord; her sister, Bessie Trayer of Point Reyes Station; six grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

E. M. GOSHEN

Funeral for Elizabeth Margaret Goshen, a lifelong Petaluma resident, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

Miss Goshen died Saturday at a local hospital after a brief illness. She was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church and was past matron of the Order of Eastern Star, Morningstar Chapter of Petaluma. She lived at 619 Prospect Street.

Private burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

GARY HULL

Gary David Hull, 7-month-old son of Carolyn Hull of 151 San Andreas Drive, Novato, was discovered dead in his bed late Saturday, apparently of natural causes, according to coroner's investigator Keith Craig.

The child, who had suffered from flu in recent months, was pronounced dead on arrival at Novato General Hospital at 12:16 a.m. yesterday, Novato police reported.

He had been placed in his crib at 5 p.m. Saturday and when his mother went to change him at 11:30 p.m., he was not breathing, police said. The Novato Fire Department attempted to revive him.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato.

JOHN ROBERTS

John B. Roberts, for eight years a custodian with the San Rafael School District, died in a Sonoma rest home today after a long illness. He was 57.

Roberts, who had lived in San Rafael since 1952, moved to 141 Temelec Circle, Sonoma, three years ago on his retirement. He was a member of the California School Employees Association, San Rafael and a veteran of World War II. He was a native of Dallas, Tex.

He is survived by his wife, Josephine of Sonoma, and two sisters, Alma Whitfield and Ruby Richardson, both of Dallas, Tex.

Funeral will be Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the chapel of Bates, Evans and Fehrenson, Sonoma, with the Rev. Paul Shelford officiating. Private inurnment will be at Cypress Hill Cemetery, Petaluma.

The family prefers contributions to the Cancer Fund.

MRS. YEAGLE

Grace M. Yeagle, mother of Mary Cerda of Forest Knolls, died yesterday in a Berkeley Hospital after a short illness. She was 84.

Mrs. Yeagle was born in Clyde, Ohio, where she was a school teacher for many years. She moved to San Francisco in 1955 and worked for the White House department store.

In addition to Mrs. Cerda, she is survived by daughters Dorothy Boone of Tucson, Ariz., and Alice Yeagle of Berkeley; two sons, William G. Yeagle of Toledo, Ohio, and Paul Yeagle of River Edge, N.J., and six grandchildren.

Memorial service will be at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at Trinity Methodist Church, 16th and Market streets, San Francisco.

Graft In New York Reported

NEW YORK (AP) — A special commission reports finding "widespread corruption" in a two-year probe of the New York City police department and recommends appointment of a special deputy state attorney general to root out corruption among policemen, prosecutors and judges.

The Knapp Commission said in a report Sunday that it found graft ranging from well-organized, monthly gambling payoffs to narcotics "scores" of as much as $80,000 to small but numerous payments to uniformed patrolmen from construction sites, bars and businesses.

INVESTIGATION

The commission urged Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to appoint a special prosecutor to head a new, independent watchdog agency "staffed by persons wholly unconnected with the police department" to investigate and prosecute "all crimes involving corruption in the criminal process."

Neither the public nor honest policemen feel they can trust the city district attorney's offices or investigating commission to handle the job, it said. All those agencies rely on policemen to do the legwork and New Yorkers "just don't trust policemen to investigate each other."

The five-man special commission headed by Whitman Knapp, a Wall Street lawyer since recommended for the federal bench, also advocated these reforms:

Repeal of antigambling laws and laws barring certain business activities on Sunday to reduce the exposure of policemen to potentially corrupting situations.

RELIEF

Relieving policemen from enforcing the laws covering construction activities, tow truck operations, bars, nightclubs and businesses. "It is ridiculous to have an armed police officer wasting his time checking restaurant washrooms to find out whether they are properly supplied with soap," the report said.

Creation of an independent anticorruption group within the police department in which an officer might spend his entire career.

There were also recommendations for more than 30 administrative steps within the department including revision of the Civil Service laws to permit the police commissioner to punish captains, lieutenants and sergeants by reducing them a rank if found guilty of a serious charge.

Auto Is Stolen

A 1965 maroon Chevrolet, license number TKD702, was stolen yesterday from the Emporium department store parking lot in San Rafael, owner William Dale Dobbs, 20 Oak Mountain Court, San Rafael, told police.

Post-Mao China Plans Reported

LONDON (UPI)—A collective leadership headed by Premier Chou En-lai is to take over in China after the eventual death of Mao Tse-tung, a Western diplomatic dispatch reported from Peking today.

A Soviet-type collective directorate is being prepared and groomed for the task and will replace the system of one-man rule practiced under Mao Tse-tung, the report said.

There are strong indications that no single leader will be appointed as "successor designate" to Mao, as was Lin Piao, the defense minister who was eliminated after his alleged plot to seize power.

Lin was the officially designated successor to Mao.

No new figure has so far been discerned that could qualify for the job, the report said.

Chou now in effect runs the country, or at least plays the key role in China's day-to-day affairs. But he is not seen as a likely single successor to Mao, the report said.

Already a sort of part-collective-rule was said to be in force in China, though Mao remains the undisputed ruler who sets the course of the nation's policy.

The collective leadership is intended to safeguard a smooth transition and eventual takeover, at least until a new set-up or a possible new strongman emerges, the report suggested.

There is no clear indication, it said, as to who the other members of the collective directorate are or will be.

It seems that it is to include Lin's successor as defense minister, 73-year-old Yeh Chienging, an old and trusted friend of Chou's who would have the task of securing the cooperation of the army, the diplomatic dispatch said.

The plan, according to present indications, envisages the continuation of the policy initiated recently under Mao's supervision that brought about President Nixon's visit to Peking early this year and has since led to a mounting effort to get China back onto the international scene.

Economic build-up appears to be a key factor in this strategy, along with speeded nuclear rearmament to strengthen the country's defense posture against the Soviet Union, the report said.

At the same time a major job is evidently still to be done on the consolidation of the domestic front, it said.

The Lin affair has shaken the regime considerably and has apparently caused uneasiness in the Mao regime over the reliability of army and party cadres.

Although all of these happenings remain well guarded secrets in Peking and although little is said publicly, a purge appears to have been in progress for the past year, the report said.

Only about half of the Communist party politbureau was said to be still in their jobs. They were elected at the party congress in April, 1969.

But the People's Congress which had been promised for last year has not been held—yet another sign, it was believed, of unsettled conditions.

Tax Relief, School Funding Still Remain

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The legislature began the first week of its three-month recess today after working almost continuously for 19 months without finding a solution to property tax relief and school finance.

A monumental stack of unfinished business will greet lawmakers when they return to the Capitol after the Nov. 7 election.

Included in the mountain of measures still undecided are reapportionment, women's rights, protection of the "wild rivers," no-fault car insurance and the possible reduction of penalties for marijuana use.

Many incumbents facing reelection say they will have a difficult time explaining to voters why they are still empty-handed on the question of property tax relief and educational financing.

The Senate, where only half the lawmakers are up for reelection, killed a $1.2 billion plan ironed out between Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti and Gov. Ronald Reagan. All of the Assembly seats are up for grabs this fall.

However, the legislature did decide some questions.

Lawmakers passed measures to finance bicycle trails and set up a statewide "hot" list of stolen bikes to help curb thefts. They also approved a bill extending unemployment insurance to farm workers although Reagan is expected to veto it.

The legislature passed a measure to require license plates to be reflectorized as well as a 1974 ballot issue for $250 million worth of park bonds.

Reagan has signed into law measures to raise the pay of prison guards and to ease restrictions on teaching the dangers of venereal disease.

Lawmakers also took decisive action by killing bills to reduce the drinking age to 18, establish tighter controls over election campaigns and create a life insurance plan for state workers.

In addition, the legislature approved a dozen proposals for the Nov. 7 ballot, including one by Moretti to lengthen the current annual legislative sessions to two years.

Vets Eligible For Cash Bonus

Vietnam veterans from the State of Washington who were residents of that state for one year immediately prior to entering the armed forces are eligible for a $250 cash bonus or the equivalant toward education.

James V. Burdick, director of the Marin County Service Office, said eligible veterans must have had honorable service after Aug. 5, 1964 and have received the Vietnam Service Medal.

Tiny Space Body Swings Close To Us

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A scientist says earth's "little brother," the asteroid Toro, will be its closest in decades tomorrow and may hang around for two months.

The tiny asteroid, which is only two or three miles in size, is expected to come within 12.6 million miles of earth.

"A lot of people are excited," said Dr. Gustaf Arrhenius, associate director of the Institute for Pure and Applied Physical Sciences at the University of California at San Diego.

Last October U.C. scientists determined Toro was a third party to the earth-moon gravitational system. They described it as a "quasimoon."

The tiny space body makes five revolutions around the sun while the earth makes eight, Arrhenius said in an interview. Dr. Hannes Alfven, a Nobel Prize winner and associate of Arrhenius, said new studies have been completed which indicate control of Toro's orbit will pass to the planet Venus by the year 2,200 but return by the year 2,350 to earth.

"Toro has probably been in this quasimoon relationship with the earth for some thousands of years, at least, and possibly even from the time the solar system originated, 4.6 billion years ago," Arrhenius said. "It probably will remain in that relationship for thousands of years to come."

A possible collision between Toro and earth "could not occur for at least a thousand years," he said.

Steam Transit In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco entered the steam transit age Friday with a non-polluting bus.

William D. Lear was on hand when the bus, powered by a vapor turbine engine which his firm developed, was turned over to the city's Municipal Railway.

The bus will be given a 60-day test along a flat route near the waterfront.

Stubborn Big Sur Blaze Is Finally Placed Under Control

BIG SUR, Calif. (UPI)— Firefighters using picks and shovels surrounded and controlled a stubborn coastal blaze lastnight near Big Sur, where 4,300 acres of brush and timber were destroyed

"The fire lines are holding, the weather is favorable and some of the fire crews are being released," a spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service said.

He said 300 men would remain at the scene for mop-up operations which may last two weeks.

Crews were ferried across steep canyons by helicopters Sunday to battle flames that jumped the thin clearing encircling the fire, which was backed against a steep hillside.

"We shouldn't have any more trouble with it the way things look," the spokesman said.

The blaze started Tuesday from an illegal campfire near the community of Big Sur. A U2 reconnaisance plane was used to pinpoint potential trouble spots and World War II bombers dropped retardant chemicals on the fire.

There were no structures damaged in the scenic area where homes perch on cliffs overlooking the Pacific.

Forestry officials Saturday began allowing hippies and residents who dwell in the mountains to return to their homes. Vacationers were also readmitted to the Pfeiffer-Big Sur State Park, where the fire was turned away after burning only 200 acres.

Some Fingerprints Found In Mansion

BARRINGTON HILLS, Ill. (UPI) — Police said yesterday fingerprints found at the home of retired insurance executive Paul M. Corbett were among the few clues they had in the slaying of Corbett and three members of his family.

All four victims were shot in the head Friday night at close range with a .30-caliber carbine and a .25-caliber pistol. Killed along with Corbett, 67, was his wife, Marion, 57, her daughter by a former marriage, Barbara S. Boand, 22, and Mrs. Corbett'e sister, Mrs. Dorothy Deery, 60.

"Even if the killer knew them, they would still have to be the most bloodthirsty persons around," a police investigator said.

Police revealed yesterday that fingerprints were found in Corbett's $100,000 home, but it was not clear to whom they belonged. There were few other clues.

The Corbett's 14-room, gray castle-like home had been ransacked. But relatives reported nothing appeared to be missing.

Valuable jewelry and a collection of paintings were not touched.

Several friends and relatives took lie detector tests during the weekend, police said, but all passed the tests.

Authorities Sunday issued a plea for anyone traveling in the exclusive Chicago suburb near the Corbett's home on Friday night to please come forward.

Police found no forced entry, thus speculating that the Corbett's may have known their killers. The burglar alarm was turned off, and one telephone line — the one in the kitchen — had been pulled out. Three other telephones in other areas of the home worked, police said.

The use of a rifle in the murder led authorities to speculate that the invaders may have been planning a sniper attack on the home. That kind of weapon is rarely used in an armed robbery, police said.

Pedalwork In Parade Hazardous To Maddox

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (UPI)— Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox got to moving a little too fast downhill on his bicycle as he was leading a parade Saturday, and flew off the two-wheeler, suffering minor injuries.

A doctor at Hall County Hospital, where Maddox was taken, said the lieutenant governor was treated for minor abrasions and released.

Guerilla Bombing Claim Discounted

TRIESTE, Italy (UPI)—Officials expressed doubt today about Palestinian guerrilla claims that the group bombed a Middle East oil depot in this Adriatic seaport, destroying four oil tanks and damaging two others.

"It is easy," said Deputy Prosecutor Alessandro Brenci, "to claim credit for something like this."

However, he said the claim Saturday by a Palestinian guerrilla organization called the Black September Organization that it set off bombs at the depot was under investigation—"along with other hypotheses."

San Rafael Youth Said Satisfactory

A 19-year-old San Rafael youth was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital with a cut face and scalp following a one-car accident in San Rafael yesterday.

According to police, a car driven by Douglas Lloyd Austin of 362 Irwin Street smashed into a tree after skidding southbound on Mountain View Avenue near Williams Avenue.

Best Wine In State Announced

SONOMA (UPI) —Robert Mondavi Winery's cabernet sauvignon has been named the best in the state by the heads of major California wineries.

Twelve judges met at the Buena Vista Winery Sunday and tasted 33 wines, judging on 12 points ranging from appearance and clarity to aroma and acidity.

In second place for the best cabernet sauvignon was the Louis M. Martini Winery. Beaulieu Vineyards took third place.

The tasting was the first of its kind, since all wines tasted were purchased at retail from various stores to make sure they are identical to the wines available to the general public.

In previous tastings, the wineries have usually been invited to select and present their best.

The judges were Andre Tchelistscheff, Beaulieu Vineyards; Louis F. Martini, Louis P. Martini Winery; Otto Meyer, Paul Masson Vineyards; Daniel Mirassou, Mirassou Vineyards; Joseph Concannon, Concannon Vineyards; Myron Nightingale, Beringer Bros., Inc., Robert Mondavi, Robert Mondavi Winery; Rodney E. Strong, Windsor Vineyards; Brother Timothy, The Christian Brothers; Joseph E. Heitz, Heitz Wine Cellars; Frank Bartholomew, Buena Vista Winery; and Robert L. Balder, wine writer and university lecturer.

All 33 wines were rated but only the winners' rating have been released.

Health Department Staff Change Pleas Due Study

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow, at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center, will consider several requested staffing changes in the department of health services.

The first proposal calls for expanding the position of comprehensive health planning director from half-time to full-time.

Similar expansion is requested for the half-time position of planning coordinator of the health department.

Both positions were filled until recently by Michael Ingerman, who resigned last month to take a position on the regional staff of comprehensive health planning.

Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, director of the county health department, has recommended the positions become full-time in order to be able to handle increasing workloads.

In return, he has offered to give up an unfilled position of half-time health educator for a net increase in county cost of about $7,000. During June budget hearings, when the board of supervisors authorized the half-time health educator, department officials maintained the position was badly needed.

Elsewhere in his department, Cooke has recommended that a new position of deputy program chief be created in the mental health division. He has suggested it be filled by Jay Shinohara, currently chief of the planning and administration division. The new position would add $50 to Shinohara's $1,805 monthly check.

This new position would be offset by eliminating the vacant position of chief of psychiatric services, Cooke said. The net savings would be about $550 per month.

Cooke said the new deputy director position is needed because of changes in the county's mental health program.

Those changes, he said, also make the position of clinical director of the mental health center unnecessary and that position should be reduced to one of staff psychiatrist.

The Supervisors' agenda also includes:

HOTEL — A request that the county's abatement order against the historic Olema Hotel be extended for another 90 days pending the outcome of sale negotiations by the owner to a private investor who plans to restore the building. It has been condemned by county officials as a fire hazard.

EOC — A report from county auditor-controller Michael Mitchell on a federal audit of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council's defunct food stamp sales program, which has been cited for a $29,700 deficit.

APPEAL — An appeal, submitted by William F. O'Keefe of Tiburon, of planning commission denial of his request to build a storage platform for his seaplanein the bay. Neighbors have protested the platform and plane are ecologically damaging to bay mudflats.

Girls' Screams Lead To Rescue From Closet

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Two girls, aged 6 and 8, trapped inside the locked closet of a vacant house for three days saved their lives by screaming so loud a girl walking her dog heard them and summoned help Sunday.

The girls, Fara Fazi, 8, and Cherry Lambert, 6, rested in an Air Force hospital today where they were in good condition, being treated for dehydration.

They got locked inside the bedroom closet accidentally while playing in the new, but unoccupied house.

Hundreds of police, Air Force reservists and volunteers had searched the area since the two little girls disappeared from the Fazi front yard Thursday, but it was a 13-year-old girl walking her dog who finally heard them screaming.

"I opened up the house and went in, but I had heard that could only be opened from the outside.

"She told me they locked themselves in the closet while playing," said Mrs. Fazi, the elder girl's mother. She said the girls were thirsty and very hungry.

A deputy sheriff said when authorities opened the closet door, one of the girls asked "When can we eat?"

Fara, asked what the girls had done the 60 hours they were trapped, told her mother, "We just tried to get out. We lay on the floor to get some air coming under the door."

The house was only a block from the yard where they disappeared. Mrs. Fazi said authorities said they had already searched the newly built but vacant houses in the immediate area of their home.

Tam Board To Study Tax Hike

Tamalpais High School District trustees will be asked today to levy an additional 7 cents on the operating tax rate for the 1972-73 school year in order to provide a special reserve building fund.

The board will meet at 8 o'clock in the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, who will recommend the levy, said the money would maintain and rehabilitate the district's three high schools over the next three years.

Among projects termed "current major priority needs" are:

Tamalpais High School: renovate middle floor entry of Keyser Hall, $11,000; remodel upper level of Keyser Hall for more art space, $12,000; remodel men's restroom at Wood Hall, $3,300; install portable building next to kiln for modern ceramics facility, $36,000.

Redwood High School: locker rooms for boys physical education, $60,000; tennis courts, $65,000; reuild football field, $120,000.

Sir Francis Drake High School: new art room, $38,500.

A public hearing on the district's final budget of $10,702,863 is set midway through the board's meeting. If adopted, the 1972-73 budget would require a $1.88 tax rate per $100 assessed valuation.

Library Rates To Rise; August A Grace Period

New library penalty rates for overdue books will take effect Sept. 1, County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema said yesterday.

The new rates were approved Tuesday by the board of supervisors and the month of August was subsequently established by Bajema as a grace period to encourage the return of county books.

Library patrons have been asked to search their shelves for overdue books, which may be returned to any branch of the county library, Bajema said.

Regardless of how long books have been overdue, no money will be collected for them in August but patrons will continue to be billed for lost books.

On Sept. 1, new fines on adult books will be 10 cents a day with a maximum fine of $3.50 per book while children's books will be three cents with a $1.50 maximum.

Nonviolence Vow For Convention

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Republican National Convention will be the scene of "the most massive sit-in in American history," according to anti-war organizer Rennie Davis.

"This will not be another Chicago," said Davis. "In every way it will be nonviolent."

Davis told a news conference Friday that protest organizers for the GOP convention have met several times with Miami Beach police officials. Davis praised Chief Rocky Pomerance as "a man of integrity. We respect him. Our relations have been terrific."

8 Perish In Blaze In Boston

BOSTON (UPI)—Eight persons, including five youngsters and their mother and grandmother, died early today when fire swept a two-family home. Two other children were seriously burned and four firemen overcome by smoke.

The dead were identified by police as Mrs. Maria Gomes, 24, and her children—Michael, 1; Gina, 3; James, 4; Anthony, 5, and Zire, 8, her mother, Mrs. Alberta Carvalago, 60, and Catherine Ahern, 20.

The children's father, Armando, escaped the flames but the victims were trapped on the second floor or in the attic of the 21-2-story frame building, authorities said.

DEAD ON ARRIVAL

All eight were dead on arrival at Boston City Hospital.

The cause of the fire was not immediately known but fire officials estimated damages at $20,000.

A neighbor, Anatasio Rosa, who lives across the street, rescued two youngsters and said the flames spread so quickly rescue of anyone else was impossible.

The injured children were identified as Bardena Andrade, 3, and her sister Dandeda, 6. Bardena was in poor condition at the hospital while the older girl was "out of danger," a spokesman said. Their parents and another relative escaped uninjured.

Gomes survived the blaze but was able to tell firemen only that he was sleeping on the second floor when the fire erupted at about 12:30 a.m. and when he stepped into a hallway, he ran into a "sheet of flame." He was admitted to the hospital in shock.

SHAKED FLOORS

Gomes and his family shared the top floors of the converted dwelling with two other women and a man. The man was tentatively listed as missing but officials said he may not have been home at the time of the fire.

When firefighters arrived, flames were visible throughout the upper parts of the building. The building had been recently converted for use by two families, officials said.

Four firemen were overcome by smoke battling the blaze, which took about two hours to control.

Slogan Girl Gets Nixon Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— Vicki Lynn Cole, 17, the girl who gave President Nixon the slogan "Bring Us Together Again" will actively campaign for his re-election and will serve as state chairman of the Future Voters for the President.

During a whistle stop campaign trip to Deshler, Ohio in 1968, Nixon spotted Vicki, then 13, holding a sign reading "Bring Us Together Again."

The President used the slogan as the theme of his campaign and it also is the theme of his inaugural address and opening of his administration.

Coleman Drug Charges Dismissed

Felony charges of possessing marijuana and dangerous drugs against Steven Pope Coleman, 19, of Mill Valley, have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Peter Allen Smith discharged Coleman after he was told there was no reason to believe drugs found in a pair of pants in a vehicle on May 28 belonged to Coleman.

Bilked Consumers Do Have Recourse

If you feel you have received defective merchandise or inferior services or have been the victim of gross misrepresentation, you do have certain remedies, but the iniative must come from you.

The tendency for many of us is to shrug our shoulder and suffer in silence, discouraged and even intimidated by the apparent hopelessness of an individual's chances against a corporation or a large business establishment.

The consumer need not sit helplessly by and resign himself to taking it on the chin, says Donald G. Livingston, director of the California Department of Consumer Affairs. Booklets and other literature are available upon request from any office of the Department of Consumer Affairs. Its San Francisco office is located at 30 Van Ness Avenue.

Among the informative booklets are those on Small Claims Court, which tells the grievant how to go about suing if he has been cheated by a person or a store; Consumer Education Information Resources, listing sources of information on credit, food, and good buying habits; and Consumer Groups, listing California organizations interested in consumer affairs.

A consumer with a complaint should first go to the store where the alleged infraction occurred. All too often, customers, in their eagerness to bring in an ally in the form of a consumer organization or a state agency, will go running for outside aid when a direct complaint to the store could solve the problem.

At the store, if the clerk is unable to give satisfaction, the supervisor or manager should be contacted, and the store should be allowed a few days or a week to take care of the complaint.

If, after a reasonable wait, no redress is forthcoming, that's the time to gather your facts and seek outside help from the California Department of Consumer Affairs, the Better Business Bureau in San Francisco, or other governmental agencies set up to enforce laws on consumer protection.

The consumer reference guide published by the Department of Consumer Affairs lists more than 60 areas in which complaints may arise, and the appropriate agencies to contact.

The main office of the California Department of Consumer Affairs is at 1020 N Street, Sacramento, Calif. 95814.

Herons And Egrets

In Marin County one of the best places to observe herons and egrets is at the Audubon Canyon Ranch on the Bolinas Lagoon. They belong to the same family of long-billed, long-necked, long-legged, three-ed wading birds. The Great Blue Heron may stand five feet tall, with the rest of the family about half that trial In the breeding season, they build their nests high in the redwoods overlooking the Lagoon. In recent years, however, they have suffered from soft-shelled eggs, which reduces the percentage of successful hatchings. This defect is presumably caused by DDT, though other substances, such as PCB, are also suspect. It is thought these birds acquire the DDT from the fish in the San Joaquin and Sacramento River deltas, where they feed part of the year.

Bird lovers will be watching Bolinas Lagoon carefully for the next several years, hoping the recent ban on DDT will result in harder shells and a better rate of hatching. Let us hope the majestic birds of the Bolinas Lagoon rookery will survive the many onslaughts of modern society.

Nixon Gets Action From His Privy Councillor

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A recent press release from the governor's office sounded innocuous: An announcement that the governor "would seek immediate legislation to improve facilities at the San Onofre Bluffs State Beach in northern San Diego County a year ahead of schedule."

Unsaid was that the $340,000 "facilities" are to be toilets next to the President's private beach at San Clemente.

The tale we heard began when Richard M. Nixon — sniffing an election year — went down to the beach to press the flesh. But when he stuck out his hand, he struck out.

Where were the people? he demanded.

AFTER ALL, as noted in the governor's release, "President Nixon was instrumental in having the Marine Corps turn over the beach over to the state for public use on a $1-a-year lease." And after going to all that trouble, the President clearly expected to see the voters at play. With photographers trailing him as he mingled among the voters.

Informed the public was discouraged from using the beach for lack of "facilities," the President reportedly turned to John Erlichman, his special advisor on domestic affairs (i.e., Privy Councillor), and demanded immediate action.

THIS HISTORIC conversation took place while Gov. Ronald Reagan was in Europe on his goodwill mission for the President. Erlichman, we were told, carried out his orders with such zest that he had the governor called out of a palace meeting with heads of state just so the ukase could be delivered and work begun.

Erlichman apparently knew an important order when he heard one. It's this kind of quick thinking that makes a privy councillor.

THE DEAL stipulated that the state pay half of the cost "for construction of the water and sewage facilities." That's a far cry from the modest foxholes that met the needs of the Marines, who held the beach from 1942 until a year ago April.

This modest initial investment will service 3.5 miles of beach.

The state's share was promptly grafted onto a bill, SB 467 by Sen. Clair W. Burgener, R-Las Mesa. The bill, an "urgency" supplement to the state budget, was pushed through the Legislature in great haste in two weeks and will take effect immediately upon signature by the governor.

THE BILL DECLARES that the toilets are "greatly needed" and that the $170,000 in state funds 'will avert any unnecessary delay."

The bill, however, does not suggest answers to: Why this beach? Why this year?

If only the President would give up San Clemente in favor of a travelling beach caravan, then other beaches could share his munificence.

Hub Police Lauded For Efficient Job

Approximately one month ago, my mother left on a trip to the East Coast. As always, when either of us travel, we notified our San Anselmo Police Department of the dates of departure and return.

Due to the bad weather in the East, my mother's departure was postponed one day. Consequently, she was still in the house on the day the police department had been advised she would be gone. On this day, an officer came to her door, checking to see why there was someone in the house. She explained that her flight had been changed to the next day.

The effectual action of this officer really was appreciated by us both, and I feel that it is efficiency such as this in the department that San Anselmo is rarely listed in the publication of thefts which appear in the Independent-Journal.

Newsboy Delivers Despite Broken Leg

I'm a visitor from Portland, Ore. Today I took this snapshot of one of your paper boys on Woodland Avenue.

I stopped him and found out he had broken his leg five months ago, and the cast has been off his leg for 10 days. But the boy still has to use crutches to walk. His name is Johnny Pettibone, and today is his second day on the job.

I must say I admire this kind of determination to work in a young boy. With boys like this, maybe our world won't be so bad after all!

I'm enjoying San Rafael to its fullest.

Make Better Use Of Fine Arts Theater

I have now experienced all three of the College of Marin's theaters and cannot understand how the college can justify the use of the Seminary's old, unsafe Theater No. 3. To subject the audience to the hard uncomfortable seats, the poor seating arrangements, the lack of ventilation, marginal lighting, substandard stage, antiquated and unclean restrooms, poor audio amplification and generally all the shortcomings of an old theater is irreconcilable with the million dollar Fine Arts Theater going unused.

It is inconceivable that the College's administration and the board of trustees permit a continuation of this mockery to the tax payer. When the drama department asked for the Fine Arts Theater to be built, only the best and most expensive would suffice. Now we are told that the Seminary's theater is needed because it is more rustic?

Can the board of trustees honestly permit college funds to be used on this old theater while two on-compus theaters are used only on an irregular basis??

Drama Reviewer Draws Criticism

I am an actress, currently performing with the Marin Shakespeare Festival. Normally, I am unaffected by reviews of productions I appear in; but I feel personally compelled to respond to what seemed to me to be a presumptuous and tasteless move on the part of the person who reviewed our production of Romeo and Juliet.

An artist in the theatre is truly a strange creature. He works for many years without recompense, in college or community productions, then small groups, walking the slow road to some form of recognition for the work he his put into his craft. One would hope that a review of a play would be something by which the artist can profit in the knowledge of what he has failed or achieved to accomplish. I can find no excuse for even a smaller paper such as the Journal, to allow a review of such shallow content to be exhibited to the community. It is not fair to the community, to the festival, or to the people who have worked an endless number of hours to bring this production to its opening.

I do not wish to argue interpretively with this reviewer about his opinion of the actor who played Romeo. My point in this letter, is that despite a pretty damaging headline to the review, the writer was so general in his critique of Romeo, as well as in his praise of the other actors in the play, that I wondered if the reviewer was at the play beyond the first few scenes.

With the tremendous amount of creative and intellectual resources in Marin County, I hope that the Journal will, in the future, find a theatrical critic who takes his or her work a little more seriously, and not hit actors below the creative belt for the sake of a strong headline for a review with no substance.

Better luck next time,

BARBARA BISHOP

Farm Initiative Is 'Anti-Farmworker'

This letter is in response to the column by Rus Walton printed in your paper Wednesday, July 26, in regard to the initiative called "The Agricultural Labor Relations Act of 1972". This initiative which every citizen will be voting on in November is anti-farmworker and strangles the efforts of farmworkers to achieve better working and living conditions.

Do the people reading your newspaper know that the average yearly income of a farmworker's family of four, working full time, is only $2700? Do they know that 800 workers are killed per year as a result of misuse of lethal pesticides? Do they know, also, that 95 per cent of farmworkers housing does not have a toilet, bath or sink? Do they know that 400,000 children below the age of 13 work under hot sun in stoop labor? Finally, do your readers know that this initiative if passed creates a five-person Agricultural Relation Board (appointed by the governor) to the tune of $600,000 per year financed from state sources?

As for "free" elections — this initiative disenfranchises most of the workers in that no worker can vote unless he worked for an agricultural employer for 100 days of the last calendar year. The initiative clearly states, "The date of such election shall be set at a time when the number of temporary agricultural employees entitled to vote does not exceed the number of permanent agricultural employees entitled to vote". Most large growers employ only a few workers year-round and hundreds of workers at the time of harvest. Thus, if a lettuce grower has 20 permanent year-round workers and 200 harvest workers, then the election must be set at a time when there are no more than 20 harvest workers eligible to vote, effectively taking the vote from 180 seasonal workers. It is up to the people to protect the farmworkers' future and in so doing protect themselves by voting NO on the anti-farmworker initiative.

We Urgently Need New Way To Select Veep Candidates

WASHINGTON — One thing emerges starkly clear from Senator McGovern's decision that he had to drop Senator Eagleton as his running mate:

We must find a better way of choosing vice-presidential candidates before a calamity befalls the nation.

There are compelling reasons.

A potential President of the United States should not be a one-man choice — and that applies equally to both political parties.

THE SELECTION of the vice-presidential nominee has almost invariably been casual, haphazard, a decision made in consultation with weary minds in the hectic closing hours of the convention.

There is no time for an adequate check on the prospective candidate's background — medical, financial, political. Senator McGovern talked for 45 seconds on the telephone with Eagleton and when McGovern asked him if there were things he ought to know about his past, he took a quick "no" as sufficient.

There was no solid investigation by the staff of any of the possible candidates on the McGovern list, and when they got down to Eagleton, they called a few friends to see if there was anything they needed to know and were assured there wasn't.

I AM NOT saying that Sen. Eagleton's hospitalizations prove that he would not have the stamina and balance needed in office. But the facts should have been known to those who had to make the decision and not withheld until investigative reporters forced them out.

The choice was hasty, the investigation was sloppy and the convention was given no freedom to choose among real alternatives.

This is not a special vice of the Democrats. Both parties do it approximately the same way — badly. There is no evidence that Eisenhower checked out Nixon's background in 1952, and there is no evidence that Nixon checked out Agnew's background in 1968.

BUT PERHAPS the most compelling reason to reform the method of choosing vice-presidential candidates is that the nomination ought not to be kept out of the democratic process.

The odds that he will become President are great and the strain and peril of the job are becoming greater.

The Vice Presidency is the most powerful escalator to a presidential nomination in public life today.

The Vice Presidency is becoming a more active and powerful office every year —and it is not going to become less so.

ONCE THE LEADERS of both parties agree that we must have a better way of choosing vice-presidential candidates, they'll find it. Some of the ingredients of a better way would be these:

1—An end to one-man choice. The presidential nominee could name a half-dozen acceptable candidates and then let the democratic process of the convention make the decision.

2—More time for making the choice. The presidential candidate could be nominated on the first day and his running mate on the last day of the convention. Or a two-week period could intervene and the choice put into the hands of the national committee reflective of the convention.

3—An objective report to the nation on the physical and mental health of all four of the nominees by an above-politics commission.

Reform to this end is not something that would just be nice. It is urgent and imperative.

Abortion Drama Is Part Of GOP's Convention Scenario

WASHINGTON — You will be forgiven if you betray a moment's suspicion at the news that some Republican ladies are planning to make an issue of abortion reform at their party's convention at Miami Beach. Suspicion because everybody knows Mr. Nixon already has come out against abortion reform, because one of the women threatening to push the question anyway is the wife of one of his major officials, because of an inevitable reaction to any such disturbance in Mr. Nixon's television time: What's the catch?

I will not suggest that Jill Ruckelshaus, wife of the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, is colluding with anybody. Nor Rita Hauser, co-chairperson of the Nixon re-election campaign. Their statements favoring a hands-off government attitude toward abortion fairly sing of sincerity, and their hopes of writing a plank to that effect into the Republican platform obviously are genuine (although both concede that their chances are negligible).

THE QUESTION, after the President knowingly pulled the plug on any remaining suspense about the convention by announcing his reselection of Mr. Agnew, is why he and his convention arrangers are going to tolerate any such manifestation of disunanimity as that now proposed about abortion.

To be sure, the principals are not going to be rowdies like Bella Abzug, Gloria Steinem, Friedan, Friendan, Shirley MacLaine and the others who tried and failed to get a liberalabortion plank into the Democratic platform. These are going to be both Republicans and ladies, as I said.

NEVERTHELESS, THEY are going to work with the same National Women's Political Caucus, and the subject of abortion is just as emotionalat a Republican gathering as at any other. At least they are going to bring it up first in the platform hearings at the Fontainebleau Hotel the week before the convention starts. If, after their likely defeat in committee, they decide to take a minority plank on the subject to the floor, it will come up late the afternoon of Tuesday, Aug. 22, shortly before the President's renomination.

One impulse is to put it all down as a way of waking the television audience up before that great moment. It might succeed in tearing the cameras off the street demonstrators who have promised to raise so much hell, and focusing on the action inside for a few minutes.

THE MESSAGE TO the watching public then would be that the Republican Party is big enough to entertain debate even about issues on which its undisputed leader already has set course. This is the charitable version, in which the convention shows conern over a matter of deep interest to all voters, especially women. (As this very President's own Commission on Population Growth reported, half the country thinks abortion should be a matter decided solely between women and their physicians, which is just what the proposed plank would specify.)

However, that version is too simple for those who have always believed the M between Richard and Nixon stood for Machiavelli.

THESE ARE THE ones who remember that the Population Commission's report urging liberalized and uniform abortion laws was issued in March; the nation's Catholic bishops condemned the recommendation in April; Mr. Nixon disowned that same recommendation on May 5; the next day he sent a letter to New York's Cardinal Cooke applauding the Church's efforts to repeal the liberal state law there; and in June a Gallup Poll showed that the President's standing among Catholic voters was up dramatically. The assumption is that Mr. Nixon is astute enough to discern some connection between thos events, even if it is unsporting ot anybody else to.

IT FOLLOWS from that assumption that Mr. Nixon's arrangers will tolerate and even encourage the little sideshow about abortion — but not for its educational value, which is how Mrs. Ruckelshaus realistically views her efforts. Instead, the value of the exercise to them will be its conclusion, the firm defeat of a liberal abortion plank there before the watching eyes of Cardinal Cooke, the bishops and the other half of the country that presumably rejects the idea that women and their physicians should make decisions on abortion without interference from politicians.

But this, you understand, is the cynical version, the one that maintains that M stands for Machiavelli and that the Grand Old Party is positively quivering over its prospects among Catholicvoters this year.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By THERON NEWELL

Why Not A Highway Turnstile To Safeguard Pets, Children

The other day I saw the body of a poodle in the center divider of Highway 101 near Hamilton Air Force Base. It obviously was someone's pet as it was well groomed and the license was plainly visible on the dog's collar. The body was there for two days over the weekend before it was removed.

I figured that it must have jumped out of a car and been hit by another car and killed. There was no other way for it to get through the protective chain link fence of the freeway.

LATER I SAW a place in the fence which had been left open for pedestrians to use the overpass south of the base. The dog could easily have wandered through this out onto the freeway.

Then I thought that small children could do the same thing. The state Division of Highways could put a turnstile there that could be used by older children and adults and protect the small children and pets.

Birthdays have a habit of rolling around much too often. My auto insurance agent sends out birthday cards not only wishing his customers a happy birthday, but also reminding them to check their driver's licenses. Mine had expired, so I renewed it. When I got it, the man said that it was no good for riding a motorcycle.

ONLY THEN did I realize that it took a special license to drive a motorcycle. That is a good step in the right direction in controlling motorcycles. Over the years I have covered so many fatal and near-fatal accidents of motorcycles. These single vehicle accidents are on the increase.

Stricter licensing of those who drive them might be one way to cut down on these accidents.

Many years ago, I had a friend who hated motorcycles and their noise. He had a solution to the problem then and kept repeating it whenever the occasion arose.

HE SAID THAT all motorcycles could be eliminated by making anyone riding them take a sanity test before riding it. That would eliminate all of them, he said, because no sane person would get on one.

Along the same line, statistics show that bicycle accidents both maiming and fatal are on the increase in California. This is probably due to the increase in bicycles and their greater speed.

Novato statistics back up the state on bicycle accidents. In 1970 Novato averaged an accident every 12 days. The first half of this year, it had increased to one every four and a half days, with May and June averaging one every three days. About 75 per cent of these are injury accidents, according to Patrolman Albert Mendoza.

BICYCLISTS ARE trying to get special bicycle trails. The county and cities are spending money on such trails. That may help some for long-distance rides.

The main danger to bicyclists is their utter disregard for traffic laws and regulations. They run stop signs, ride against the traffic and on sidewalks. Old and young alike violate these laws.

Some movement should be made to license bicycles to pay for the trails and at the same time, license the riders. At that time they could be instructed that bicycles are supposed to obey traffic laws. They are not supposed to be ridden on sidewalks, but with the traffic in the streets, not against it.

THE NOVATO CITY Council recently changed its meeting dates from the second and fourth Tuesdays to the first and third. In arguing for the chan e, councilman George Quesada said that after Jan. 1, he would have a conflict.

"It may be that I might have to resign," he said, but he would not say whether it was from the council or whatever would conflict with it.

The other day I took count of the passengers on the big buses that were running around the Novato area. I counted seven passengers on 12 buses. Mentally I calculated that these passengers would not pay for the gasoline used, much less the wages of the bus driver or the wear and tear on the bus.

Then my count was shattered, the 13th bus was half filled, but it was with commuters.

Demos Ignore Platform, Nominate Sen. Eastland

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democrats needed less than three weeks to disregard one demand in their party platform for the 1972 campaign.

They voted July 28 to nominate Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi for election by the Senate as president pro tempore, a largely honorary position held by a member who substitutes during absences of the vice president as the presiding officer. He succeeded the late Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana.

The job does carry prestige, $7,000 a year more than the salaries of other members of Congress, and a limousine. But whenever the Senate is handling routine business, a freshman senator is more likely to be presiding than the vice president or president pro tempore.

BY TRADITION reaching back half a century, the post goes to the senior senator of the majority party.(This tradition is even older than the seniority rule for selecting committee chairmen.)

And one provision says that Democrats in Congress should "withhold any seniority benefits from a member of Congress who fails to overtly identify with the Democratic organization in his state which is recognized by the national Democratic party."

ONLY MISSISSIPPI elects members identified with a state party not recognized by the national party. The 1968 and 1972 conventions ousted the Mississippi regulars and seated a biracial party delegation, which asserted compliance with the rules of the national party.

Renominated for a seventh term this year by the Mississippi regulars, Eastland is regarded as a sure winner in November. His Mississippi colleague, Sen. John C. Stennis, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, is chosen by the same faction.

WHEN THE PRESENT Congress convened in January, 1971, Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., raised questions about future admission of senators to the Democratic caucus if they were elected other than as nominees of state parties recognized by the national party. Stennis had won as the candidate of the Mississippi regulars and Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia as an independent.

By a 2-1 vote, a special committee submitted a report proposing that members qualify for the Democratic caucus and its assignments only if they were nominees of their state parties. This proposal, which could have affected Eastland's future status, was rejected by the caucus.

EASTLAND'S ELECTION as president pro tempore may have been a minor breach in the seniority tradition.

The new platform calls for open-ballot selection of chairmen who will carry out party programs, and for disciplining them or committee members who ignore caucus instructions to report bills.

IT ALSO ASKS an end to the "closed rule" on House Ways and Means Committee bills, which deal largely with taxes and Social Security. With no such rule across the Capitol, the Senate can convert a minor bill into a "Christmas tree" with something for everybody.

Before new policies can govern committees and their chairmen, the Democrats need to win elections Nov. 7 that will keep them in control of the House and Senate.

You'll love roads you used to hate.

First Jump Is Fatal To Kansas Coed

The 20-year-old red-haired Wichita State coed fell more than 5,000 feet before her auxiliary chute opened about 100 feet off the ground. But it was too late.

Her jumping instructor, Dale Mitchell, 25, told sheriff deputies he noticed the static line break as she left the small airplane they were in.

He said he immediately jumped out and free fell in a futile attempt to catch up to her. He landed safely on a county road several hundred yards from where Christine landed.

He told Sheriff Sgt. Dick Wallace, "I realize everyone has a time to go, but I just wonder why I had to have a part in this one."

Wallace was one of the first deputies to arrive at the plowed farm field northwest of Wichita. He said the opened parachute was lying a few feet from her body.

"The pilot, her instructor, everyone said she was a real levelheaded girl," Wallace said. "If she had just realized the problem with her chute she would have been all right. She just didn't pull the cord soon enough."

Christine's mother, Janice Curtis, said her daughter, an elementary education major in her junior year, was also active in mountain climbing and karate clubs.

"She was a quiet girl, but she always liked those kind of activities," Mrs. Curtis said. "She became interested in jumping at the beginning of the summer, and I guess she had a few hours of ground instruction first. But I was always apprehensive about it."

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

TEMPORARILY MAROONED

Although Pat Quesnel, 23, originally planned to row nonstop across the Pacific from the mainland to Hawaii, he had his plans changed when his rowing partner got an infected knee and they had to accept a tow into San Francisco. Quesnel of Seattle set out from La Push, Wash., on June 18 but he hopes to resume the voyage with a friend who is presently seeking a spot on the Olympic rowing team. He is shown here in his 22-foot-long boat Hawaii Kio. (UPI Telephoto)

Fischer Resignation Ends Eleventh Game

REYKJAVIK (UPI — For three minutes Bobby Fischer sat alone on the brightly lighted stage. Boris Spassky had moved his rook five squares and left his $470 swivel chair for his dressing room backstage.

Fischer hunched over the wooden board supporting his head with his left hand. Then with a swift movement he stopped his clock, signed the protocol and conceded defeat on the 31st move. The 2,000 spectators in the dark hall went wild. Russians among the fans stomped their feet and cried "bravo, Boris, bravo" but still there was no sign of the world champion.

Finally Spassky returned. He walked slowly to the board with the applause reaching new crescendos. The Russian nodded and then lifted both hands pleading the crowd to stop. Ony then did he sit down and sign the scoresheet which recorded his greatest triumph so far in the incident-marred $250,000 "match of the century."

Spassky had won the 11th game and cut the 29-year-old American challenger's lead from 61-2 to 6½-2 points.

Reykjavik radio interupted its final broadcast of the day with a bulletin announcing Spassky's victory. The interruption was the first of its kind the station has used during the series.

And what a victory. For nine moves it looked like an instant replay of the seventh game which ended in a draw on the 49th move after Spassky had been on the brink of defeat. But the world champion had learned his lesson. He tempted Fischer into a small mistake on the 14th move and applied pressure. Ten moves later the crowd watched in stunned silence as Spassky's pawn felled the American's queen.

In the corridor outside, grandmaster Nikolai Krogius, one of Spassky's four seconds, got up with a satisfied smile and put on his raincoat. But Fischer refused to give in. "Perhaps he did not want the books to record such a quick triumph for Spassky. He could have resigned straightaway, "said Lothar Schmid, the German arbiter.

Grandmasters wasted little time in heaping praise on Spassky who appeared to have lost his crown after a shattering 56th moves defeat in Friday's 10th game.

With the 12th game coming up Tuesday at 1 p.m. EDT, Fischer still needs six points to capture the first world title for an American.

"A fantastic game ' said Yugoslavia's Svetozar Gligoric.

Bent Larsen of Denmark agreed: "Just what the doctor ordered. Spassky has had a rough time so far with Fischer's behavior and his own poor game. This was a victory to lift his morale sky high, only too bad Bobby did not remain on stage to congratulate him. Spassky applauded after the American's fine victory in the sixth match. Bobby could have repaid the compliment today."

"My money is still on Fischer, but Spassky certainly has bounced right into the ball game. A two point lead is almost impossible to overcome against a player of Fischer's genius, but let's see."

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mayor John Lindsay said Sunday that the city has launched a program, jointly sponsored by the Vera Institute and the Parks, Recreation and Cultural Affairs Administration, that will employ some 100 former drug abusers immediately.

VIET DENTISTRY, FAITH

Ex-Marinites Tell Experiences

By MARLENE FREEDMAN

Dr. Douglas Gibson, oral surgeon, has encountered cases in South Vietnam that he never dreamed of when he lived in Marin.

Just recently, he treated a small boy whose face was mashed in by a water buffalo.

Another patient suffered a chin so infected that it was covered with blackened tissue, because he didn't want to go to Saigon to the hospital and so was treated by a local village doctor.

It is all part of Gibson's duties as surgeon and dental instructor under a program sponsored by the United States Agency for International Development.

His wife, Elizabeth, spends half her time caring for their two children attending school in Malaysia and the other half preaching the Baha'i faith in the South Vietnamese countryside.

The international family was back in Marin over the weekend for the first time in two years.

Dr. Gibson extended his 30-day leave into an around-the-wsrld trip for the famiqy and visited friends in Marin on the last leg before returning to Vietnam. The family lived in Lucas Valley and then Marinwood.

Dr. Gibson is working under very different conditions from those he had at the Veterans Administration Hospital in San Francisco and the University of California School of Dentistry in San Francisco.

He works at Nguyen Van Hoc Hospital, the largest teaching hospital in Saigon. But when he needs the services of a plastic surgeon or a neurosurgeon, he has to go out of the hospital.

The operating room in the 500-bed hospital has "only basic equipment", he says, and is plag ed by a "problem of cleanliness." There wouldn't be any equipment at all "if it wasn't for AID."

Twice, he says, they have had power failures during surgery and since the hospital has no auxiliary power, he finished the operations using flashlights and torches.

"I've never run into any antagonism against Americans", he said, although about 50 per cent of his caseload results from war injuries.

He sees his teaching assignment as crucial. "Many of the injured can't get to us. They are either treated on a local level — and not in the sophisticated way that we can treat them at the hospital — or they die."

He is training dental students so that they can pass on their training to others who will go out into the provinces to practice.

Dr. Gibson went to work for AID in 1970. He completed his 18-month contract and renewed it for another 18 months. In June 1973, the program will be phased out although dental and medical equipment will continue to be supplied by AID.

In the midst of one of the most controversial areas of the world, Dr. Gibson has little to say about the military or political situation. He explains: "As a Baha'i, I remain apolitical."

But the Gibsons have a lot to say about their religious faith. His attractive, long-haired wife out-talks her articulate husband on that subject.

"I go into the provinces and talk about the oneness of mankind", she says a matter-of-factly. It is only after further discussion that she tells of the excitement and the danger.

"We travel to the provinces in all different ways — two-legged, four-legged, even boats."

When they drive, she says, she and her contingent make it a habit to let all the other motor traffic go down the road ahead of them. "That way we can see if any mines were planted during the night."

Her interpreters — versed in the numerous dialects — go ahead of them and gather the villagers from the countryside into a central meeting place. Then she arrives and through her interpreters, preaches the Baha'i faith.

Baha'i is the third largest faith in Vietnam, she says, behind Buddhism and Christianity.

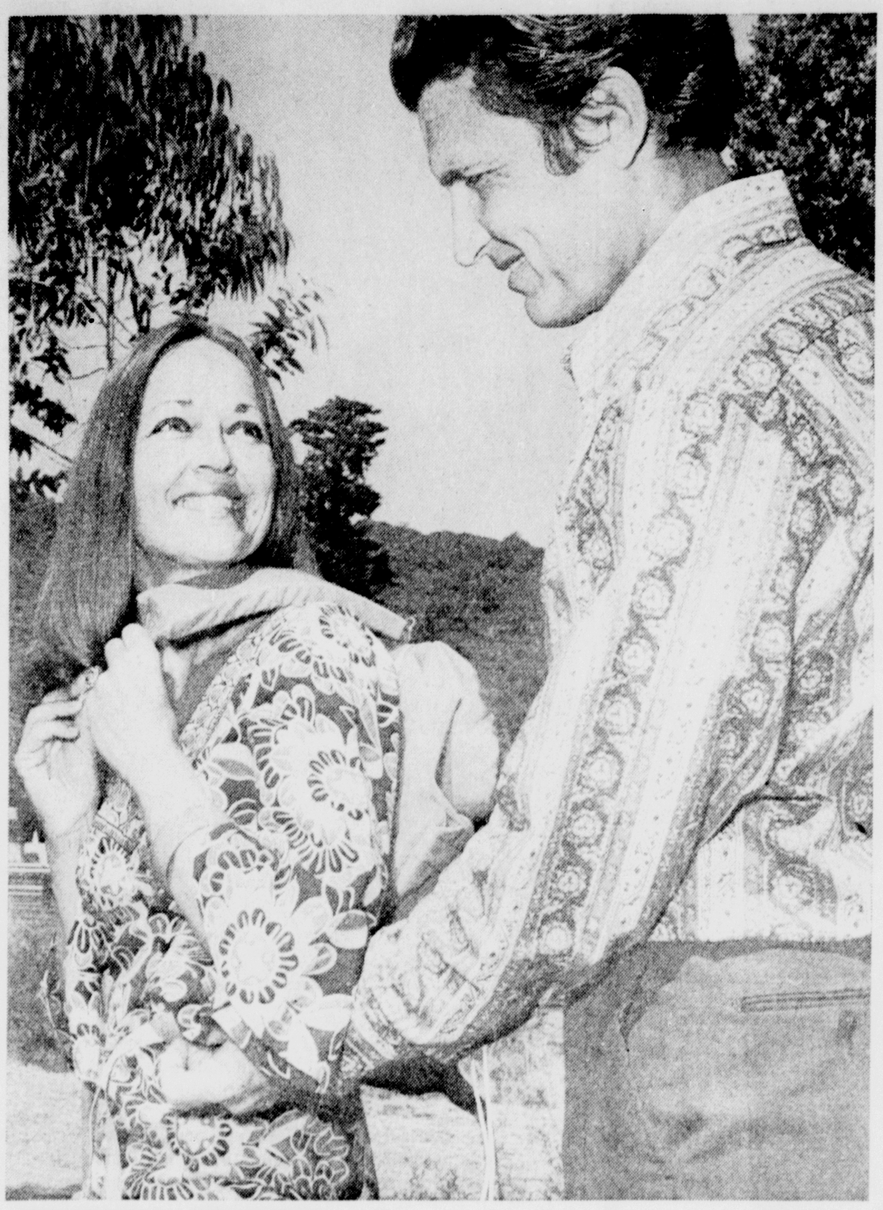

She visits six or seven villages in a day, being sure to return to Saigon by dark.

The villagers are friendly, she says smilingly. "They are invariably fascinated by my height compared to them, and by the fact that I have only two children while they each have about a dozen.

"They sometimes ask me if I know how to work in the rice fields. I ask them if they know how to work in corn fields and they laugh." Her interludes between preaching are spent in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, caring for their children: Peter, 15, and Deborah, 16. And their family is growing. They are adopting a Vietnamese-American Negro girl, 3 years old.

Wrong Date

Saturday's Independent-Journal erred in reporting the date of the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Tamlalpais Improvement Club. The club will meet at 8 p.m. Sept. 7.

TRAVELING TWOSOME — Dr. Douglas Gibson adjusts the straps of a backpack for his wife, Elizabeth, as they plan a short hike in Marin. The international couple was visiting here on a leave from South Vietnam where he teaches oral surgery for the U.S. Agency for International Development and she preaches the Baha'i faith.

Irish Riot, More Deaths Follow British Takeover Of IRA Posts

BELFAST (UPI)—A landmine explosion near the border with the Irish Republic killed two British soldiers early today, enveloping their patrol vehicle in a ball of fire. Gunmen dumped a youth's body in a Belfast Protestant area.

Hundreds of youths using iron battering rams smashed into an army post and set an armored car on fire before troops drove them back.

The army said the two soldiers were killed and two other injured when a Claymore mine exploded under their vehicle near the border town of Lismaskea, in County Fermanagh. The explosion wrecked the vehicle and set it ablaze.

In Belfast an unidentified youth in his late teens was found shot dead in the Protestant Donegall area near the entrance to one of the main highways running south, an army spokesman said.

The three deaths brought to 498 the number of persons killed in three years of sectarian strife and military operations in Northern Ireland, including 16 dead since the army occupied Irish Republican Army (IRA) strongholds in the province Monday.

Two soldiers were slightly hurt early today when the IRA brought a rocket launcher into action again, firing two shells at a British army post in the LaSalle School in Belfast's Catholic Andersonstown district.

The army said two shells from the rocker launcher — first used last September and fired twice with little effect last month — exploded in the school's gymnasium, which the British army is not using.

An army spokesman said the gymnasium was wrecked and a section of the school used for infants' classes badly damaged. He said the army has only an observation post in one corner of the school's main building. It was not hit, but its windows were blown out, he said.

In the first large-scale Catholic rioting since the assault on the IRA barricaded so-called "no go" areas, 500 youths using heavy iron poles as battering rams smashed in the main barbed wire gates of a new army post in the Catholic Andersonstown district of Belfast.

The rioters set fire to a Saracen armored car blocking the entrance to the post before troops drove them back with vollies of rubber bullets. The youths fought back with rocks and bottles during the two-hour battle before soldiers finally dispersed them.

The army said one soldier suffered a broken jaw and another a broken arm in the rioting. Two Catholic civilian men were seriously injured when their car was hit by a bomb aimed at an army ambulance in the fighting.

The battle erupted after 1,200 Catholics marched to a Gaelic football stadium to protest the army's takeover of the field and two nearby schools to accommodate the new post.

In other violence Sunday, gunmen seriously wounded Kevin Finnegan, a 25-year-old Catholic, when he answered the door of his parent's shop in Belfast's Catholic Tate Avenue.

The Social Democratic and Labor Party (SDLP), the province's main Catholic opposition party, postponed a meeting today with William Whitelaw, secretary of state for Northern Ireland. At the meeting, Whitelaw had hoped to discuss a political settlement of Northern Ireland's trouble . The party did not give the reason for the postponement but SDLP source linked it with Sunday's rioting.

Meeting Slated On Development

A town meeting will be held at Lagunitas School Wednesday at 8 p.m. to discuss the future development of the San Geronimo Valley.

County planning commissioner Werner Von Gundell will be on hand to answer questions about possible encroachment of residential and commercial areas on open space.

The meeting will be in the multi-purpose room of the school.

Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition

HERE'S HEALTH!

by JUNE EMBURY

Last week, I mentioned the great new Multi-Vitamin supplement, FORTRESS, which contains large amounts of Vitamin C, combined with Bioflavanoids and Vitamin E in a form said to be more readily assimilated. This supplement is made by the remarkable Emory Thurston, Ph.D., Sc. D., lecturer on bio-chemistry, nutrition and pharmacy subjects. In his mid-80's, he's a living example of "practicing what he preaches," radiating vigor, stamina, keen mind and dedication to humanity.

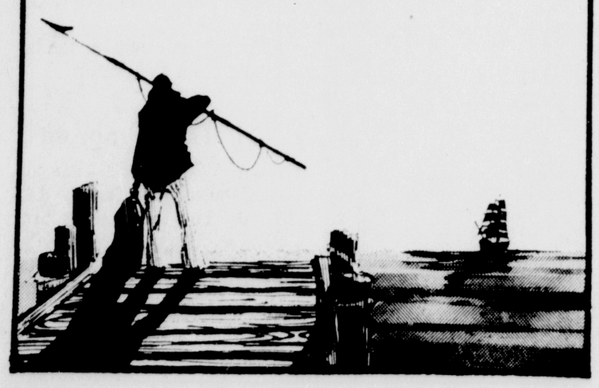

We keep on hand a special file of informative Research Bulletins, published by Dr. Thurston's Institute of Nutritional Research in Hollywood. These discuss various dietary deficiencies, based on material provided by other scientists as well as Dr. Thurston and include suggestions for correcting deficiencies. Copies are yours for the asking.

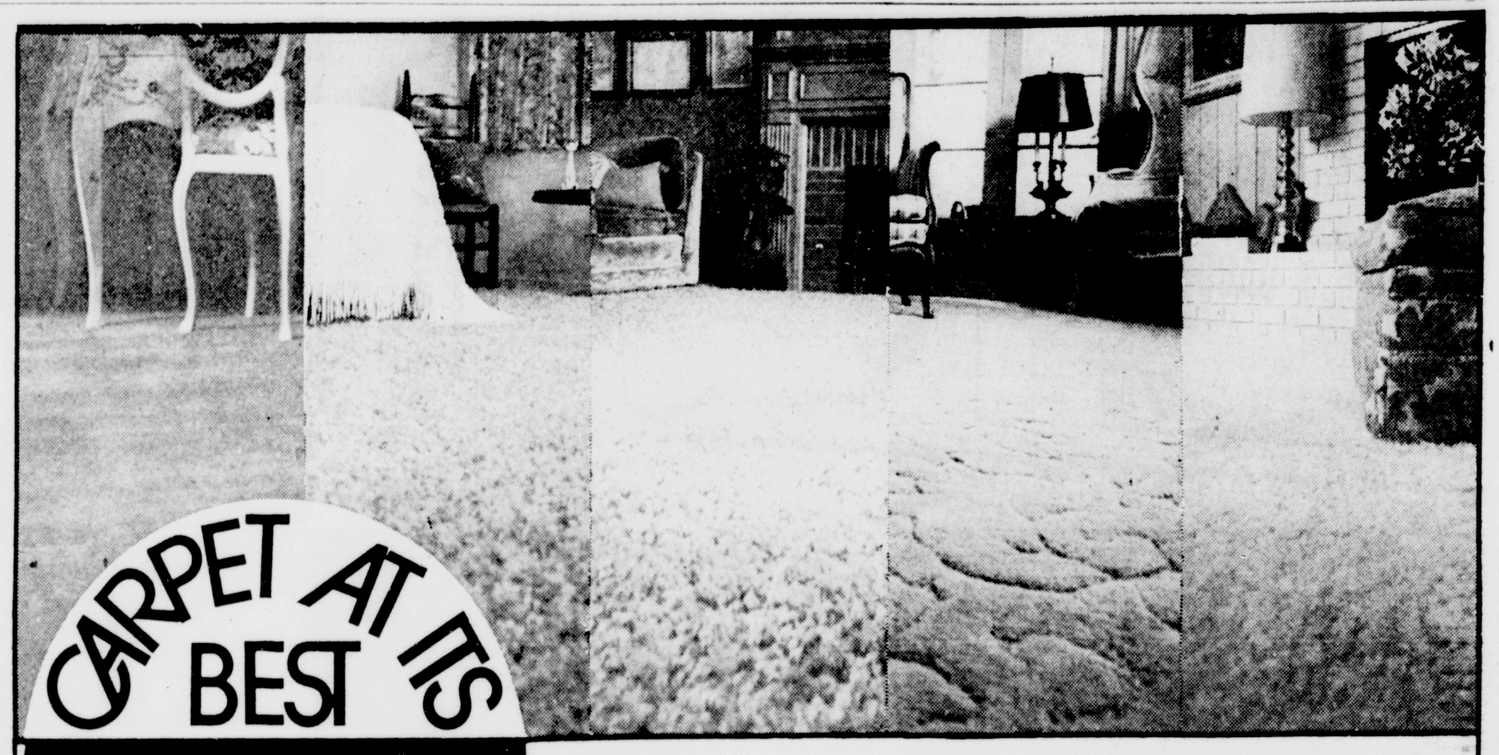

Emory Thurston is coming to Marin in October for a lecture series, more of which later.

Tragedies Overcome, Couple Celebrates Golden Anniversary

Tragedy has struck the lives of Mr. and Mrs. William Richards of Novato many times, but they have overcome it and are now looking forward to their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Florence Schwieger of Lafayette, Ore., and Mr. Richards of Dayton, Ore., met in a restaurant where Mrs. Richards was working. "I had one too many meals there," Mrs. Richard reflected kiddingly. And Mrs. Richards answered, "My boss said he would be a good catch, but I told him I wouldn't go to a dog fight with him. Four months later I married him."

They were married at the Methodist parsonage in McMinnville, Ore. Mr. Richard was born in Sonohomish, Wash., and then moved to Rupert, Idaho. Later he came by covered wagon with his parents to Dayton. Mrs. Richards was born in Loyal, Wis.

The couple had three sons. One, child died as an infant. Their second son, Harold Eugene Richards, who was serving in the Navy in World War II came home on leave. The 20 year old was killed in a car wreck on the Richardson Bay bridge on Christmas Eve, 1945. Their oldest son, Kenneth Willard Richards, died last Jan. 4, after a long illness.

Mr. Richards worked at a variety of jobs — in logging camps in Oregon, as a pile driver on the Columbia River, and during the war years at the Marinship in Sausalito.

When Marin General Hospital was built he worked for the landscaping firm, and he says proudly that he planted all the new landscaping. Before retirement he worked for the Novato Unified School District as a gardener for nine years.

Planted beside their mobile home in Novato, his roses and other flowers attest to his "green thumb". He also has a vegetable garden with garlic planted among the roses. "You'll never get aphids on the roses if you plant garlic among them," he advised.

The couple will hold an open house tomorrow for their friends. All of their brothers and sisters are living in Oregon, and the Richards doubted that they would be down for the celebration.

"We've thought many times whether we were going to make it," Mrs. Richards said as she talked about the many illnesses they had had, "but we are going to celebrate 50 golden years on Tuesday and that's what I'm going to have as a decoration on our cake."

Home Wedding Ceremony For Mill Valley Girl

Kathleen Clark of Mill Valley became the bride of Dennis Dean Jennings Saturday afternoon in a ceremony at the Mill Valley home of Dr. T. G. Brown that was followed by a reception.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William L. Clark of Mill Valley, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dean M. Jennings of Sausalito.

Maid of honor was Marsha Kelly of Mill Valley and best man was Stan Forster of Los Gatos. Edwin C. Pentz of San Francisco showed guests to their seats.

After a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe the couple will live in Mill Valley.

Both of the young people were graduated from Tamalpais High School. Kathleen was also graduated from Heald's Business College and Dennis attended the College of Marin. He is employed with Paul Masson in San Francisco.

The bride has two brothers, Mark and John Clark of Mill Valley. The bridegroom is the brother of Mrs. Diane Burt of Seattle, Wash., and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Max V. Johnson of San Francisco.

Rules For Behavior Of Children

Should parents today be permissive or strict with their offspring? One couple with nine children believes they should be "firm" when it comes to behavior, but "loose" when sharing information and ideas. Those parents are Dr. Joseph Bird, a clinical psycholgoist from Saratoga, and his wife, writer Lois Bird. They've just collaborated on a book called "Power to the Parents!" which Doubleday has published.

According to Lois Bird, family discussions at their house are very much encouraged because "we feel two-way communication is so important." Their dinnertime may last as long as three hours, she notes, because "we talk about everything and everyone has so much to say." Their discussions include such subjects as premarital sex, the war in Vietnam, drugs, politics and social problems "with no holds barred."

The Bird youngsters — six girls and three boys ranging in age from 7 to 18 — may disagree "as much as they like" during these discussions, their father points out, and no attempt is made "to inhibit" their differences of opinion.

Both parents insist that these verbal exchanges always be "courteous" however. Personal insults aren't permitted, Dr. Bird declares, "and each person must always be given the chance to express his views before anyone else can step on them."

Autumn Wedding For Miss Davis

The couple's engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Davis of San Anselmo.

Merilly is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and California State University, San Francisco.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George McLoughlin of San Francisco. He was graduated from St. Ignatius High School and the University of Santa Clara with an engineering degree.

LATEST HIT

'Express Yourself' Show In New York

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The latest hit in town is playing on Fifth Avenue to children of all ages.

It's an "Express Yourself" show where visitors actually participate in the exhibit instead of just observing. The idea is one other galleries or exhibition centers can copy, if they can cope with the breezy informality such an exhibit produces.

The free show is the brainchild of Walter V. Swartz, director of the Hallmark Gallery, who last year staged a children's participation exhibit called "Kaleidoscope" at the gallery.

"We learned then that grownups as well as kids are looking for a creative outlet," said Swartz.

ALTHOUGH THE DO-it-yourself show, 13 projects in all, is planned to include adults, the day I visited the gallery participants in the main were children from just past toddler stage to their teens.

They were making collages from paper and fabric at one table, molding castles in sand at a couple of others, creating figures from play dough at still another, chalking words on a wall-wide crossword puzzle, penning graffiti on an "Opinion Wall," walking through a maze guaranteed to give any claustrophobe a new attack.

Among the most popular parts of the exhibition which will run through Sept. 13 are the formica pyramids where visitors with various shades of markers can pencil their greatest wishes, their greatest fears, and that "Opinion Wall."

"I'm afraid of a ghost," one child had written. "I'm afraid not to be loved," wrote another. Another expressed fears of "war, death, starvation, pollution, demoralization, overpopulation ..."

The wishes side of the pyramid included the desire to "be the youngest, richest kid in the world", "to be a ballerina," "More love, less hate," "I had a Bible," and of all things "corn pads." One youngster simply had written the whole "Roses are red, violets are blue" rhyme.

WHEN THE pyramids are filled, attendants simply wipe off the formica and the visitors can start a new slate.

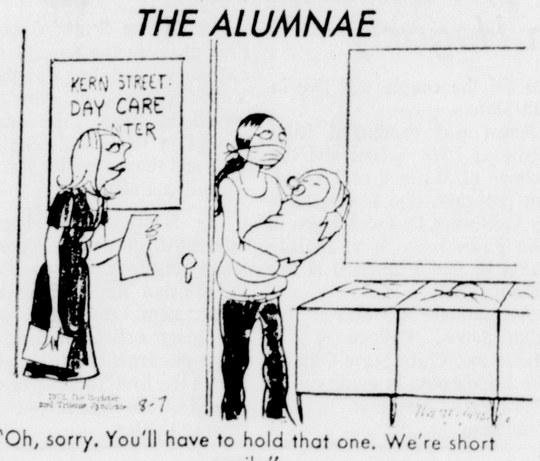

The graffiti gang really has a go at the "Opinion Wall," but one blessing at least—when the paper wall is filled, Hallmark attendants simply pull up a fresh sheet off the roll.

"Peace" and "Stop the War" motifs appear repeatedly on the wall. Some of the scrawls get pretty blue, some attempt at humor—"Your mother made you a homo; if I buy her the yarn will she make me one too?"

Serious, often quite good, poetry mixes with demands for "fewer summer camps", "more freedom in Girl Scout camps", "What this country needs is consciousness", overtones of politics such as "I do not wish to make any statement at this time", "Right on" signed off many of the scrawls.

Swartz who holds a bachelor's degree in art from Cooper Union in New York, has been with the gallery since it opened in 1964. Previously, he had been a designer for Hallmark. Have any scraps developed among the children over, say, building castles in sand boxes? "Not yet," said the director. But he still has until Sept. 13 to go.

THE ALUMNAE

"Oh, sorry. You'll have to hold that one. We're short a crib."

LYNN A. BAKER
Former Miss Marin

Lynn Baker, John Ross To Be Wed

The engagement of Lynn Alan Baker of Tiburon and John Francis Ross of Hanford has been announced by her parents, Durward Baker of San Francisco and Mrs. Roberta Baker of Tiburon.

Lynn, who was Miss Marin in 1970, is the sister of Mrs. Michael Heacock of Larkspur and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Johnson and Mrs. Sara Baker, all of San Francisco. She was graduated from Redwood High School and College of Marin and now attends California Polytechnic State University in San Luis Obispo. The future bride is past honored queen of Job's Jaughters and past DeMolay sweetheart.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Ross of Hanford are the future bridegroom's parents, and Jan Ross is his sister. He is a graduate of Hanford High School and Cal Poly.

Diana Deen, L. Ortegren Are Married

A reception at Maple Lawn in San Rafael followed the 2 p.m. wedding ceremony of Diana Thersa Deen and Leif A. Ortegren at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo yesterday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Deen of San Rafael, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Cossairt of Pacifica.

Mrs. Victor Ortegren of Pleasant Hill and the late Mr. Ortegren are the bridegroom's parents.

Mrs. Linda Cotten was the matron of honor and Merle Miller of Mill Valley was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Nancy Garcia of San Rafael; Mrs. Sharon Iribarne, and Elaine Deen, of San Rafael, and Mrs. Janet Hillard of Idaho, the bride's three sisters.

The best man was Jerry Whiting of Pleasant Hill. The ushers were the bride's brother, Robert Deen of San Rafael, Jeff Kish of Reno, Nev., Jim Ellis of Mountain View, Steve Lundgren of Pleasant Hill, Erik Disen, Placentia, and Michael Simking of Lake Tahoe.

The bride is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and of the College of Marin. She is employed by Dr. Gene Hallock in Santa Barbara.

The bridegroom was graduated from Pleasant Hill High School and the University of California at Santa Barbara. Mrs. Vicki Ellis of Mountain View is his sister.

The wedding trip was to Southern California. The couple will live in Santa Barbara.

LINDA ANN DALEY
Engaged to be wed

Ann Daley Engagement Announced

The engagement of Linda Ann Daley to Peter John Harrington of Oneida, N.Y., has been announced by Linda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Daley of San Rafael.

Linda, who is the sister of Jean and Denise Daley of San Rafael, is a graduate of San Rafael High School and attends the College of Marin.

Peter, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harrington of Oneida, N.Y. is serving as an electronics technician with the Navy at Point Mugu.

Peter was graduated from Oneida High School prior to Navy service. He is the brother of Raymond and Edith Harrington.

The couple are planning to be married early next year.

Fashion Originality- Is It Attainable Today

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

ROME — There are those who hold that — There are those who hold that the burden of history is so great that originality in the arts has become virtually unattainable. This analysis finds a just application to the demi-art of fashion as illustrated by the fall-winter collections in Rome. The designers appeared to be wobbling in the middle of a tightrope, cautiously imitating the recent past or timely experimenting with the uncertain future.

Italian high fashions is in a crisis stateqdue to labor disputes in the industry, and there are rumors that this may be the last season the collections are presented on their usual scale. The shows seemed to emanate an aura of decaying elegance, which the preponderance of murky or lifeless colors reflected.

Still, there were some positive signs, such as the presence of buyers from Alexander's in New York, who stayed away for the past three years, and are now responding to a felt need on the part of American women for a return to classic styles.

THE BASIC sihouette for the season is very full, soft, and flowing. Clothes hang away from and conceal the body, whether in a chemise dress, a tent coat, or a dolman sleeve. Even the skirts — yes, the suit is back — tend to be full, with many of them box-pleated for a jaunty, swingy effect. Jackets are most often loose tunics, boxes, or long sweater knits. There is some attention to the waist in the wrap coats and jackets, which are belted securely just at or above the midriff. These are almost as prevalent as their more bloated counterparts. Popular fabrics are wool plaids, tweeds, herringbones, casmeres, and gray flannel.

Valentino was of course the star of the collections and just as predictably offered the exceptions to the rules. He shunned both the dolman and kimono sleeves, the tent coat, and the baggy bodice in favor of high armholed, snug-fitting jackets and dresses. Most surprisingly he showed no pants, except in his boutique line, which virtually every other designer is still showing.

He emphasizes the full or flared skirt, cut on the bias in jersey, wool knit, or heavy wool and tops it with a finger-tip jacket over a shorter, belted safari style jacket (a la Yves St.-Laurent) or sweater jacket.

His colors are a wonderfully creamy sand, camel, and taupe, or less effective combinations of apricot and brown or cerulean blue and black. His brushed cashmere and melton coats are mostly wrap, some with dropped shoulders.

NEW LOOK — The basic silhouette for this fashion season will be full, soft and flowing.

THERE WERE a few other high spots during the week: Tiziani's variation on the suit jacket, fited at the waist and sleeves in a ribbed knit for a slimming effect, and Lancetti's pants, which he settles at the waistline, carries smoothly down to a slight uncuffed flair, and combines with a three-quarter coat.

Andre Laug deserves kudos for his double seams which he applies to the pleats of his dresses and skirts and continues into the bodice or jacket for a decoratively geometric effect. Heinz Riva has concocted some of this season's best looking dresses — jumper chemises with dropped shoulders falling gracefully over turtleneck sweaters. Biki, as always, remains the house for colorful, extravagant apres-ski wear.

The biggest disappointments were Mila Schoen (of Milan), who offered a drab collection of uninspired pants, suits and dresses, some with the most ponderous dolman sleeves, and Fabiani, famed for his coats, who takes fullness to the point of bulkiness — especially in his furlined raincoats. (A lot of fur was on view — as trim for jackets and coats and as lining, sometimes dyed in the macabre shades of orange, green, etc.)

In evening wear, recurrent motifs were slinky or romantic long black dresses, brittle metallic and lame prints, sportswear styles with jackets, exotic Persian and Chinese silks, and the perennial halter and/or backless gown. Lancetti dreamed up a beguiling variation on the short after-five dress in the style of a slip with a sequined bodice, and Valentino fared well with his lyrical laces. Knife pleated chiffons were also ubiquitous.

The most important look to emerge for evening was typified by Princess Irene Galitzine who adapted soft, billowy matte jersey and Qiana to pajamas with tunic or halter tops and full pants, or to toga styles. She pairs them with sequined jackets or very long sashes and fringed shawls.

CAPUCCI'S CLASSICAL togas and tunics evoke a similar mood, cascading in the filmiest of fabrics and the palest of colors. He also walks away with the revival honors for this season with his rediscovery of the art of pressed pleating. Capucci stumbled upon eight or nine turn-of-the-century machines that were used to create an accordion or waffle effect on fabric and restored them sufficiently so that his seamstresses could apply them to his shimmering, rippling taffeta dresses cut in Renaissance styles. The process involved clegningth rust off the machines and wasting yards of material until the method was perfected. Ittook about 15 days to make each dress, which required four times more fabric than usual and extra stitching to secure the pleats.

"In order to keep high fashion alive, we have to preserve the artisans and rediscover the old ways of doing things. The cleverest, most talented designer can't produce without these artisans and this heritage," commented Capucci fervently. When so many designers are stalling in the '20s, '40s, '50s, and even '60s, rather than hurtling into the future, perhaps there is something to be said for harking back further into the past.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Marriage May Not End Problem Of Overly-Jealous Boyfriend

DEAR HELEN:

I'm not a teenager, and naturally I'd like to be married, but I'm beginning to wonder:

After eight months of being engaged, my fiance is still so jealous I can't even talk to the husband of a friend when we're out as a foursome.

I've had to throw out all my dresses he feels are too short, and buy a one piece swimsuit because he doesn't want men seeing me so "bare."

When I have a lunch date with the girls at the office, he accuses me of meeting another man.

I realize that if he hadn't caught his ex-wife with her lover, he wouldn't have this problem, but when even psychiatry doesn't help, will my patience have a chance? In spite of therapy, he's getting worse.

He says marriage will put all those bad memories out of his mind. — WOULD IT?

DEAR W.I.:

More likely, marriage to him might put YOU out of your mind! If psychotherapy can't help, then I'd guess his problem didn't start with an unfaithful wife, nor will it end with a faithful one.

Would you really be happy in jail? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

How do you handle your wife's ex- husband who insists on being friends? When he stops in to see his children, he stays for dinner and spends the evening. He still depends on my wife for major decisions (one of the reasons for their divorce) and she "doesn't want to hurt his feelings," so she helps him work out his problems.

I am not jealous. There's no need for that. I just don't want him underfoot. Am I being unreasonable? — THREE'S A CROWD

DEAR THREE:

No! This man may never look for a new life as long as he has a former wife to "mother" him. Tell her this is carrying a friendly divorce too far! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Is it wrong to ask a close friend to replace an expensive record her little boy broke? This isn't the first time. She thinks he's old enough to work the stereo, and I was too late to stop him.

I got tired of this breakage so I suggested she buy a new record, and I haven't seen her since. I thought I was quite tactful about it.

Should I call her up and apologize for being mercenary or dun her again for the record? Half my friends say yes to the first, and half to the second. — SIX MONTHS SILENCE

DEAR SIX:

How about the third alternative? — Forget it.

An apology you don't mean would only make you more resentful, and a dun would get your nowhere. Who needs this kind of "record-breaking" friendship? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

"Shocked Straight" asked, "How can my nice suburban friends who seem so normal go in for mate-swapping?" She'd be amazed at the number —and types — of people who swing: professors, doctors, contractors, engineers, nurses, hairdressers, housewives, people from all walks of life.

My husband and I have been swinging for over a year now and we have a closer and more honest relationship than most straight couples. Of course there must first be a very stable bond, with deep trust and much love. A healthy, uninhibited marriage should be made stronger by sharing its joys with friends. — HONEST SWINGER

DEAR SWINGER:

Seems to me you swingers limit yourselves to one pursuit when the varied joys of social intercourse have so many more possibilities.

In fact,a good fast doubles game of tennis is also, "healthy, uninhibited" —and it lasts longer! — H.

Learning How To Buy Saves

Learning how and what to buy helped a Memphis housewife to save 29 per cent on her weekly supermarket bills and still put a good meal on the table, according to an article in the August American Home magazine.

Writer Glenda Collier did extensive research in libraries and with supermarket managers and butchers. She learned that shopping for meat late Saturday afternoon generally results in big savings.

With the supermarket closed on Sunday, many cuts won't sell on Monday because the fluorescent lights in the case make the meat appear dark. Eggs, though graded AA, A, or B have equal nutritive value. She saves by using the higher grades for frying, poaching and boiling, and the B grade in scrambled eggs or omelets.

Diane Craig Exchanges Vows With John Hegarty

Susan Diane Craig was married Saturday evening to John P. Hegarty Jr. at St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross, the church where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Craig of Greenbrae were married 21 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hegarty of San Mateo are the bridegroom's parents.

Lisa Ann Craig was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Gaby Obuchi of San Anselmo, Vicky Cimina of San Rafael, Mary Anne Michaels of Greenbrae and Mrs. Charles Kahler of Mill Valley.

Best man was Lloyd Boldeman of Los Altos. Dennis Whittaker of San Mateo, Ray Shurson of Santa Cruz, Phil Moralez of Sacramento and the bride's brother, Forrest Craig of Greenbrae, ushered.

Following a wedding trip to Carmel the couple will live in San Mateo.

Susan was graduated from Redwood High School and the College of Marin dental assisting probram. She is employed by California Dental Service in San Francisco. Mrs. Melvin Craig of San Francisco is her grandmother.

A graduate of San Mateo High School, College of San Mateo and Chico State College, the bridegroom is employed at Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Mother, Daughter Win Cake Honors

A mother-daughter team from San Rafael really "put the frosting on the cake" when they took top honors at the Napa Town and Country Fair Cake decorating contest earlier this week.

Mrs. Henry Scettrini won a first place in the novelty cake category, and her daughter, Virginia Scettrini, won first award in layer cake design, second in the sheet cake contest, and the award for the best overall use of colors.

The Marin women became interested in cake decorating when they took courses offered by the San Rafael Recreation Department, and later joined the Icing Artists of Marin, a cake decorating club, which meets the first Tuesday of each month at the Marinwood Community Center.

New Food Encyclopedia Gives Facts On Safety

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — A new book published this week seeks to fill a frequently expressed need for a readable encyclopedia of food chemicals.

It is called "Eater's Digest" and is written by Michael F. Jacobson, a former aide to Ralph Nader who is now co-director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a non-profit study group in Washington.

There have been increasing demands in recent years for such information so that people concerned about allergies or food safety can find the answers they are looking for.

Jacobson, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a doctorate in microbiology, makes a determined effort to avoid the pitfalls of what he calls "Poison in the Pantry" books which seem designed to scare people.

HE ACKNOWLEDGES that many chemicals serve a useful purpose without adding any significant risks. And he agrees that many people are glad to pay the extra cost and undergo the extra risk of some modern, convenience foods.

His main concern is with the large volume of chemicals and the lack of proof that many are safe in the quantities consumed by humans over a lifetime. He contends that most additives are used merely to enhance the profits of food manufacturers.

"All food additives help companies make money," he said, "and that, in a nutshell, is why additives are usually used."

The prime purpose is greater efficiency in processing, storage, distribution and marketing of food items.

The main part of the book consists of an alphabetical listing of 108 additives, with a description of each one and a discussion of its main problems and advantages.

In addition, there is a summary of food standards for 14 product categories, including poultry and meat products, dairy products and miscellaneous items. Since standardized foods are not required to list ingredients, this section presents information not known by many shoppers.

For the more sophisticated, there is a list of additives that have been banned and a partial list of chemicals "generally recognized as safe" by the Food and Drug Administration. The FDA is currently reviewing this list in response to critics who question the safety of some items on it.

JACOBSON RAISES doubts about the safety and usefulness of many chemicals. He also practices what he preaches. He says that while the book was being written, he filed petitions and complaints with the government "about possible hazards associated with violet and orange artificial food colorings, sodium nitrite and brominated vegetable oil."

He is particularly critical of artificial colorings, breakfast cereals and snack foods. Adding nutrients to breakfast cereals and cupcakes, he said, may make them more nutiritious but not necessarily wholesome. He says such products are "little more than vitamin-coated candy."

In view of the difficulty of avoiding many chemicals in the normal diet, what does Jacobson recommend for the careful consumer to eat? His own "rule of thumb" adds little to what any competent nutritionist would say:

Base your diet on fresh or frozen meat, poultry and produce, low-fat dairy products and whole grains, with variety to obtain balance. He would also avoid artificial colors and antioxidants such as BHA, but that is easier said than done.

Publisher of the book is Doubleday and Co. Inc.

Couple Is Married In San Rafael

Marriage vows were exchanged by Rebecca Angeli and Daniel Sturm at an 11 a.m. ceremony at the First Congregational Church in San Rafael on Saturday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Angeli of San Rafael. Her brothers are Michael and Henry Angeli, also of San Rafael.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sturm of San Rafael. He is the grandson of Mrs. Anna Eisenstadt of San Francisco and of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sturm of Orland. Daniel is the brother of Ted Sturm and Karen Walker of San Rafael.

The couple were attended by Katie Castellucci as maid of honor and Donald Perkins of Petaluma, as best man.

Rebecca is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and attended the College of Marin. She is employed by the Bank of Marin in San Rafael.

Daniel is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and of California State University, Chico.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Mr. Quiz:

I'm sure you know that a lot of people have birthdays but are afraid to admit it. For children, it's a big deal, but for older folks, we don't like to be reminded. In this youth-oriented society, why should anyone my age celebrate the fact he's getting older? Signed: Gloomy Over-30.

Dear Over-30:

Wake up, buster! You're only as old as you feel and you are getting prematurely old by negative thinking. It's great to be alive! And on your birthday, that's the reason for joy. Do you know what I did to celebrate my 50th birthday? Took the wife and kids backpacking 10,500-feet into the High Sierras. It was the best party I ever had, camped by a clear blue lake, under God's blue sky, encircled by John Muir's Range of Light. Some of the youngest people I know are over-80. Admit your age and celebrate!

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

Don Larsen (1929-), American League baseball player (Yankees).

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Last year Dr. Ralph Bunche, a Negro, was the highest American official in the United Nations.
2. Don Larsen pitched the only no-run, no-hit game in World Series history.
3. Monty Woolley refused to play "The Man Who Came to Dinner" because the role required him to be a crotchety and angry old man.

ANSWERS

1. True; 2. True; 3. False.

Redevelop Talk

The impact of a planned city redevelopment agency will be discussed at 8 p.m. Thursday in the community house among the Novato City Council and boards of Novato Unified School District, North Marin County Water District and Novato Sanitary and fire district.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Never Settle For Half Of The Pie—Try For It All

"That's the kind of luck I have come to expect," said South as he went down at four hearts. "I win about half as many finesses as players with normal luck." There wasn't a dry eye at the table.

CLUB ACTION

West opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace. South ruffed the second club, drew trumps with the ace and dummy's jack, and then finessed with the jack of spades.

West won with the queen of spades, and the defenders eventually got two diamond tricks. Down one, with a lot of moaning by South.

South can make the game if dummy's long diamonds can be established or if the spade finesse works. If he tries the spade finesse first, the diamonds are meaningless. If he tries for the diamonds first, he can switch to spades if the diamonds break badly.

TEST DIAMONDS

The correct line of play is to ruff the second club, draw one round of trumps with the ace, and then lead out the ace and another diamond. As soon as both defenders follow to the second diamond, South knows that the suit will break favorably.

East returns a spade, and South takes the ace. The finesse will not be needed. He draws a second round of trumps with the king and then gives up another diamond.

WAY TO DUMMY

East returns a spade, and South takes a king. Now he can get to dummy with the jack of trumps to discard the jack of spades on a good diamond.

New Procedure Reading Slated

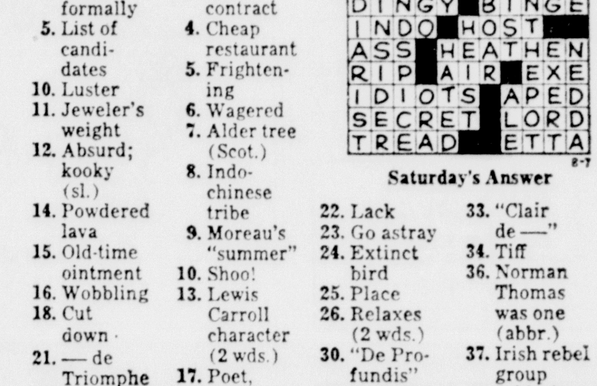

Marin County Board of Education will hear a first reading of its new procedure for future board appointments tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the county school office, Corte Madera.

Supt. Virgil S. Hollis will report on response to the recent grand jury report, and on educational goal-setting implementation.

A public hearing on part of the county school's service fund budget is also included in the agenda.

Sirhan Quits Death Row; Manson Not Yet Removed

Sirhan B. Uirhan, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassin, was moved out of Death Row at San Quentin Saturday along with five other condemned men.

But, while the other five murderers were released into the general prison population, Sirhan, 28, was placed immediately in the adjustment center under protective custody.

"He's in enough protection that we feel he won't come to harm from other inmates," said San Quentin information officer Joseph R. O'Brien. He added that Sirhan's demeanor has been very good since he was brought to Death Row after his marathon trial in Los Angeles.

Sirhan was kept isolated from other Death Row inmates because prison authorities feared the inmates might try to avenge the Kennedy slaying.

O'Brien said there was no immediate plan to transfer Sirhan out of San Quentin to another prison, as had earlier been predicted. The California Supreme Court reduced his death sentence on June 16 to a life term.

The row is being phased out with the abolition of the death penalty, and after Saturday's moves its population was down to 87 inmates today.

The five murderers moved Saturday were Dorman Talbot, Warren Saling, Bruce Bowersox, James Meeks, and William Archard. O'Brien said they were put into the East Block orientation area and are expected to stay there a week to 10 days before being phased into the institution.

These were the first previously condemned men to be transferred within San Quentin. Last month six murderers were sent to receiving centers for reassignment to other prisons.

And today San Quentin officials received word of transfers impending this week for three more inmates. O'Brien said John Archa and Sean Murphy will be sent to the California Training Facility at Soledad Central, and Ronald King has been ordered transferred to the California Men's Colony East at San Luis Obispo.

Death Row's other most notorious inmate, Charles Manson, is still there, and O'Brien said no order for his reassignment has been received.

Rezoning Asked In Rohnert Park

Plans to rezone 82 acres for a future subdivision will be considered at the Rohnert Park City Council meeting at 7 p.m. today.

Martin Stone has requested that land on the northwest corner of Snyder Lane and Rohnert Park Expressway be rezoned for single family home lots of 6,500 square feet each.

The council will also hear an appeal by the Bank of America for a seven-year use permit for a temporary bank. The planning commission approvedonly a 3.5-year permit, saying a permanent building should be completed in that time.

Four Dates Left For Rabies Shot Clinic

The last four in a series of rabies vaccination clinics for dogs will be held this week and next, according to the Marin County Department of health services.

The clinics, sponsored by the county and the Marin County Veterinary Medical Association, run for two hours each beginning at 6 p.m. A $3 fee is charged for each day.

The schedule for clinics is:

Tomorrow at 6 p.m. at Ross School, Lagunitas Road, Ross; Thursday at 6 p.m. at the Mill Valley corporation yard, Sycamore Avenue and Camino Alto; Aug. 15 at 6 p.m. at Marion School, 1705 Marion Avenue, Novato; and Aug. 17 at 6 p.m. at the San Rafael city schools administration building, Third and E streets.

So far this year, 3561 dogs have been vaccinated at the clinics — about 500 less than last year.

State law requires that dogs at least four months old be vaccinated against rabies and licensed.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, said a vaccine which is good for two years will be used at all clinics. Dogs vaccinated with the two-year vaccine last year need not be revaccinated this year, she said.

The deadline for obtaining a 1972-73 license is Aug. 31 after which a penalty will be charged.

Dogs brought to the clinics must be on leash and parents have been asked not to bring their children to the clinics as a safety precaution.

Odd Loot Is Downfall For Burglar

Leslie Tina Roos thought there was something suspicious about the man lurking in the bushes on Hawthorne Avenue, in Larkspur Friday afternoon.

She told Larkspur police it wasn't the fact that he was in the bushes — it was the fact that he was carrying a mink jacket, and an M-30 carbine.

Miss Roos, of San Francisco, startled the man, who fled, dropping the mink, the rifle and a coin collection.

Later investigation showed the items had been burgled from the home of Robert James Richards on Hazel Avenue, said police. Also missing was a color TV set, which was not found.

DRAMA REVIEW

By KAY KSANDA

The Marin Shakespeare Festival has a very hot property in its newest production "The Wizard of Oz." Produced in the open air theater at Dominican's Forest Meadows in San Rafael, the updated and glittering musical comedy is written for all ages, with plenty of laughs, and lots of pizzaz.

At its official opening Saturday afternoon there were as many dads as moms, lots of youngsters and plenty over 21. It was a hot day, the birds sang, the orchestra tuned up, and the fathers took off their shirts to sunbathe.

From the moment that Dorothy hit the stage, the moppets were either on the edge of their seats or standing up. They yelled at the Bad Witch, clapped for the Good Witch, and froze, awestruck, at the booming voice of the Wizard. The musketeers of the Yellow Brick Road, the Scarecrow, Tin Woodsman, and Cowardly Lion, are outstanding. The perfect combination of makeup, costuming, choreography, and acting is mind boggling.

Written and directed by Sharon McKnight, the production is not cute, not sugar sweet, but an all out, super-dooper great musical. She is assisted by a great choreographer, Teddi Kern, and her musical director, Bob Greenwood, from Redwood High School. The music, the familiar "Over The Rainbow," "We're Off To See The Wizard," etc. is all tied together by concert pianist John Balmer, who sits at a postage stamp piano amid the young Redwood High School orchestra.

Casting is absolutely tops, with everybody in professional form, pace, and projection from the littlest Munchkin, to Oz, "the great and powerful." The personalities that highlight the show are The Wicked Witch, and the Cowardly Lion (Connie Kennedy and Donovan Scott.)

Connie comes on like a slithering, glittering cobra with fluttering draperies, and lots of special effects. As she disapears in an explosion of pink smoke, the Good Witch drawls sarcastically that she's "tremendously theatrical." It's when she disapears, finally and forever, by melting under the strobe lights, thatshe stops the show. It's the adults that gasp. All kids know bad witches melt.

Donovan Scott as the Lion thumps about like a huge pussy cat. Christopher R, as the Tin Woodsman, is sweet and sad, while Michael Blake, as the Scarecrow, plays it wise and warm. Dorothy (Mary Cleere Haran) has as much dimension as a T.V. commercial, but is cute, bright, and convincing, and the children loved her. The Good Witch, Lynn Phillips moves and sings like an updated angel. Jim Haran is perfect as the Wizard. Everything's nice and tight.

Perhaps the star of the show is the young, 24-year-old girl in blue jeans and a sweatshirt, that strode up to the stage when the audience had gone. Creator and director, Sharon McKnight, had her attention upon every facet of the production. Fresh from her directing stint of "Jesus Christ, Superstar" (what a swtich) in San Francisco, she knows her medium well. "Oz" is partly from the movie, the earlier original 1937 Broadway play, and her own construction. The dialogue is camp for the grownups, and funny to the moppets.

Truly, it's a fast paced, entertaining show, and the best children's show I can remember seeing. It runs two hours, with one intermission. If the youngsters can stay awake until 10:30, take them at night, as the Witch melting is more scarey. Showtime is 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays, and 2:30 Saturday afternoons through Sept. 2. There is also a free puppet show at the ticket booth.

Neighbors you may not even know need your help.

They're still picking up the pieces. And the help they need (food, clothing, housing) costs cold hard cash.

The American Red Cross is spending well over 10 million dollars to do its job in helping others the way you yourself would help them.

Help us. Make it generous. And make it today. Please.

NURSERY — Remodeling supplies are scattered all over the lecture room of the old College of Marin chemistry building; the facility is already being remodeled to house the child care center, and will include an isolation room and a reception area besides the center proper.

PLAYGROUND — This overgrown parking lot on College Avenue will be transformed into a bi-level play area for College of Marin students' children. Volunteers are sought to help with cement laying and to install a child-proof fence round the perimeter. (Independent-Journal photos)

A CHILD CARE CENTER

College To Help Ease Burdens Of Young Parents

By PAT PERRY

Last semester Theo Simison of Mill Valley simply could not afford to pay baby-sitters so she hauled her 4-year-old son, Kilo, to her anthropology classes at College of Marin and dropped two other courses.

Come September, the young mother intends to take 12, maybe 15 units, while Kilo is cared for entirely free at the college child care center.

Multiply her situation many times over and you have the sum of the help soon to be afforded needy student parents, an on-campus child care center where a mother or father can leave their child while they attend classes.

Housed in the old chemistry building at the corner of College Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, the center will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday for children 2 to 5 years old.

To be eligible to enroll their child or children, the parent must meet federal and state poverty criteria (either be on welfare or eligible for it). It's expected many will be single parents, divorced, separated or unmarried, some will undoubtedly be men who can now attend college while their wife or girl friend works, and some will be young couples both taking classes.

Because the center is federally funded, at least 90 per cent of the parents must meet the welfare criteria, and will have to be certificated by the county social services department. The other 10 per cent will be borderline cases who may not meet the income limits, and may have to pay small fees.

Another condition of enrollment is that the parent must take an adult education class on "creative experiences with children" . . . a sort of parenthood primer.

The center is the outcome of years of planning and campaigning. Students began pushing for on-campus child care at least five years ago. Last year's application for federal funds for the project got bogged down in a morass of state bureaucracy.

Jared Sharon, director of community and college development, paid tribute to the excellent and persistent work of students in securing the center "while I wrote up the proposal I never had a better supporting cast than this."

Gregory Feron, last year's student body president has been particularly active in ramrodding the project through — although he gives most credit to former student Olga Nicholls.

Finally hearing this week that the center had been funded he described as "bliss — calling up all these people and telling them they can come to school in the fall because there's somewhere for their kids."

The center will operate on a $48,107 budget. Of this the largest sum, $23,480, is in federal funds. The college's adult education department contributed $3,055, the college's community services $6,709, the Marin County Schools Office $8,756, Associated Students $5,000, and $1,107 will come from parent fees.

Feron is urgently seeking volunteers with skills in carpentry, plastering, cement work and wood work to help since most of the money will have to go on equipment and supplies.

Volunteers should contact Sharon at the college's community services office. There is some urgency to the work since the center must be ready for opening when classes start in September.

Sharon said the child care center will be governed by the Marin County Board of Education through its preschool director, Joseph Denhart. He'll be assisted by an advisory committee of four student parents, an Associated Students representative, a college administrator and two instructors.

It's expected that the center will be a source of much enrichment for the college itself. Among disciplines that will be involved are nursery school theory, vocational nursing, child psychology and home economics.

Student volunteers to work in the center will also be sought in addition to the paid professional staff, and it is intended to keep a 5-to-1 child-adult ratio.

Student surveys in spring 1971 found 142 student parents had to pay for babysitting to attend classes; 156 student parents with 224 children indicated they would use a campus child care center. More than 90 per cent of these potential users met poverty criteria.

Feron explained that it's difficult to predict how many student parents will use the center. Some people fear it might get overloaded, since it will be geared for only 25 children at any one time.

"We don't know how many people have dropped out of school because of baby-sitting problems," he said, "but we do know that last semester a lot of kids were bringing their children to classes because they had nowhere to put them."

Sharon said the county social services department is being "wonderfully cooperative" in the venture and has agreed to certificate prospective parents concurrently with their college enrollment.

Similarly, the college has arranged for credit enrollments, which end Monday, to be held open indefinitely for student parents who intend to put their children in the center.

Which indicates a second area of urgency: anyone who considers he might meet federal and state poverty criteria and would like to attend College of Marin this fall while enrolling a child in the center should apply to the college admissions office as soon as possible.

"While it might appear at first glance that we are subsidizing people already on welfare it is essentially the opposite," said Feron. "We're trying to get them off the welfare rolls by helping them get an education and acquire marketable skills."

By JAY GOODWIN

Bathed in the filtered sunlight in Muir Woods, the Soviet Union's health minister criticized the use of birth control pills, saying they increase the likelihood of blood clotting.

He said data from the World Health Organization indicates that women taking the pill suffer from blood clotting five times as frequently as any other group of women.

The health minister, Dr. Boris V. Petrovsky, visited Muir Woods and Tiburon Saturday, with an entourage of Soviet health officials, as part of a 10-day tour of the Unitdd States.

Standing amidst giant redwoods, Petrovsky also said his government does not support abortions, except when medically necessary.

In the Soviet Union, he said, "We only perform abortions when they are medically indicated because we do not have a problem of family regulation."

Speaking through an American interpreter, he added, "We encourage an increase in the birthrate." He surveyed the wooded park, then said, "We too have a national park. . .Siberia. We are short of labor."

As Petrovsky returned to photographing the fallen trees and redwood burls, several Soviet and American officials said the Soviet Union has encouraged population growth since it lost about 20 million people during World War II.

One Soviet official estimated his country lost about 50 million people as a result of the war since most of those killed were young men and women who would have borne children during the post-war period.

While he said he does not favor abortions, the 64-year-old Russian surgeon saved his strongest criticism for birth control pills. "I personally think oral contraceptives cause more damage than abortions because the use of contraceptives is a mass phenomenon," he said.

Contrary to their widespread use in the United States, birth control pills are only used in the Soviet Union, "when a woman should not get pregnant for medical reasons," said Petrovsky.

Besides Petrovsky, the Russian delegation includes his wife, Madame Ekaterina M. Timofeeve, who is also a physician; Dr. Oleg P. Schepin, head of foreign relations for the Ministry of Health; Nicholas I. Blokhin, director of the Institute of Oncology and Gregory I. Sidorenko, director of the Institute of Hygiene.

Roger O. Egeberg, special assistant to the U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is serving as Petrovsky's American escort on the cross-country tour, which resulted from the historic agreement signed in Moscow in May by Soviet officials and President Nixon.

Before he departed Muir Woods, Dr. Petrovsky said, "I would like there to be more parks like this on earth because they're better for human health than any kind of medicine."

The delegation of health officials, translators, information officers and a sheriff's deputy then piled into three black limousines, drove up the winding roads and down through Mill Valley and spilled out of their cars once again on Main Street in Tiburon.

After a few more snapshots and a vodka-enhanced luncheon at the Caprice Restaurant in Tiburon, the motorcade headed off to San Francisco International Airport, where the delegation was to catch a plane to Los Angeles.

Harvey Teague (left) of the Marin County sheriff's department and the minister's wife, Ekaterina M. Timofeeve, a physician also. Lagunitas Schools Budget Hearings Set

The Lagunitas School District board will hold a formal public hearing on its proposed 1972-73 budget of $542,000 at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at San Geronimo Valley School.

The budget, which is not expected to increase the current tax rate of $4.46 per $100 assessed valuation, is up nearly $56,000 over last year.

The board will also receive a progress report on the Lagunitas playfield.

Marin City Reading Skills Class Slated

Reading, vocabulary, spelling, speech and composition will be taught 7 to 10 p.m., Mondays.

Dead Deer Deposited At City Hall

An irate San Rafael resident who threatened to dump a dead deer at city hall may have done just that Saturday night.

According to police, Patrick Lufburrow of 207 McNear Drive said Saturday that if a dead deer were not removed from his property he would place the animal's carcass on the assistant city manager's or city manager's desk Monday morning.

That call was made at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, police said.

At 8:30 p.m., police found a dead deer on the steps of city hall.

Officers said they told Lufburrow that the public works department was not able immediately to dispose of the carcass.

Prison Indians Hold Festival

Twenty American Indians from the western United States yesterday afternoon joined the 21 Indian inmates behind the walls of San Quentin Prison for an afternoon of Indian pageantry.

Tribal dancers in traditional dress performed the sword and shield ceremonial dance, a war dance and a dance contest to the beat of drums and to the chant of ancient tunes.

The San Quentin Pow Wow has been held every year since 1964. It was started by the late Walter Lasley, an American Indian who encouraged the development of American Indian culture at the prison.

'Magic Flute' Featured At Inverness

Soprano Gwen Curatilo, who has just returned to San Rafael from a year of performing in Germany, Spain, France and England, will be featured in the Mozart opera, "The Magic Flute," the major event in the eighth annual Inverness Music Festival.

The opera, in a semistaged production in English with piano accompaniment, will be presented Aug. 13 and 20 at 3 p.m. in the amphitheater adjoining St. Columba's Church. Sandor Salgo will direct.

The soprano sang six sessions with the San Francisco Opera Company to critical acclaim as Xenia in "Boris Gudonov," Barberina in "The Marriage of Figaro," Marianne in "Der Rosenkavalier" and Papagena in "The Magic Flute," among others.

She was particularly noted for her singing as Cio Cio San in "Madame Butterfly," for which she was chosen to sing in a Merola memorial concert in San Francisco's Stern Grove.

She also has a broad symphonic repertoire and was for several years soloist with the Bach-to-Mozart Group in the Mill Valley Candlelight Series concerts.

Other local singers in the opera will be soprano Margot Power and 15-year-old Elisabeth Engan.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling the festival office or by writing P.O. Box 2, Inverness.

Thieves Marked

MANILA (UPI)—Police authorities have devised a unique way of punishing pickpockets, bag-snatchers and their likes in San Fernando Pampanga province, 50 miles north of Manila. Police authorities require convicted pickpockets to wear front and back signs reading: "I am a pickpocket, beware of me".

Pop Singers' Marriage Ends

The seven-year marriage of singers Carolee and Thomas M. Gillespie of Bolinas was dissolved Friday in Marin Superior Court.

The two were known professionally as "Tom and Lee" and billed themselves as "contemporary pop" rather than folk singers. Beginning in 1962, they made numerous appearances in Bay Area clubs and at art and folk festivals. They made a number of records.

Settlement of child custody and property was reached out of court before the uncontested dissolution was ordered by Judge E. Warren McGuire.

Sex Crimes Plea Is Innocent

Ralph Melroy Hinkle, 55, of Lagunitas, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to two felony counts of committing sex crimes against 5-year-old and 14-year-old children at his home July 14.

Hinkle was arrested after parents of the two children complained to juvenile officers. He was freed from jail after posting $10,000 bail.

SAN RAFAEL SETS McKEON HEARING

This new look for the heart of downtown San Rafael —has been proposed for the old county courthouse site by the McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento. Viewed here from Fourth Street, the proposal includes an eight-story office building, a two-story office building and a multilevel parking structure. The project, which would require the demolition of the old courthouse annex, will come before the planning commission Aug. 22, according to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner. The firm, which has already put $10,000 down on the property, must pay the city $640,000 before Oct. 25 for the parcel in accordance with a county agreement, said City Mgr. James H. McCown.

Allende Suspends Top Policemen

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)— President Salvador Allende suspended the nation's two top federal police officials last night for alleged responsibility in a gun battle between police and peasants in which one person was killed and 11 wounded.

Allende removed Eduardo Paredes as police director-general and Carlos Toro as subdirector. Paredes, a 32-year-old psychiatrist, is a member of Allende's Socialist party. Toro, an electrical engineer, is a Communist.

Paredes and Toro were suspended pending the results of an investigation by a three-man panel into the incident Saturday during the "assault on the Moncada barracks" settlement on the outskirts of Santiago.

Police said one of the residents was killed and five peasants and six police wounded. More than 110 were arrested. Leaders of the community said police opened fire without provocation.

Residents of the shantytown are among the poorest in the capital area. Most live in wooden shacks without title to the land. The settlement is named for the Moncada Barracks in Santiago, Cuba, which Premier Fidel Castro assaulted July 26, 1953 to start the revolution in his island nation.

Fain Sentenced In Air Extortion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Alton A. Fain, man convicted of threatening to blow up airliners, was sentenced Friday to the maximum term of 20 years. The judge said he regretted the penalty was not more severe.

Fighting Continues By Ohio Democrats

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— The Ohio delegation that feuded at the Democratic National Convention last month went another round during the weekend when it met to choose four national committee members.

With Frank King, president of the Ohio AFL-CIO and head of the 153-member delegation at the helm here Saturday the balloting turned into a shouting match.

"I'm going to run this meeting in a business-like way with no child-like games and I won't have a repetition of the situation that made Ohio a national laughing stock and national scandal," King had said in opening the meeting.

When it was over, King declared as winners of the four seats on the National Committee Robert McAlister, chairman of Sen. George McGovern's Ohio campaign; Rep. Wayne Hays; Doris Rankin of Cincinnati, a McGovern delegate, and Ann Fleckner of Columbus, a backer of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey at the convention.

McGovern supporters leaped to their feet to protest when King awarded Hays a seat even though he polled fewer votes than state Sen. M. Morris Jackson of Cleveland, a McGovern backer.

As the arguments became more heated, King threatened to throw some delegates out of the meeting. Howard Fink, head of the Ohio McGovern caucus, said the Hays election would be appealed to the national committee.

King said he was going to "conduct this just like Larry O'Brien," the convention chairman, in making "decisions" on who went to the national committee.

King said his interpretation of the convention's Rule 23B was that committee members must fairly reflect the preference of delegates to the convention at the time they were elected.

King said Jackson represented McGovern interests and, therefore, both he and McAlister could not hold seats. Humphrey held more delegate strength than any other candidate.

In a caucus boycotted by the McGovern delegates at the Miami Beach convention, Humphreyites, led by King, elected two other national committee members. Ohio holds two other seats, with state party chairman William Lavelle and state party second vice chairwoman Esther Mayl of Dayton sharing one vote.

At the convention, the Ohio delegation passed on roll call votes time and again as the Humphrey and McGovern factions found little middle ground. King said the McGovern delegates made the 153 Ohioans "look like a bunch of rummies."

Revitalization Priority Sought

The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce has urged the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency to assign top priority to the revitalization of downtown San Rafael.

"Unless action is taken immediately to reverse a trend, sales may decline, resulting in decreased sales tax revenue," according to Jack E. Bucknum, chamber president.

He said that the economic health of the downtown business community was vital to the success of the city's redevelopment plans.

Priorities within the downtown should be given to traffic circulation, parking and beautification, he said.

Sailor Accused Of Sabotaging Carrier

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 21-year-old sailor was in custody today for allegedly tossing junk into one of the engines of the USS Ranger last month, causing a half-million dollars damage.

Patrick D. Chenoweth, Puyallup, Wash., a fireman, was held for pretrial investigation, Navy officials said Sunday.

DeMont Wins 1,500 Freestyle In World Record Time

I-J Special Report

CHICAGO — Let the date be recorded. On Aug. 6, 1972, Rick DeMont of Terra Linda became the fastest distance swimmer in the history of the world.

DeMont, a 16-year-old Terra Linda High School senior, demolished the world record for the 1,500-meter freestyle last night, en route to a victory at the United States' Olympic trials here.

He bettered by more than four seconds the standard of 15:57.1 by John Kinsella of Indiana University, with the staggering time of 15:52.91.

Trailing DeMont were Doug Northway of Pima, Ariz., and Mike Burton of Arden Hills, Calif. Kinsella, the pundits' pre-meet selection to win the face, finished sixth.

DeMont was aided by the fast pace set by Kinsella, who faded at the 700-meter mark. Representing the Marin Aquatic Club, DeMont then took over and kept going, pulling further ahead of the world record pace at every lap.

His 500 "splits" en route: 5:18.7, 5:18.8, 5:15.4.

"It's hard to put into words, I'm sort of dazed," his coach, Don Swartz, slowly commented following the event. "It just felt great for me as a coach, though, because he was ahead of the world record pace and you know he's going to win and set the record — like watching the ball on a roulette wheel fall in your slot."

The youthful Terra Lindan will now swim two events in Munich, having qualified in the 400-meter free Friday evening.

The timetable for DeMont's endeavors at the Games calls for the trials and finals of the 400 and Friday on Sept. 1, with the prelims and finals of the 1,500 coming Sept. 3 and 4, respectively.

Swartz says this will be a better timetable for his protege. "With the two 400 races followed immediately by the 1500s, he was pretty wiped out. He'll have a day of rest between the 400 and the 1500 in Munich.

Swartz, only in his fifth year of swim coaching, zestfully related that the American Swimming Coaches Association extended to him a late invitation (after Rick's 400) to speak on training at the World Coaches Clinic in Montreal following the Games. Like a gourmet cook, though, he won't divulge many of his top secrets. "I'll be sufficiently vague," he grinned.

DeMont's picture appeared on the August cover of Swimming World magazine, a full-color action photo that proved not to be a jinx as other magazine cover-stories, especially Time, have proved in the past to be.

What about DeMont's Munich chances? "He's got a shot at a medal," Swartz mused. "There'll be Northway, and Brad Cooper and Graham Windeatt of Australia right in there. Burton probably had to peak down all the way, and he may not be able to stay in shape."

Swartz estimates Rick can go a little faster. "He swam to win the race, figuring that if he did that, the record would take care of itself."

Although DeMont was "shaved down," (legs and arms) Swartz says he did not cut his hair, which would further chop his time.

In the trials the day before, DeMont just barely skimmed into the Sunday final, clocking 16:11.1. One second slower, and he wouldn't have made the finals at all.

Two other world records were shattered and another tied last night to complete selection of the U.S. Olympic swimming team. A total of 11 world records were bettered in the five-day trials.

Jo Ann Harshbarger, 15, Seattle, cracked Australian Shane Gould's world record in the women's 800-meter freestyle in 8:53.85. Karen Moe of Santa Clara, Calif., sped to the women's 200-meter butterly mark in 2:16.62.

Gary Hall, 21, an Indiana University senior, who holds the world record for the 400-meter individual medley at 4:30.81, won the 200-meter and tied the world record of 2:09.3 set two years ago by Gunner Larsson of Sweden.

Player Sets Higher Goal

"This is my sixth major championship at the age of 36," Player said Sunday after making his latest one the Professional Golfers' Association Championship. "My ambition is to win the most."

The 54th PGA crown went to Player by two strokes over Jim Jamieson, who admitted he felt the pressure, and Tommy Aaron.

A final-round 71 left Player at 281, one stroke over Oakland Hills' par, while Jamieson had a round of 70 and Aaron 71.

"Ben Hogan is my golf idol," Player said after beating the field and the rain, and coming closest of anyone to beating the golf course he called " the best in America."

"He mentioned how tough this course was and how tough Carnoustie (in Scotland) was. Now, we have both won championships on the same courses."

First place in the $225,000 tournament was worth $45,000 to the South African, whose pride was stung earlier in the week by a story suggesting he wasn't among the best any more.

"It really means something to win a major tournament, and when you work hard, it means more," said the man who runs two miles a day and then does a half-hour's worth of exercises to keep in shape.

Jamieson, 29, had the lead at one point late in the tournament, being even par while Player was one over.

"I realize I blew it in the last three holes," the chunky winner of the Western Open said in his usual cheerful fashion. "It was the pressure. The pressure bothers me more putting than anything else."

He lipped an eight-footer which would have given him a par on the 408-yard, par-four 16th; two-putted from 20 feet on the par-three 17th, and had a three-footer go wide to the right on the killer closing 18th hole. Jamieson and Aaron each got $20,850 for splitting second and third money.

Sam Snead had a last round which was incredibly only nine strokes higher than his age of 60 and headed a group of three at four-over 284. Snead, Ray Floyd and Bill Casper got paid $9,275 apiece.

Jack Nicklaus, who had his Grand Slam bid broken by Lee Trevino in the British Open, lost his attempt to break a tie with Bobby Jones for the most major championships won. Nicklaus, who has 13 wins in the big ones, finished with a 72 for a 287 total.

Trevino, a pre-tournament co-favorite with Nicklaus, had a 71

Hamilton Duo Wins Boxing

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — It was repetitious and maybe a bit painful, but otherwise the final stage of the U.S. Olympic boxing trials here Saturday was perfectly fine as far as two Hamilton Air Force Base boxers were concerned.

The two — bantamweight Ricardo (Ricky) Carreras and welterweight Jesse Valdez — decisioned their opponents in challenge bouts to insure a trip to Munich Aug. 26 as part of the U.S. Olympic team.

It was precisely the same thing the two boxers did last month, in the original trials in Fort Worth, Tex., but the Olympic moguls created the challenge bouts to make sure no fluke winners were sent to the Olympics. If the challenger had won Saturday, a third bout would have determined the representative.

Other winners included Tim Dement, 17-year-old student from Bossier City, La., who stopped flyweight Jesse Trujillo of Denver in three rounds, and Duane Bobick of Bowlus, Minn., a heavyweight who defeated Larry Holmes of Trenton, N.J., by disqualification.

Hamilton heavyweight Nick Wells of Fort Worth finished second to Bobick in the Fort Worth trials and was selected to oppose him in the challenge bout, but was unable to do so because of injuries sustained in that fight.

49ERS' NOLAN:

We Need Work On Pass Rush

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) —The San Francisco Forty Niners lost their first game of the exhibition season on a last-minute touchdown and the New York Jets gained only 162 yards passing, and today coach Dick Nolan said the team will have to work hard on its pass rush.

"We gave them too much time to throw the ball," Nolan said of the New York quarterbacks, "and while I was pleased with a lot of things we did I'm disappointed in our pass rush. We're going to work extra hard on it this week."

The Jets rallied in the last 33 seconds to score the deciding touchdown in a 17-10 victory at the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday night, with John Riggins going 26 yards for the winner.

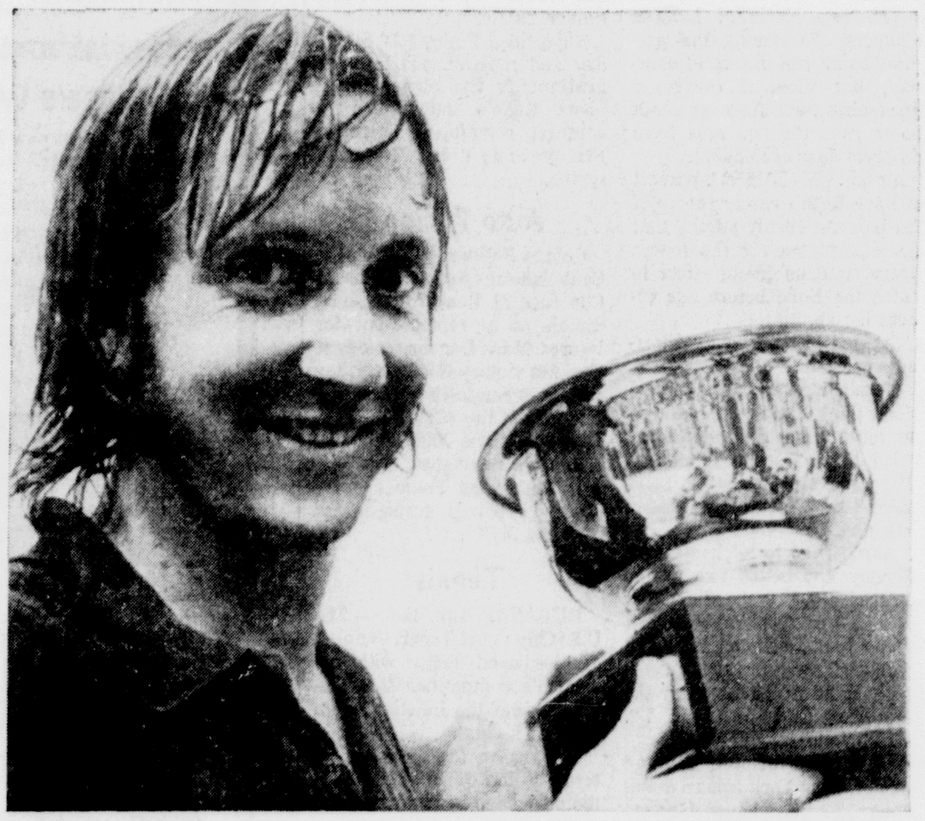

It was a game in which the Forty Niners never were behind until that score by Riggins as Steve Spurrier, who went nearly all the way, showed he can do the job. Steve hit on 21-of-36 passes for 268 yards and one of his completions was a 47-yard bomb to Jimmy Thomas for San Francisco's only touchdown.

A 25-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett accounted for the only other San Francisco points while in addition to Riggins, the Jets scored on a 30-yard pass from Bob Davis to Eddie Bell and a 40-yard field goal by Bobby Howfield.

Naturally, the Niners wanted to win the game but Nolan put every available man into the game. The only notable absentees were John Brodie, top draft choice Terry Beasley, and defensive end Cedrick Hardman.

Hardman is just now coming back from off-season knee surgery and won't be able to play until the first regular season game, if then. So, it becomes important for San Francisco to find someone who can put a little more pressure on enemy passers until Hardman is ready.

This week—actually Sunday—the Forty Niners play host to the Cleveland Browns at Candlestick Park.

FIRST PRIZE — Bob Lutz, of Tiburon, was all smiles yesterday as he held the trophy he won for defeating Tom Okker in the finals of the 45th annual U.S.Pro Tennis Championships in Chestnut Hill, Mass. Lutz beat Okker 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, to become the first American since 1962 to win the tournament.

Upset Win Earns Lutz U.S. Crown

Only the wry smile on his face told that he had just won the 45th annual U.S. Professional Tennis Championships and the $10,000 first prize.

'BIGGEST WIN'

"I guess you'd have to say it was the biggest win of my career," said the 24-year old Marinite, referring to his sizzling 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4 upset of Tom Okker of the Netherlands in the finals of the $50,000 tournament Sunday —making Lutz the first American champion since 1962, and ending nine years of Australian domination.

It was a fitting end to a spectacular march through the tourney for the unseeded Lutz who knocked off three of the world's top players on the way to the finals —top-seeded John Newcombe, five-time champion Rod Laver and 1971 finalist Cliff Drysdale.

MATCH POINTS

Lutz had to save two match points against Newcombe in his first-round match, which was decided by a tiebreaker in the third set, and fought off four more match points in a similar

Madden Pairing For 12 Raiders

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — The first game is history for the Oakland Raiders, and for 12 of them the final report card.

The Raiders, behind Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler, beat the New England Patriots 31-24 Saturday night and went right back to work at their training camp today to get ready for the Baltimore Colts On Aug. 14.

Coach John Madden, satisfied with his veterans but still in doubt about a lot of his rookies, must cut the squad to 60 players by Tuesday, which means 12 men will go.

Three rookies a cinch to stay off their first game performances are wide receivers Cliff Branch and Mike Siani and defensive back Skip Thomas. The three came in for praise from Madden, who said it's nice to win the exhibitions but looking at players in action is the real important thing.

"We're not ready to open the season," said the Raiders' coach, "But that's what exhibitions are for—to get ready and nothing else."

Lamonica played the first half and completed 4-of-15 passes for 105 yards while Stabler connected on 5-of-10 in the second half. Branch caught one of Stabler's throws for a touchdown and had two catches in all for 40 yards. Siani had one catch for 11.

Thomas made an interception on Brian Dowling of Yale, the Pats' backup quarterback, and ran it back for 16 yards.

Madden also liked what tight end Ray Chester and wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff showed him and the running of Pete Banaszak, Clarence Davis and Don Highsmith came in for praise. Highsmith scored two touchdowns and Banaszak one. The other Raiders points came on a 17-yard field goal by George Blanda.

However, it was a missed 51-yard field goal by Blanda that upset Madden. On that one, which was short, Ricky Harris took the ball on the eight and ran it 92 yards for a Pats score.

"There is no excuse for things like that," said Madden. "It shows we have a lot of work to do, especially on defense."

Good To Be Back For Giants' Willoughby

The San Francisco Giants' right-handed pitcher, just recalled from Phoenix when Sam McDowell was placed on the disabled list, went the distance for his first big-league victory Sunday as the Giants salvaged a doubleheader split by beating Houston, 6-2, after the Astros, had pounded Jim Bar and Don McMahon for a 7-3 win.

Willoughby stopped the Astros on eight scattered hits while the Giants supported him with 11 hits, including homers by Chris Speier, Ken Henderson and Dave Kingman.

The victory snapped a five-game San Francisco losing streak and a four-game Houston win streak. Despite the split, the Astros gained a half-game on the Cincinnati Reds in the national league west and now trail by five games.

Tom Griffin gave up seven hits and the first four San Francisco runs while dropping his third decision in six games. Five Houston pitchers fanned a total of 16 Giants during the doubleheader.

Lee May doubled and singled, drove in two runs and scored two while pacing the Astros in the opener. Johnny Edwards added three hits and Roger Metzer, Cesar Cedeno and Jim Wynn had two hits each.

Barr was touched for 11 hits in seven innings and was the first game loser (4-5) while Larry Dierker, with help from Jim Ray over the last 2⅓ innings, was the winner and now is 10-6.

Oakland Splits, White Sox Gain

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—The Oakland Athletics, with the Chicago White Sox gaining ground on their hold on first in the American League West, take on the Kansas City Royals tonight with Jim Hunter (14-4) on the mound.

The Athletics lost another game off their narrowing lead in the division when they dropped the second game of a doubleheader Sunday to the Minnesota Twins at Bloomington, Minn.

Rookie Dave Goltz pitched a six-hitter and Rod Carew scored two runs as the Twins won the second contest 5-1 after Oakland scored three in the top of the 13th to win the opener 6-3.

The A's dropped three games of their four-game series to the Twins and now lead Chicago by only three and a half games.

The first game was highlighted by Harmon Killebrew's 19th home run that led off the ninth against Rollie Fingers. The ball traveled 407 feet to left-center into a strong wind.

The homer gave Killebrew 534 for his career, tying him with Jimmy Foxx for fifth place on the all-time homer list, two behind Mickey Mantle.

Joe Rudi had three hits and two RBIs for Oakland in the first game, won by Darold Knowles. Rudi also had two hits in the second game and finished the four-game series with 10 hits in 17 at bats, raising his league-leading batting average to .326.

Mathews In, Harris Out With Braves

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Luman Harris was fired today as manager of the Atlanta Braves and Eddie Mathews, a team coach and former slugging third baseman, was named to replace him.

The announcement was made in Cinrinnati by Bill Bartholomay, president of the Braves, and Eddie Robinson, director of player personnel.

They said Mathews has been signed to a contract which extends through next season. Robinson, who had been carefully evalutating the team for the past two months, strongly recommended that the change be made, the Braves announced.

The Braves have lost seven of their last eight games. They have been hurt throughout the season by weak pitching and mediocre fielding and have never been able to rise above .500.

Mathews, 40, the first base coach, slugged 512 home runs in his major league career. Most of his playing time was with the Braves in their former homes, Boston and Milwaukee. He played two seasons for the Atlanta team in the Southern Association in 1950 and 1951.

Harris, 57, a drawling Alabama native, had one successful year at Atlanta. In 1969 his Braves won the Western Division title but were beaten by the New York Mets in the playoff for the league crown.

The Braves were fifth in the league in 1968, fifth in the division in 1970 and third last year.

Harris pitched six years in the majors in the 1940s.

Harris also managed one year at Baltimore and two seasons at Houston before coming to the Braves.

Rumors that Harris was to be fired had circulated in Atlanta almost all season.

Frey Pitches No-Hitter In DiMaggio Game

Gene Frey pitched a no-hitter yesterday to give the Italian Club a 4-0 victory over Villa Builders and keep it abreast of Toby's Truckers in the torrid South race in the Joe DiMaggio League.

Frey struck out 10, walked two and saw one baserunner reach on an error. It was the second no-hitter of the year for Frey, who threw one for Redwood High in a non-league baseball game in March.

Italian Club and Toby's are tied for the South lead at 10-1-1.

Gimeno's Victory Ties Davis Cup

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI)—Veteran Andres Gimeno today beat young Harold Solomon, 6-3, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2 to level the score at 2-2 in the Davis Cup interzone semifinal between Spain and the United States.

Advancement to the final round against the winner of the other semifinal between Australia and Romania hinged on the result of the last singles match between Wimbledon champion Stan Smith and Spain's Juan Gisbert.

It was the second victory in the series for Gimeno who beat Smith in four sets Saturday.

The balding, 35-year-old veteran had originally been dropped from the team by Spanish captain Jaime Bartroli, but was reinstated after top-ranked Manuel Orantes pulled a muscle in practice.

Outgunning and outsmarting 19-year-old Solomon time and again, Gimeno was off to a fast start, winning the first five games in a row —the fifth with straight four aces —before Solomon notched his first games with a series of lobs.

Gimeno, playing on home ground at the slow clay court of Barcelona's Royal Tennis Club, romped through the second set with equal ease with his powerful serve and well-placed volleys.

Solomon, from Silver Spring, Md., came back briefly in the third set, successfully pinning Gimeno to the baseline and forcing the Spaniard to play his own unusual game.

With his characteristic two-handed grip the young American varied the pace, alternating slow lobs with precision sideline drives to take the set 6-2.

Koufax Leads List Of Hall Inductees

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. — Former pitching stars Sandy Koufax, at 36 the youngest inductee ever, Yogi Berra, Early Wynn, Fairfax's Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, and four other baseball greats were officially enshrined today in baseball's hall of fame.

Also inducted with the three most recently retired players, were Buck Leonard. Three others honored posthumously: Ross Youngs, Josh Gibson and former American League President Will Harridge.

Koufax, forced to retire after the 1966 season because of an arthritic left elbow, led the National League five straight years in posting the lowest earned run average, hurled four no-hitters in as many differnet seasons, won the Cy Young Award three times and was named the NL's most valuable player once.

IN BASEBALL

Stargell, Aaron In Good Form

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Willie Stargell and Henry Aaron are a perfect example of two men with different philosophies who achieve the same result.

The two National League sluggers are among the premier home run hitters in baseball, but when it comes to discussing their theories about home runs the two men have different lines of thinking.

Aaron, who is in hot pursuit of Babe Ruth's career record of 714 homers, openly admits that he is swinging for the fences every time up in an effort to catch the Babe before age erodes his abilities.

Stargell takes a vastly different approach.

"When I go up to the plate I don't think home run. I've never hit a home run yet when I tried to," says the Pittsburgh Pirates' slugger. "Usually when I try I make some kind of mistake."

Aaron tried to hit home runs Sunday and belted two as the Braves defeated the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in 10 innings. Stargell didn't try to hit home runs and walloped three as the Pirates took a doubleheader from the Montreal Expos 8-0 and 7-2. Which philosophy is better?

In other National League games, New York trounced Chicago 12-2, St. Louis blanked Philadelphia 6-0, Los Angeles defeated San Diego 6-0, and San Francisco salvaged the nightcap of a doubleheader with Houston 6-2 after the Astros won the opener 7-3.

The Chicago White Sox won a doubleheader from Texas 10-1 and 7-1, California took two from Kansas City 4-3 and 3-2, New York swept Milwaukee 3-0 and 6-4 in 10 innings, Baltimore routed Boston 11-2, Cleveland beat Detroit 2-1, then lost 6-5, and Oakland beat Minnesota 6-3 in 13 innings then lost 5-1 in American League action.

More Baseball

CHICAGO — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley said he was fined and reprimanded by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn not because he was wrong but because what he said was "made public."

Kuhn fined Finley $500 Saturday and reprimanded him for statements the owner made about Kuhn's intervention in contract negotiations between Finley and Vida Blue last spring.

Auto Racing

George Follmer, who won the Canadian-American Challenge Cup race at Road Atlanta last month as a replacement for injured Mark Donohue, made it Can-Am victory No. 2 yesterday with a green-to-checkered flag triumph in the $83,000 Buckeye Can-Am at the Mid-Ohio Road Course in Lexington, Ohio.

In both wins Follmer drove Roger Penske's turbocharged Porsche 917-10.

Tennis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The U.S. Clay Court Tennis Championships open today with the women's competition threatening to steal the limelight from the men's singles.

The reason for the extra interest in the women's events is the presence of two outstanding performers in Australian Evonne Goolagong and 17-year-old Florida star Chris Evert.

The women's field also will include Australia's Margaret Court, who defeated Miss Goolagong yesterday to win the Western Women's singles title at Cincinnati, Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Ga. — After being down match point, Rosemary Casals of San Francisco came back to take 32 of the last 37 points and defeat Francoise Durr of France, 6-7, 7-6, 6-0, to win the Virginia Slims Tennis Tournament.

Jermane's Rise In Marin Golf Circle

(Second of a series)

Since moving to Marin County a year and a half ago, Mike Jermane has risen to the top among local golfers. Last month he annexed the Marin Country Club championship, which gives him home course advantage for the 1972 Marin County Tournament of Champions.

"Sure I think there's a home course advantage, in terms of knowledge of the course," the 29-year-old Jermane says. And his knowledge of the par 72 Novato layout where the tourney of champs will be played Sunday must be rated extensive.

He defeated Frank Conti, 3 and 2 for the club title, but more impressive was a 1 up victory over 1971 tourney of champs titleholder Mat Palacio Jr.

Jermane, a five-handicapper, became a member of Marin C.C. after moving to Marinwood from San Francisco a year and a half ago. it is his first membership in a club, and of course, his first club championship.

Jermane first took up golf at the age of 12, and continued to play while attending San Jose St. College as an advertising major. At that time he even considered a professional career in golf, at least on the country club level.

Now Jermane works as a representative of the DeTuy Orthopedic Applicance Co. His job allows him to get to the golf course two or three times a week, so he'll be in good practice when he takes on the champions of Marin's five other golf courses in the tourney of champs.

Snap-On Softballers Notch 9-8 Triumph

Stu Clemons and Mike Gaffney hit back-to-back home runs in the sixth inning to give Snap-On Tools a 9-8 victory over North Coast Distributors in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league game yesterday at Albert Park.

In other action, Deming's Tires edged Fabulous Aliens, 5-3, and Marin District walloped Belly Whompers, 16-6.

Knickerbockers Grab 12-1 Win

Pitchers Dennis Bueler and Lenny Hoffman gave up just one hit apiece while Tim Bowen hit a three-run homer and John Sjoblom a solo shot as the C. L. Moore Knickerbockers of Novato defeated the Sacramento Falcons yesterday, 12-1, in a semi-pro baseball game at Novato High.

The Knickerbockers improved their Sacramento Rural League record to 9-2 and will meet league-leading Lodi (10-2) Thursday night in Lodi in a key game.

Gold Issues Serve As Inflation Hedge

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband and I are interested in buying South African gold stocks. We are concerned with inflation and are interested in high income. What do you think of Blyvooruitzicht Gold and Driefontein Gold Mining? — W.L.

A. With worldwide monetary conditions continuing unstable, shares of gold mining issues, since Americans are prohibited from buying gold outright, are a justifiable inflation hedge.

However, the price of free market gold has moved almost vertically since the first of the year from about $43 to $66 an ounce on the London Metal Exchange. This rise has carried over to stock prices as well — gold mining companies have tacked on about 50 per cent to their value, pushing many to new highs.

Free gold price reflects the balance between supply and demand. With the spread between demand and supply apparently broadening, the only way prices can go is up, according to most experts.

South Africa, which produces 78 per cent of the free market gold, precipitated the upsurge in price when it announced that reserves were being built up and sales on the free market were no longer required under the IMF agreement. Demand for gold from inflation-conscious Europeans, who are estimated to hold 5,000 tons of the yellow metal, is not expected to abate.

On the contrary, some estimates of a 500 per cent increase in demand from this sector have been expounded. Industrial use worldwide will probably remain constant — Japan is lifting all restrictions on this type of use as of next April.

Supply may get a boost from low-grade mines coming onstream, since at the higher price level, low-grade ore can be milled profitably. Another source of metal, the Soviet Union, annually produces 150 tons more than it needs. Nonetheless, offsetting factors such as old mines being exhausted and continued hoarding should keep demand higher than supply.

Either of the two issues, ADRs traded OTC, would be suitable. Dividends after the 15 per cent South African withholding tax are currently $1.37 a share for West Driefontein and $0.27 for Blyvooruitzicht.

Prices On Good Side At Opening

Continuing favorable economic news was credited for the firmer tone of the market. Recent substantial gains came with an outpouring of favorable second quarter earnings reports, and sharp increases in factory orders and inventories. And, analysts said, there remained overriding optimism concerning the course of the Paris peace talks.

Glamor stocks moved in both directions, but several showed substantial gains. IBM jumped 3 1-2, Corning Glass 2 1-2.

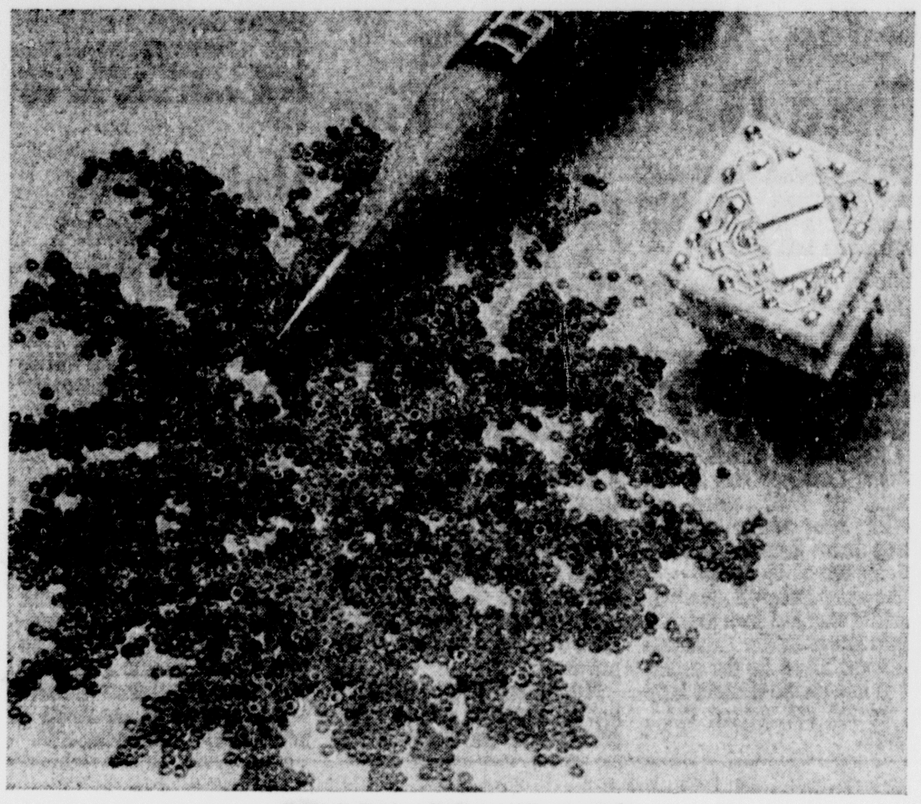

City Stores was the most active NYSE stock in the morning, losing 1⅜ to 5⅜ on 52,300 shares. The firm gave no reason for the sharp decline.

Prices also moved slightly higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Mobile Home stocks took a beating on the Big Board in the first two hours. A report in the Wall Street Journal said the industry was in for a decline compared with previous quarters. Among the losers, Skyline fell 3, Fleetwood Enterprises 1 7-8 and Redman Corp. 1 1-2.

Steels were firm, motor stocks mixed.

Chemicals were paced higher by Dupont, up 1 7-8 and Monsanto, up 1 1-2.

PENCIL-POINT SIZE

This pencil point shows the relative size of a mounted silicon chip — about one-eighth-inch square — containing 1,024 microscopically small monolithic circuits used in the main store of new IBM computer systems. They're the most compact main storage circuits ever used by IBM. When encased in tiny four-chip modules, 4,096 circuits provide same data storage capacity as do these tiny ferrite cores, strung on wires for use in conventional computer main storage.

Accounting Series Slated In October

Accounting and its many applications for the businessman and the individual taxpayer will be discussed in a series of public meetings at Dominican College in San Rafael during October.

The conferences, to be held on Oct. 11, 12 and 13 from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m., are sponsored jointly by the North Bay chapter of the Society of California Accountants, Marin County Chamber of Commerce, San Rafael Independent-Journal, and Dominican College.

Each program will consist of three 20-minute talks followed by a written question and answer period and will be moderated by Ernest T. Stair San Rafael accountant.

The exact topics for discussion are still under consideration. Among those recommended are:

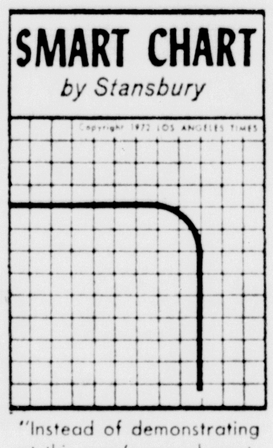

Public Accountant and the Small Businessman, Public Accounting as a Career for You, Public Accountant and the Farm Owner, Financial Reporting for Small Business, Taxes and You, 1972 Federal and State Tax Law Changes and Who Gets the Benefits, Special Tax Breaks for People Over 65, Tax Breaks Now from Estate (Life) Planning for the Future, Tax Shelters, Saving Cash by Cutting Taxes, and many others.

The North Bay chapter of the Society of California Accountants, headed by President Edward Pierce of San Rafael, is conducting a public poll to see what topics are most in demand.

Redwood Bank Has Record Six Months

Redwood Bank in San Rafael increased its deposits by 30 per cent and loans by 22 per cent during the first six months of this year, compared with the same period last year.

President Bryon W. Leydecker reported to shareholders that net earnings for the first six months reached a record high of 95 cents per share, compared with 85 cents last year.

McDonald's Reports Record Earnings

OAK BROOK, Ill. — McDonald's Corporation, the restaurant chain, reported record earnings for both the first half and second quarter ended June 30.

Earnings for the first six months of 1972 totaled $16,902,551, up 42 per cent over $11,920,006 in the 1971 period. Earnings per share increased 42 per cent to 44 cents from 31 cents a year ago.

San Rafael Motorcycle Agency Is Moving To A New Location

Wise

Dearth

Anthony

Dahlstrom

Harley Davidson of Marin will move into new quarters at the corner of Bellam Boulevard and Lisbon Streets in East San Rafael about October.

The motorcycle agency, now located a block away at 105 Verdi Street, was founded in 1967 by Kevin and Dana Dearth. Dearth said the agency outgrew its present site because of expanding business.

He will move into a new building which is being built by Don R. Presley of San Rafael at 125 Bellam Boulevard. Contractor is Al Villa of Novato.

Dearth spend four years with the Seebees in the Philippines before joining his parents at the Northwestern Savings and Loan Association (now Fidelity Savings and Loan) in 1956. He was with the savings and loan for 11 years before opening his motorcycle agency.

SON-MAR Termit Control has just opened for business at 1064 Machin in Novato, next to Hussman's Refrigeration.

Prioprietor is Robert (Pat) Pauley of Novato, who has been in the termite control business for 12 years, the last two and one half years with Foremost Termite Control in San Rafael.

Pauley will serve primarily in Sonoma and Marin. He used the first three letters of each county for his company name — Son-Mar. The new company will be open five days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

DR. ROBERT V. DAHLSTROM of San Rafael was named director of research and development for Bio-Rad Laboratories of Richmond. Bio-Rad manufactures clinical diagnostic tests and high quality chemicals and instruments for research, medicine and industry.

Dr. Dahlstrom was formerly vice president of research and development for Bio-Technical Resources Inc. of Manitowoc, Wisconsin.

J. MICHAEL ANTHONY, senior deputy district attorney, has resigned from the Marin D.A.'s staff after seven and one half years to enter private practice.

He will be associated with Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna, and Claxon at 4340 Redwood Highway in the La Plaza Building at Northgate Industrial Park. Anthony and his wife left last Friday for a three-week vacation in Europe before he resumes his private law practice.

MARTIN P. WISE, assistant vice president and assistant manager of Crocker Bank's San Rafael main office, has been named assistant vice president-operations at the bank's Market-Jones office in San Francisco.

A native of San Rafael, Wise joined the First National Bank of San Rafael (which later became Crocker Bank) in 1954. In 1962, he was promoted to assistant manager of the Petaluma office.

He became operations officer at the San Rafael main office in 1968 and the following year was made assistant vice president and operations officer. He was promoted to assistant vice president and assistant manager in 1971.

NONI BELDEN ALLEN of Kentfield has joined the Greenbrae office residential sales staff of Frank Howard Allen & Co. Realtors. Mrs. Allen is active with Montessori School and Louise A. Boyd Science Museum ic San Rafael.

BART PASSERO and Jurgen F. Vahrenkamp, representing the Redwood Empire District of Prudential Insurance Co., San Rafael, are back from a business conference of leading underwriters held in Denver.

From 1964 to 1969, Bergsund lived in Glen Falls, N.Y., where he won several prizes in the community's annual art shows. He was charter president of Sight & Insight Inc., a nonprofit organization exhibiting in the Cannery in San Francisco.

MARY MONTES of Terra Linda has taken over as manager of Marin Motel at 4136 Redwood Highway in the Northgate area of San Rafael. She succeeded Mrs. Betty Heard, who had managed the motel for two years.

Mrs. Montes operated a beauty salon in San Anselmo for seven years until she sold out in 1966. She then moved to the East Bay and just returned to Terra Linda last month.

Review Set For Bus Payment

The Golden Gate Bridge District's claim that Marin County must pay $787,338 this fiscal year for local bus service will be reviewed by district and county officials on Thursday.

The meeting of the district's joint transportation and finance-auditing committees will be at 9:30 a.m. in toll plaza offices.

A sharply different county payment, $265,407, has been computed by the county's acting transit manager, James B. Robertson. The district's figure was based on a cost sharing formula reached between the county and district before operating experience showed it to be unfair to the county.

Also on the agenda is the issue of how much of the district's dwindling reserve should be preserved to prevent it from going broke or having too little left to meet unexpected costs. The staff has recommended a $5 million reserve, twice its projected total for any likely emergencies.

San Francisco Supervisor John Molinari has pushed for a $10 million reserve, $4 million under the estimated reserve at the end of this fiscal year.

The full board of directors will act at 10 a.m. Friday on bids to build the initial fleet of three new ferryboats. The low bid was almost $4.2 million more than the $7.8 million estimate.

Pacheco Ranch Plans Due Study

The Novato City Council will consider development plans for the Pacheco Ranch when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Novato community house.

The council postponed action on the matter last Tuesday in order to inspect the property on the west side of Highway 101 opposite Hamilton Air Force Base.

U.S. Development Co. plans for the 519-acre ranch include a professional and light industrial area adjacent to Highway 101, along with a motel, restaurant and convenience shopping area, and 650 to 700 clustered homes or townhouses on 138 acres in the valley to the west.

The remaining 381 acres would be deeded free to the city for parks and open space.

False Alarm Costs Time Getting To Fire

The San Rafael Fire Department received four false alarms in a little less than three hours last night.

One of the city's five fire engines was responding to a false alarm at Midway and Front streets at 9:06 p.m. when a brush and grass fire broke out at Robert Dollar Drive.

At 9:16 p.m., a false alarm was reported at Canal Street between Larkspur and Novato streets. At 10:32, there was another false alarm at Nova Albion Drive followed at 12:05 p.m. by one at 39 Trellis.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said it was just luck that last night's fire at Dollar Drive was easily contained as the engine lost at least three minutes turning around and getting there, he says.

Marcucci said the false alarms plaguing San Rafael are part of a nationwide problem.

The San Rafael Fire Department, with 150 alarm boxes throughout the city, receives an average of 16 to 25 false alarms each month, he says. In April, May and June, 75 false alarms were called in.

A false alarm is a misdemeanor and becomes a felony if a fireman is injured while responding. Fire officials have investigated rashes of false alarms and have staked out areas of high incidence, but no one has been caught, Marcucci said, adding that citizen cooperation is needed to combat the problem.

Marcucci urged anyone seeing a person acting suspiciously near an alarm box to obtain a description and,if possible, a license number. Anyone seeing a prankster pull a false alarm should notify fire officials.

Market Cattle Climb Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Marketing of fattened beef cattle will rise to a record in the second half of 1972, but total production of red meats will be just about equal to output in the same period last year, an Agriculture Department report has predicted.

"Expanding beef output and seasonally increasing pork production will dampen livestock prices later in the year, but very strong consumer demand will hold meat prices above a year earlier," economists said.

Tourist Out $28,000 In Marin Theft

A briefcase said to contain $28,000 in cash has been stolen from a Napa restaurateur who spent a night on the town in Tiburon.

The man, Lee Carbone, 56, reported that his briefcase was stolen last Thursday while he was staying at the Tiburon Lodge, police reported today.

Carbone, according to police, said he had carried his briefcase into a bar where he and his wife had drinks, and then to a restaurant, where they had dinner.

After returning to sleep at the Tiburon Lodge, Carbone was awakened after midnight by his wife saying that his briefcase had been taken, police reported.

Carbone told police he had been carrying the cash because he often cashes checks at his Napa restaurant. Police suspect the money was taken from his hotel room while the door was unlocked.

Pacheco Ranch Plan On Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider the master plan for development of 519 acres of the Pacheco Ranch, south of the city and west of Highway 101, at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The plans by U.S. Development Corp. provide for 650 to 700 housing units, offices, light industry and shopping area on 138 acres, with the remaining 381 acres for parks and open space.

Councilmen started review of the plans last week and visited the property yesterday.

Police Pursue Sports Cars In Tiburon Hills

With red lights flashing and sirens wailing, about half a dozen patrol cars chased two sports cars through almost eight miles of winding roads in Tiburon and Strawberry yesterday morning.

The driver of one of the Porsches, Peter Manfred Bucklin, 24, of Daly City, was cited by police for failure to stop at a stop light and yield to pursuing police officers, speeding, and lack of registration.

Police also stopped a second Porsche but did not cite the second driver. According to Belvedere police, officers were not sure the second Porsche was one of those involved in the chase.

Tiburon police said two Porsches were seen speeding down Tiburon Boulevard at about 2:30 a.m. yesterday. Patrol units from Belvedere, Mill Valley and the Marin County Sheriff's Department were called for assistance.

During an eight mile chase through the hills, the two sports cars lost the pursuing patrol cars, said police.

Moments later, a Porsche was stopped by a patrol car at a station on Tiburon Boulevard. While police tried to identify the car as one of the two they had been chasing, another Porsche approached the service station then made a sudden U-turn and headed back up Tiburon Boulevard, police reported.

Several patrol cars took off after the car and eventually stopped Bucklin near Blackfield Road.

Despite the fact that the first car's tires were smoking, police said they could not be sure it was one of the cars they had been chasing.

Freeway Projects For Tomorrow Are Announced

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow were announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Sections of freeway involved are:

1. North of Washington Street in Petaluma, outside northbound lane closed 6 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to permit slab replacement.

2. South of Richardson Bay Bridge, two outside northbound lanes closed 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. to permit paving.

3. Between Richardson Bay Bridge and Alto overcrossing, inside southbound lane closed 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to permit electrical work.

4. Between Golden Gate Bridge and Waldo Grade tunnel, outside northbound lane closed 8 a.m. to noon and two outside southbound lanes closed noon to 6 p.m., to permit paving.

Decrease Shown In Radiation

UPTON, N.Y. (UPI)—A limited study conducted at the Brookhaven National Laboratory shows that radiation levels in humans have decreased since 1963 when the treaty prohibiting atmospheric nuclear tests was signed.

Ten employes of the laboratory were tested once a month from 1960 to 1971 for the presence of cesium 137, a product of nuclear explosions which is present in fallout. Nine-hundred other employes were tested less frequently.

In the first year of the testing, the average value of cesium 137 was 37 picocuries for each gram of potassium in the body. A picocurie is a measure of radiation.

Open Space Bonds On Corte Madera Agenda

Corte Madera Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville will give a status report on his proposal for an open space bond program at tonight's meeting of the Corte Madera Town Council at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

Requests from two homeowners' associations will be considered; one, from the Christmas Tree Hill Homeowners association requests a building ban in their area because of recent fires, the other, from the Corte Madera Avenue Homeowners Association concerns traffic control.

Church Poll On IRS Harassment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Church of Scientology is polling more than 7,000 East Coast churchs of every denomination to determine if the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) practices "harassment" against churches involved in social action programs.

A church spokesman said Sunday confidential questionnaires have gone out to the East Coast churches following a similar poll on the West Coast sponsored by the Scientologists.

The church claims it has received numerous complaints that the IRS was investigating churches involved in such issues as the Vietnam War, poverty, housing and other social action programs.

'Fair Days' Meeting

The San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce will meet with the city's Country Fair Days committee at 8 p.m. Aug. 10 at Casper's La Siesta, 145 Tunstead Street, to discuss final plans for the Aug. 26 festival, Kenneth R. Ball, chamber president, announced.

51-Thousand Marin teachers are asleep!

This is the book that could wake them up.
Once you've read it, you may want to make some noise...

When Marin schools open this fall, 51-thousand specially qualified teachers will not teach. They'll go to class, but they will not teach.

It will be a waste of scandalous proportions. In human resources. In tax money. And above all —in quality of education. For these 51-thousand idle teachers already know the special capacities and motivations and eccentricities of their students better than anyone else in the world. Who are these sleeping teachers?

They are the students themselves—all 51-thousand of them—and each potentially his or her own best teacher!

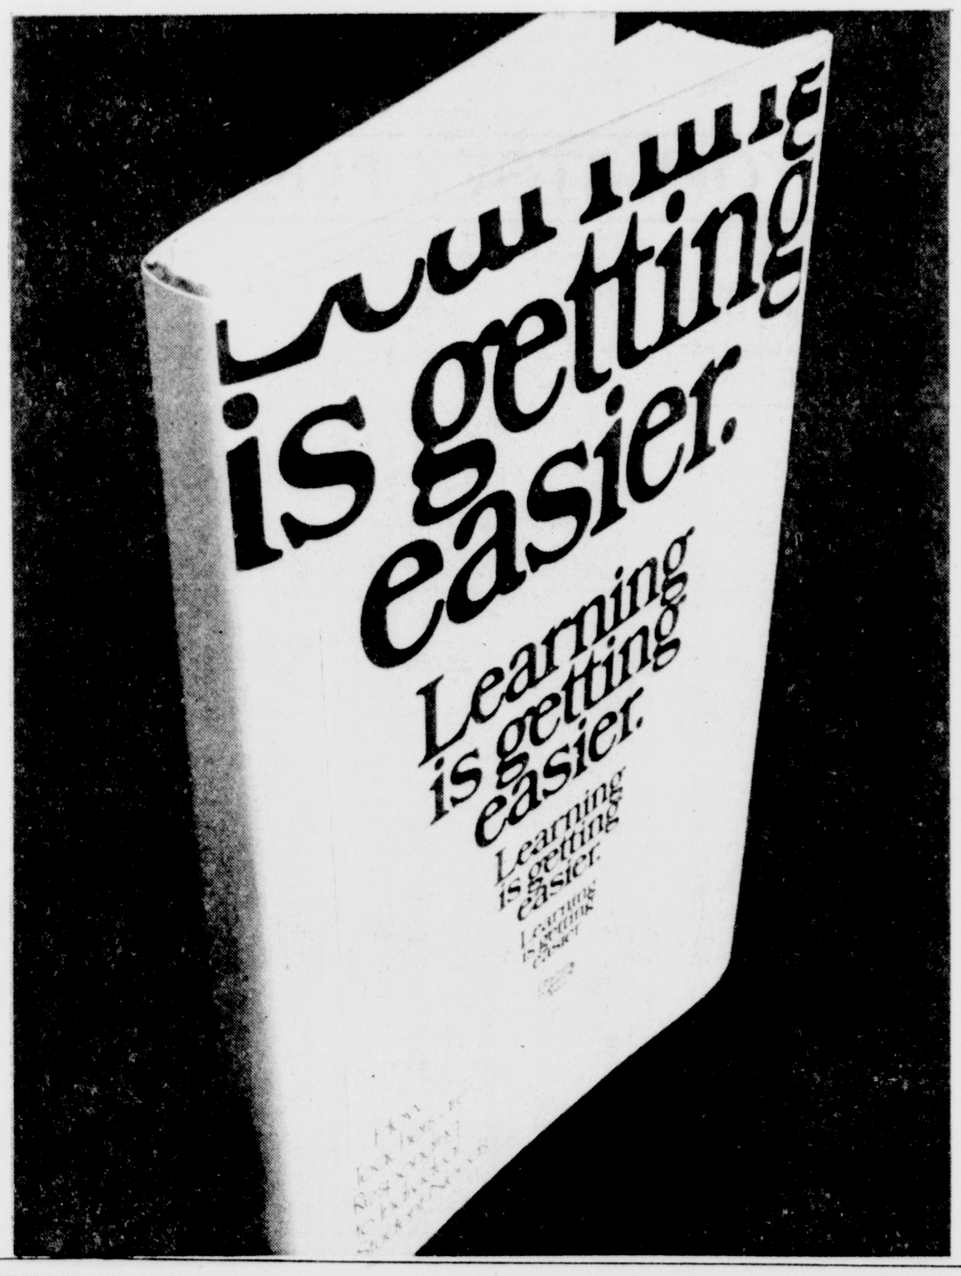

Academic baloney? Hardly.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans are self-teaching their way through school—at all levels—right now! (Not at home—but in class, on campus). In fact, at the college level alone, over 160 thousand young men and women—on 1,203 major campuses throughout the country—are self-pacing, self-teaching, and self-testing their way to straight A's! How did it all happen?

Thousands of instructors quietly introduced a revolutionary idea into their classrooms. Victimized for voicing important educational problems—criticized without being given answers—these instructors have now found and applied a potential solution for all schools. It is a new individual learning system.

Originally conceived to meet an isolated set of teaching problems, its extraordinary potential was almost immediately evident. And soon the system was spreading—from class to class and school to school. Today it is sending rumbles throughout the entire U.S. educational system. Because it works. Because it is compatible with the existing system. Because it is welcomed by both faculty and students.
